POLL INDICATES CLOSE VOTE ON NEUTRALITY ACT

Five Could Upset Pro-War Group.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Diagrams on page 5.)

Sen. La Follette.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—An informal poll of the senate today disclosed that the vote on repeal of the neutrality act will be far closer than claimed by administration leaders and that the switch of only four or five votes could result in defeat for President Roosevelt's proposal.

The poll was taken as the anti-war group hammered away for the third day of debate on the theme that sending armed merchant ships thru the submarine blockade will inevitably result in many sinkings and the loss of many American lives, precipitating this nation into Europe's war.

Senate spokesmen for the White House have been claiming 55 to 60 votes for the pending resolution which would permit arming ships and dispatching them to war zones.

Poll Shows 42 Opposed.

The poll indicated the maximum strength of the majority is 50 and that the noninterventionist group has mustered 42 votes thus far. This accounts for 92 senators, an average of four senators usually being absent from important votes.

Administration leaders privately concede their alarm at the probable closeness of the ballot and are preparing to go to work on several noninterventionist Democrats who might be "persuaded" to support the President. If it were not for the affirmative vote of several Republicans from eastern states, the pro-war forces would be in a serious fix.

Senators Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] and Robert M. La Follette [Prog., Wis.] represented the anti-war group today.

"In War Before Britain."

"The betting is 10 to 1 out west," said Nye, "that if this resolution passes, we will be in the war before Britain gets in."

There was laughter in the galleries, but Nye warned that the remark was not humorous. In comparison with many other nations, Britain hasn't begun to get into the war, he noted, presenting the following statistics, as of Sept. 15, of European casualties over a two year period:

	—Casualties—
Country.	Military.	Civilian.
Russia	2,585,000	230,000
France	2,365,000	15,000
Poland	1,675,000	250,000
Germany	1,282,000	15,000
Italy	252,000	Not given
Belgium	230,000	Not given
Jugo-Slavia	225,000	Not given
Netherlands	160,000	Not given
Great Britain	134,000	100,000

Nye ridiculed the argument that the United States should fight "for freedom of the seas."

"Churchill's face must have been exceedingly red when he said 'me too' to the eight points which were contrived on that excursion by two men in a boat a few weeks ago," he declared. "Because it was Churchill who wrote, after it was all over with the last time, that David Lloyd George had done the right thing in declining to grant freedom of the seas. Britain wants only sovereignty of the seas by and for Britain."

Argue "Who Fired First Shot."

Sen. Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.] entered the discussion when Sen. Scott Lucas [D., Ill.] and Sen. Robert A. Taft [R., O.] became embroiled in an argument over who "fired the first shot" in conflicts between American vessels and German submarines.

"It seems to me to be very material to observe," said Clark, "that all the shooting that has taken place took place after the President of the United States deliberately announced to the whole world that he had ordered the American navy to shoot on sight at the ships of a nation which is technically at peace with us."

"What we are faced with today is no pretty tale of how just a little help from us in the way of a few over-aged destroyers and perhaps a cannon or two will settle Mr. Hitler's hash for him and permit Britain to spread the four freedoms to Dong Dang and the whirling dervishes under our benign direction," Nye told the senate.

"The pending question is this and bluntly this:

"Shall America deliberately and

Seattle Bound Liner Crashes in Minnesota

Moorhead, Minn., Oct. 30 [Thursday] [Special].—Fourteen persons were killed here early today when a 21 passenger air liner crashed and burned shortly before it was to have landed at nearby Fargo, N. D. Only the pilot escaped. The cause of the crash was not learned.

One from Highland Park.

As nearly as can be learned only one of the passengers, L. E. Carr of Highland Park, was from Illinois. Carr was employed as a traffic representative of the airline.

The other known dead, according to the passenger list, are:

R. W. Ramsey, Canton, O.
— — Selup, Grand Forks, N. D.
— — Simonson, Grand Forks, N. D.
Ned Wells, Fargo, N. D.
Ed King, Fargo, N. D.
H. G. Klopp, Spokane, Wash.
— — Mitzger, New York City.
— — Lowell, Springfield, O.
— — Packard, Philadelphia, Pa., or Washington, D. C.
Bernice Blowers, the stewardess.
Alden Onsgard, first officer.

The pilot, Capt. Clarence Bates, was found wandering in a daze near the scene of the wreck, but his injuries, a hurried examination indicated, are probably not serious.

Two Other Victims Unidentified.

Airline officials said that two other passengers boarded the plane at Minneapolis. Their names were not immediately available.

The weather was misty at the time of the crash, which occurred a few moments after the big ship circled the Fargo airport twice, apparently preparatory to landing, then headed north. The plane smashed to earth about two miles from the airport and about a mile north of Moorhead.

Heard From Before Crash.

The crash scene is flat, prairie country and first arrivals on the scene said the plane apparently struck at an angle, then bounced about 100 yards before coming to rest. Capt. Bates seemingly was thrown clear before the plane caught fire.

Last contact with the ship was at 1:54 a. m. to Minneapolis, only a few moments before the tragedy. Seemingly the pilot was not experiencing any difficulty at that time.

Kearny First to Fire on U-Boat

STRUCK BY NAZI TORPEDO AFTER DROPPING BOMB

Knox Tells How 11 Men Lost Lives.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox tonight reported that the United States destroyer Kearny had been dropping depth charges on a German submarine in defense of a convoy of merchant vessels before being attacked and disabled by the U-boat on the morning of Oct. 17.

The Knox report was made in a formal statement issued without comment on the questions of international law involved. The statement followed the secretary's promulgation of plans for rigid wartime censorship on news of sinkings of German submarines, if any, by American warships. Knox said the navy will be guided by the same policy as "any other belligerent" and withhold information from the public on submarine sinkings.

Answers Distress Calls.

The official naval version of the attack said the Kearny was escorting a convoy of merchant ships late on the night of Oct. 16 when it received distress signals from another convoy under attack from several submarines.

The Kearny left its convoy and proceeded to the aid of the second convoy. The nationality of the vessels in either of the convoys was not made public, altho silence on the subject was taken as tacit evidence that the ships of the second convoy, at least, included British vessels.

"On arriving on the scene of the attack, the U. S. S. Kearny dropped depth bombs when she sighted a merchant ship under attack by a submarine," said the Knox statement.

"Some time afterward, three torpedo tracks were observed approaching the U. S. S. Kearny. One passed ahead of the ship, one astern, and the third struck the U. S. S. Kearny on the starboard side in the vicinity of the forward fire rooms."

Kearny First to Fire.

The secretary's statement indicated clearly that from the point of view of the submarine commander, the Kearny fired the first shot. In this connection the report paralleled that of the first sea incident involving a United States destroyer in the present European war.

Not until congress demanded a formal report of the attack early last month on the U. S. S. Greer was it learned that this American destroyer was fired on only after a British plane had dropped depth charges on the submarine, which the submarine commander could have assumed had been loosed by the American destroyer. The attack did not come until 3 hours and 28 minutes after the Greer had started trailing the submarine.

In releasing today's report, Knox did not wait for congress to ask who had begun the shooting, but took the initiative to reveal that the Kearny fired before she was struck by the U. S. Machines Rust in Russia, Observers Say

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEHERAN, Iran [Persia], Oct. 29.—Trainloads of American made machine tools are rapidly turning to rust on railway sidings after being exposed to the weather for weeks because Russia's transportation system is bogged down, according to foreign observers from Kuibyshev, temporary Russian capital, who arrived here today by plane.

Members of the party, which included officials of the British embassy, Maj. Ivan Yeaton, United States military attaché, now en route home, and two American newspaper men, told of seeing the stranded machinery on long lines of flat cars when they left Moscow for Kuibyshev in mid-October. The expensive machines, they stated, were without covering to protect them from sleet and snow.

Other Machinery Shipped In.

In addition, they said, similar American machinery was still being shipped to Moscow despite the fact that the city was being evacuated. New machines going into Moscow, they added, passed trains loaded with machinery from factories which were being dismantled and moved elsewhere.

Russian railroads, generally, they said, are in a state of "complete chaos."

The majority of those aboard the plane from Kuibyshev felt that it is only a question of time until Russia is conquered. One American described the Reds as "beaten, but not finished" and another said "they haven't a chance." They added, however, that the morale of the Reds is still high and there has been no talk of a separate peace.

Tell of German Fury.

The Germans, they said, are "hitting the Russians with everything." In one battle the Nazis were said to have used 3,000 planes. The Russian soldier, they said, is a good fighting man, but his equipment and leadership are inferior to those of the Germans.

The Red army was described as "too inflexible" to cope with Nazi blitz tactics. One of the reasons for this, it was said, is the fact that junior officers are not permitted to act on their own initiative.

"KEEP WAR AWAY"

President Roosevelt in an address on Sept. 11, 1940, said:

"I hate war now more than ever. I have one supreme determination—to do all I can to keep war away from these shores for all time. I stand with my party, upon the platform adopted in Chicago:

"'We will not participate in foreign wars, and we will not send our army, naval, or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside of the Americas, except in case of attack.'"

LAST NAZI LUXURY —TOBACCO—MAY GO UP IN SMOKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—The Germans are beginning to fear that their last luxury—tobacco—soon will be rationed. Tobacco thus far has enjoyed a free sale, limited only by the available stocks. However, new measures being introduced in the larger cities point to a rationing plan for the whole country.

Magdeburg, Frankfort, and Cologne are trying "control systems." Magdeburg has ordered registration for smoking permits, while on Nov. 5 Cologne tobacco shops will issue "smoke cards" but will require that purchasers first present their clothes cards to prove that they legitimately may register.

The aim of the "smoke cards," the Cologne authorities indicate, is to make certain that no one purchases cigarets in more than one shop on the same day. The card does not entitle the bearer to any specific quantity of tobacco, that being dependent on the stocks on hand. A similar measure probably will be introduced in Berlin soon.

A Forgetful Sleeper Naps in Wrong Bed

Steve Migala, who not only got out of bed on the wrong side yesterday morning but also got out of the wrong bed, didn't know whether to blame pixies or those 20 drinks. He didn't remember a thing about it, he told Judge John V. McCormick in Racine avenue court.

"I'm 24 years old and I live at 2012 Iowa street," he told the judge. "I'm going to be inducted into the army soon, so last night a friend and I went out to celebrate. I had 20 drinks, and then—blackout!"

Her Memory Is Vivid.

"His memory may be hazy, but mine is only too vivid," said Miss Stephanie Niewiarowski, 22, of 835 North Marshfield avenue. "I woke up early this morning, and there he was."

"Who?" asked Judge McCormick.

"This man," said the girl, pointing at Migala.

"Where?" the judge asked.

"In my bed," said Miss Niewiarowski, her face turning pink.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Niewiarowski, nodded confirmation. "She ran into our bedroom, screaming, 'Mama, there's a man in my bed!'" said the mother.

"What was he doing there?" queried the judge.

Again Her Face Changes.

Miss Niewiarowski said, "He was sleeping—in his underwear." Her face was no longer pink. It was red. "I never saw him before," she added.

The judge turned to Migala. "Well, what were you doing there?"

Migala shrugged sheepishly. "Search me, judge. Maybe I thought it was my friend's house next door, and just crawled in the window and went to bed."

Detective Frank Cronin intervened to remark that the girl's parents had summoned him and that it took ten minutes to rouse Migala from slumber.

The introduction of the 20 drinks in evidence being impossible, and Judge McCormick being a man who takes little stock in pixies, he continued the disorderly conduct charge against Migala until tomorrow and ordered the itinerant sleeper to bring his friend to court to explain things.

HOW THE TRIBUNE OBTAINED PROFIT SHEETS OF GANG

This is the story of the manner in which the secret records of the Guzik-Nitti-Humphreys-Vogel syndicate were obtained by THE TRIBUNE.

All the facts, including the names and addresses of witnesses, have been turned over to the state's attorney. Names of witnesses are omitted from this story to further the state's inquiry and to protect the persons who coöperated with THE TRIBUNE in bringing the facts to public and official notice. The secret records of the gambler gangsters show the syndicate's net income has been at the rate of $2,660,000 a year and that it has been paying at the rate of $300,000 a year to politicians, policemen, fixers, and public officials in Cook county as graft.

Gangster Makes a Mistake.

These records came into THE TRIBUNE's hands because a gangster—known as one of the cleverest members of the syndicate—made a mistake. This gang leader hid gangland's secret records in a place where he believed the law would never find them. Then he forgot them. But here is the story.

The tale begins several months ago when a couple living in a fashionable north shore hotel first became aware of their neighbor. He was a short, squat man who used the name of Goodman. Just before nightfall each day he would return to his apartment and would remain at home all night. He had many callers.

One of his callers came in a luxurious blue sedan. The hotel doorman nodded toward this man one day and told the neighbor couple, "He's a bigger gangster than your neighbor."

Referred to Jack Guzik.

A few days later the couple were talking to an employé of the hotel. The wife remarked that she would like to make a bet if she could be sure her information was correct.

"Why don't you ask Goodman?" the hotel man asked. "He's really Jack Guzik."

On Sept. 1, the woman left town to visit relatives. When she returned on Sept. 18, the hotel clerk greeted her.

"I hope you're not going to be inconvenienced," he said, "but we couldn't get your apartment redecorated while you were away. We're redecorating now, and we have moved your husband into Mr. Goodman's old apartment. Mr. Goodman has given up his lease."

The woman learned that her neighbor [Goodman] had left during the week of excitement that followed publication in THE TRIBUNE of a picture of Chief Lester Laird of the county highway police dining in the Drake hotel with William [Billy] Skidmore, reputed front for the gambling syndicate.

Laird Quits His Job.

That picture was published Aug. 22. It brought the resignation of Laird, and resulted in widespread discussion of the familiarity between law enforcement officials and the men they were supposed to be fighting.

The new and temporary residents of the "Goodman" apartment did no cooking in the apartment. Occasionally they made coffee, however. Several days after they moved in the woman brought home coffee cake to enjoy with the coffee. She opened the oven door to put the cake inside and found—

The secret papers of gangland.

There were five yellow sheets and a white one, held together with a rubber band. The papers were the records of the gang's operations for July, 1941—the records THE TRIBUNE has printed. One sheet was headed "Collectors." The other headings

POLICE CAPTAIN TAKES WRONG STREET CAR; THIS RESULTS IN RAID

Capt. Thomas J. Duffy of the Central police got on the wrong street car yesterday. He wanted to ride to the loop on State street, but the car turned west at Polk street and then north into Dearborn street.

The captain glanced into the window of a room at 721 South Dearborn street, jumped from the car, and ran inside. One hundred persons were there, making bets on the races. Capt. Duffy arrested the handbook keeper, sent him to the station, and continued on his journey.

COURTNEY GETS SECRETS OF BIG GAMBLING RING

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Secret records of the financial operations of the Guzik-Nitti-Humphreys gambling syndicate showing its profits for the month of July and its disbursements for graft and protection were turned over to State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney last night by THE TRIBUNE.

The papers came into the possession of this newspaper, and they were made public. This action, State's Attorney Courtney said, was a great public service. He expressed hope that it would lead to the smashing of the gang's power for all time. Based on the July profit figures the gang's revenue from slot machines and gambling dens in a portion of the county alone—outside the city—would amount to $2,660,000 after the payment of $300,000 to corrupt public officials.

Crime Commission Offers Aid.

Present with Mr. Courtney when the papers were brought to the prosecutor's office were his first assistant, Wilbert F. Crowley, and officials of the Chicago Crime commission.

All of them were familiar with the contents of the papers because photostatic copies of them had appeared in recent issues of THE TRIBUNE. The crime commission officials had called to offer their coöperation to the prosecutor in whatever action was to be taken, they said.

Courtney and Crowley asked the history of the documents insofar as it was known. This was furnished. The Tribune representatives told how the documents came into the possession of the newspaper and the steps taken to establish their authenticity.

Called a Startling Picture.

The prosecutors and the visitors agreed the papers were of great importance and that a startling picture was presented of how gangsters were accumulating great fortunes thru operations forbidden by law. The problem now, it was said, is to make the most of the papers in the preparation of evidence on which juries would send the persons responsible to the penitentiary.

State's Attorney Courtney made the following statement:

"The information published in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for the past few days relative to syndicated gambling operations in Chicago and Cook county was turned over to me today by representatives of THE TRIBUNE. In conjunction with Bertram Cahn, president of the Chicago Crime commission; Wilbert F. Crowley, my first assistant; Prof. Ernest W. Puttkammer, member of the crime commission, and Rudolph Dvorak, the commission's acting operating director, I went over the information submitted.

Hails Power of Publicity.

"It was concluded that the information as submitted was not sufficient in fact at this time to bring about successful prosecution, there being no one available as yet to take the stand and substantiate the information. However, I am very grateful to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for the exposé, as it focuses public attention on the gambling syndicate, its benefactors, and its protectors.

"Publicity directed against any illegal operation is a powerful force for good. Every effort will be made to fully investigate all angles and avenues suggested by the information in the hope that indictments can be secured. In the meantime, newspaper publicity directed against the public officials who have the legal power and police facilities to stop immediately the operation of the gambling syndicate and shut off its profits would also be a great public service. The coöperation of any one who can be of assistance in this important investigation will be welcome, and treated confidentially."

Tour Resorts in County.

Meanwhile Chief James Fleming of the county highway police, a staff of 125 uniformed men appointed by Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien, were making a tour of suspected gambling resorts in the county, outside Chicago. Sheriff O'Brien issued a statement that Chief Fleming, who has been in office as a county police official since September, was doing everything in his power to suppress gambling.

5 ALIASES BOB UP TO HAUNT BIOFF AT EXTORT TRIAL

Unionist Flounders in Web of Own Falsehoods.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 29.—Union Leader Willie Bioff, alias William Berg, alias Harry Martin, alias Morris W Bioff, alias William Bronson, and alias "Mr. Link," spent an uncomfortable day on the witness stand in Federal court today.

Under a hammering cross-examination at his trial on charges of extorting more than half a million dollars from the movie industry, Bioff became a stammering, faltering witness.

Bioff, questioned by United States Attorney Mathias F. Correa, was hard put to explain his hob-nobbing with Chicago gangsters, his masquerading under false names, his lying on the witness stand on previous occasions, and the falsification of such vital documents as a marriage license, passport application, and life insurance questionnaire.

"Trying to Smear Me!"

At one dramatic point the defendant lashed out at the prosecutor.

"You're trying to smear me!" he shouted.

Another individual in the crowded courtroom who took no enjoyment out of the day's spectacle was George E. Browne, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employés, and a co-defendant on the extortion charges. Browne, who appointed Bioff as his personal west coast representative, shifted nervously in his seat while the examination went forward.

'Messenger' Rôle.

Correa's attack was aimed at Bioff's own story to the effect that he had received "over a million dollars" from various movie executives but, acting only as a messenger, had delivered every cent to Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of 20th Century-Fox Film corporation. Schenck, who was recently convicted of income tax evasion, used the money to fight legislation adverse to the film industry, Bioff said.

Admitting he had not told the truth to special agents from the bureau of internal revenue and a Sacramento county grand jury in California during 1938, the defendant insisted he had tried to "protect" Schenck because his income tax payments were under government investigation at the time.

Prosecutor Corea asked Bioff if he was testifying under oath at the time of his misstatements and the witness mumbled he had been.

Lied to 'Protect' Schenck.

"Why did you tell a falsehood then?" asked Federal Judge John C. Knox.

"To protect Mr. Schenck," came the reply.

"Would you tell a falsehood to protect yourself?" inquired the judge.

"No, sir," said Bioff.

Bioff's self portrait as a great and good friend of labor and an untiring worker in the cause received a setback when it developed he had falsely represented himself before investigating bodies as a regular member of several locals within the IATSE, when he never had been.

At Correa's request, the defendant fished in his pockets and handed over three "union cards," one in local 2—the Chicago stagehands — and the other two in California movie studio locals.

They were solid gold, diamond studded cards, representing honorary membership in the unions "in token of services," and Bioff admitted he didn't have to pay dues.

Passing over Bioff's voluntary admission on direct examination that he and film officials used the pseudonym, "Mr. Link," in long distance telephone calls in order to dodge wire tappers, Correa succeeded in wringing other aliases from the man on the witness stand.

Bioff insisted he had never used an alias in order to avoid any investigation.

Explains Bronson Alias.

He stuck to this, altho Correa pointed out he had been arrested twice in Chicago in 1933 on disorderly conduct charges and used the name Harry Martin. The Bronson alias was employed in various hotels, Bioff claimed, so that he wouldn't be "hounded" by newspaper men.

Refreshing the defendant's beclouded memory, Correa showed Bioff a Chicago police bureau of identification picture. The defendant looked at it and identified himself as standing between "Sen. Adducci and a cousin of his." Later Correa identified the two men as the notorious Jimmy Adducci and Phillip Mangano, a brother of Dago Lawrence Mangano.

Bioff first denied being associated with Adducci and Mangano, but after being shown various papers his memory cleared to the extent that he had been associated with the pair "politically."

The flareup when the defendant accused the prosecutor of attempting to "smear" him came after Bioff announced he had been married only once and he was confronted with evidence of an earlier wedlock. His second wife was Mrs. Laura Nelson Stokes of Chicago.

Tell of First Marriage.

About all the information obtained on Bioff's first marriage was that the wife's name was Mary, a "very much older" person than himself, and the two had lived at 2134 West Adams street, Chicago. Bioff could not remember the date of the marriage, which took place in Peoria, Ill., but thought it was "some time during the World war." The first Mrs. Bioff died.

The defendant was next confronted with his application for a passport in 1938 when he took cruises to Rio de Janeiro and Europe. He listed himself as "Morris W. Bioff."

"Morris was my given name at birth and mother changed my name to William or Willie," glibly explained the witness.

Correa then thrust the naturalization certificate of his father, Louis or Lazarre Biofsky, under Bioff's nose. It was sworn out in the courts of Cook county in 1916 and set forth that Biofsky had a stepson, William, 20 years old, and a son, Morris, 17.

"Which one are you?" asked the prosecutor.

Bioff said his father had married again and if there were any other children he didn't know it.

Sticks to His Story.

"Isn't it true you assumed the identity of Morris in order to get this passport?" demanded Correa.

"My mother changed my name," mumbled Bioff. "All I know is what my parents told me."

From this point Correa went into Bioff's use of the name William Berg in Chicago from 1931 to 1936. He had apartment 2A at 1728 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, under the Berg alias from 1931 to 1936.

Bioff claimed he used the name because the renting agent he dealt with had a relative named Berg and thru some sort of union connections, which were not fully revealed, he saved $30 a month on his rent thru the subterfuge.

A Picture Out of Bioff's Past

This Chicago police identification picture, taken in 1931, was introduced yesterday in the trial of Willie Bioff in New York on a charge of extorting more than half a million dollars from the movie industry. It shows Bioff standing between James Adducci (left) and Phillip Mangano. The three men were among several suspects arrested a decade ago for questioning in connection with the investigation of a movie theater bombing war.

ORDNANCE WORKER KILLED.

Burlington, Ia., Oct. 29 (AP).—B. W. Sylvester, 43, father of seven children, was killed today at the Iowa ordnance plant here. Sylvester, an electrician, was reported as working on a conveyor when the conveyor started moving. His head was caught between the conveyor and a ramp.

CARNEGIE PLANT HERE WILL BE HARD HIT IF STRIKE IS PROLONGED

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation will be the hardest hit of any of the Chicago area steel producing companies if the strike of miners at captive mines is prolonged, a survey showed yesterday. If the strike lasts a week operations at the Gary and South works of Carnegie-Illinois, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, will be reduced from 100 to 90 per cent of capacity. So far the company has not banked any of its blast furnaces.

The Inland Steel company gets its coal from commercial mines and is not affected by the strike. The Youngstown Sheet and Tube company gets a part of its coal from commercial and a part from captive mines. Youngstown has not been affected so far. The Wisconsin Steel works, a part of the International Harvester company, gets coal from its own captive mine in Illinois. This mine is manned by Progressive Mine Workers who belong to the American Federation of Labor and are not affected by the strike of the United Mine Workers of America. The Republic Steel corporation also gets its coal from commercial mines.

REOPEN MINES, PRESIDENT ASKS OF LEWIS AGAIN

Directs Mediation Board to Speed Decision.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—President Roosevelt today again requested immediate reopening of the soft coal mines operated by steel companies and instructed the full national defense mediation board to make a final decision on the dispute.

The President made the appeal personally to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and Myron C. Taylor, representing the steel companies, at a White house conference lasting an hour and 45 minutes this afternoon.

Lewis' reaction to the President's demands was not made public, but it was announced he had agreed to call together district representatives of the union tomorrow to consider the White House request to have miners return to work pending mediation of the dispute. Lewis previously had refused to consider reopening the mines during mediation.

Makes Letter Public.

Simultaneously, the President released a letter in which he instructed William H. Davis, chairman of the national defense mediation board, to take over a final settlement of the case.

The President's letter to Davis was as follows:

"I have asked the United States Steel corporation, and the United Mine Workers of America, if they will immediately reopen the mines, on the understanding that the national defense mediation board will proceed in full session to consider the merits of the dispute and make its final recommendations. It is understood that neither party is committed in advance to the acceptance of the final recommendations.

"You have informed me that the full board is meeting on Friday, and will be prepared to consider the matter continuously until it makes its final recommendations."

Confer First At Hotel.

Lewis, Taylor, and Davis had gone to the White House at 2:54 p. m., Chicago time, after conferring behind locked doors at the Mayflower hotel since 9 a. m. The President had conferred with Taylor and Davis at the White House last night concerning the captive mines shutdown.

Taylor said after today's conference that he was in complete agreement with the President's request, but Lewis declared that the mines will remain closed pending his union's decision at tomorrow's conference. Lewis was believed, however, to have sufficient control over the union to dictate the decision himself.

The dispute is over efforts of Lewis to have the mine operators accept a closed shop agreement. Meanwhile, 53,000 miners have been on strike since Monday morning on Lewis' orders despite three previous appeals from Mr. Roosevelt to keep the mines running which Lewis had ignored.

Considers Anti-strike Act.

While Lewis and Taylor were conferring at the hotel the President was weighing recommendations for anti-strike legislation agreed upon yesterday with legislative leaders after the issue of strikes in defense industries created a furor on Capitol Hill and threatened to complicate the current senate consideration of neutrality act revisions. Anti-strike amendments to the neutrality revision bill were proposed and senators demanded action.

This sentiment continued unabated today as Lewis and Sidney Hillman, associate director general of the Office of Production Management in charge of labor operations, were attacked in the senate.

Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations on labor legislation are expected to be sent to congress by tomorrow night. Most probable demands are for a compulsory "cooling off" period for mediation in industrial disputes before a strike can become effective.

There are demands also that the government take over operation of the mines, but the President is said to feel doubtful of his powers in this respect and probably would request specific authorization from congress for such action.

GREEN OPPOSES LAW TO 'PENALIZE' LABOR AFTER COAL STRIKE

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said yesterday in Chicago that the AFL will oppose legislation designed to break the strike in captive coal mines called by John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers of America.

"The American Federation of Labor will oppose any attempt to penalize labor because of the actions of some irresponsible person in the labor movement," Green declared.

He did not mention Lewis by name. Green left for Washington on the Capitol Limited of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. He was returning from the recent federation convention in Seattle, Wash., after stopping for a few days in Los Angeles, Cal.

Armed Pair Rob Motorist of $280 and His Car

Lawndale police are searching for two men, one armed with a shotgun, the other with a pistol, who last night entered an automobile driven by Harold Mortell, 750 Root street, when he stopped for a traffic light at Central Park and Ogden avenues. The pair forced Mortell to drive to Keeler and Ogden avenues, took $280, ordered him out, and drove away in his car.

SHOES
make the ensemble

How to find the smartest styles and best values

Is it smarter fashion to wear shoes which match your coat or those which match your furs? What shades of brown and tan are the most popular? Have you seen the new "all day" shoes in colored alligator? Will many of the dressy shoes have three-inch heels? What new styles are shoe retailers showing which complement the chic of your smartest afternoon ensemble? New styles, new colors, new leathers and new fabrics make this year's showing of shoes one of the most delightful in years. To make sure you overlook no worthwhile fashion or value, read the shoe advertising in the Chicago Tribune, which prints more women's shoe advertising than any two other Chicago newspapers combined.

FORT SHERIDAN TO GIVE GIANT MILITARY SHOW

Display Opens Tomorrow, Ends Sunday Night.

Marching men and booming guns will attract thousands of visitors to Fort Sheridan this week-end when more than 6,000 soldiers of the army post give a three day military show.

Dress parades, exhibits, and demonstrations of the latest war weapons, band concerts, and aerial acrobatics are planned for entertainment of an expected 50,000 persons when the big anti-aircraft training center throws open its 728 acres and 718 buildings for public inspection tomorrow, Saturday, and Sunday.

Special reviews will be given twice daily, at 2 and 8 p. m., on the post parade grounds, after which the army's heavy guns will go into action on the beach below Gordon Johnson field. Between shows visitors may inspect all types of army equipment manned by skilled soldiers.

Chance to See Modern Army.

"This will be the largest show of its kind ever presented in the midwest," Col. F. C. Rogers, post commander, said yesterday. "It will afford our citizens a rare chance to see the modern army at close range."

Latest defense weapons against aerial raiders will be demonstrated by picked men from the 40th coast artillery brigade twice a day. At night 800 million candle power searchlights will pick out targets towed far behind airplanes 10,000 feet above the lake front while gunners blast away with .50 and .30 caliber anti-aircraft machine guns.

Three hundred men from the 19th field artillery and a heavy weapons company of the 11th infantry, both from Fort Custer, Mich., will fire 81 mm. and 75 mm. guns at targets anchored in the lake.

Covers Intermediate Zone.

Other soldiers will man the 37 mm. automatic cannon, used for anti-aircraft or anti-tank defense, which fires a 1¼ pound tracer and explosive projectile approximately two miles into the air and can be operated at the rate of 120 shots a minute. This weapon covers the intermediate zone in the sky not blanketed by fire of the machine guns or the 3 inch anti-aircraft gun.

The 3 inch anti-aircraft gun weighs 7½ tons and is towed by a 7 ton truck. Its 39½ pound shell can be shot more than five miles into the air and is considered the army's foremost ground defense against high flying bombers.

Sound locators, height finders, and directors, as well as other anti-aircraft equipment will be on display.

Protection of a truck column on the march by reconnaissance cars, trucks, and small arms will be demonstrated by Battery C, 61st coast artillery regiment. Anti-tank defense will be shown by Battery H, 210th coast artillery regiment.

Vehicles to Be Displayed.

Long lines of army trucks, including jeeps and blitz buggies, a post hole digger, field kitchens, signal corps equipment, and tents will be on display along the parade ground. The school for bakers and cooks will pass out samples of army food at the field kitchen.

Proceeds from the 50 cent admission charge will go to the Army Relief society, formed by civilian women to care for the families of deceased soldiers, Col. Rogers said. Fourteen large parking lots on the grounds have a capacity of 6,000 cars.

Fort Sheridan is 27 miles north of Chicago, between Highland Park and Lake Forest, on route 42.

MANTENO EX-INMATE ENDS LIFE.

The body of Norman Reynolds, 57 years old, 6120 Dorchester avenue, was found yesterday in a corn field near the Manteno State hospital, near Kankakee. Coroner Ed Madison said Reynolds had committed suicide by cutting his throat. Reynolds escaped from the institution Sept. 12.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each timely, interesting question submitted by a reader and used in this column.]

The Question.

Where Asked.

The Answers.

Mrs. Mae Wright, housewife, 1005 East 55th street—That's the time I like to use to have my nails manicured. Sitting under the dryer for very long periods of time usually makes me too drowsy to concentrate on reading or any other mental work. It's just relaxing enough so I'm very patient with the manicurist.

Miss Margaret Gottlieb, beauty operator, 5337 Kimbark avenue—If my position is reasonably comfortable I find the heat and hum of the dryer so relaxing that it's difficult to concentrate on anything but a bit of slumber. And so I sleep. I never count sheep any more—on sleepless nights—just imagine myself under the dryer. It works.

Mrs. Neil Curry, housewife, 5416 Ridgewood court—I think I make very good use of my time. Each week I crochet a block to add to my collection of blocks for a crocheted bed spread. At this rate, it'll take me several years to make one, but that's still making better time than if that hour wasn't set aside for that purpose.

Mrs. Freida Van Etten, housewife, 5228 Woodlawn avenue—It's one hour of complete, uninterrupted relaxation spent in reading two magazines that I wouldn't ordinarily read. And it's easy to relax and concentrate because I know there'll be no doorbells or telephones to answer. I look forward to this period of rest every week, and I'm sorry it doesn't last longer.

Mrs. E. W. Jacob, housewife, 6840 Perry avenue—It makes me quite uncomfortable to sit under a dryer for long periods of time, so I usually try to concentrate on something else of vital importance—like menus for the next day. But one sitting rarely lasts from cocktail to dessert. It's planned the same way it's served: in courses!

Miss Marion Smith, secretary, 5220 Kenwood avenue—Once a week, while under the hair-dryer, I write one long letter. The humming noise seems to shut me and my letter in a separate world. When my hair is dry and the machine is turned off, my letter's finished. My friends back in the small home town like my hair-dryer letters best of all.

HOW THE TRIBUNE OBTAINED SECRET PAPERS OF GANG

Gambling Syndicate Chief Makes a Mistake.

Read of Guzik in Papers.

For a week the finders were mystified by the detailed records of the gang. Then they read in the papers that Jack Guzik was identified with Frank Nitti, one of the Capone overlords, and recalled that they had been told that Goodman's real name was Guzik.

The woman, out walking her dog a short time afterward, passed a night club. She told the doorman she had some of Jack Guzik's papers and asked if he thought Guzik might want them. The doorman said he did not know, but might be able to find out.

A few afternoons later a stranger telephoned the woman. He said that "that party" wanted the papers and would pay her a $500 reward for them.

She informed her husband. He told her that if the papers were the possessions of gangland, and worth a $500 reward, he wanted nothing more to do with them.

Tell Tribune Employé.

That same day the couple met a Tribune employé whom they had known for 15 years. They told him of the strange circumstances.

The Tribune employé carried the story to his office and returned later with one of the newspaper's reporters. The couple were persuaded to come into The Tribune office where they repeated the story. It was from the couple that THE TRIBUNE obtained the records.

The records told an amazing altho an unverified story. The reporters set to work. From independent sources and by painstaking work the authenticity of the papers was proved.

Then, and not until then, did THE TRIBUNE print gangland's secret papers—the papers that gangland hid in an oven and forgot.

DIVORCEE TELLS COURT HOW SHE KILLED NEIGHBOR

Berryville, Va., Oct. 29. (AP).—Miss Marie Pierce, 26 year old blonde society farmer, testified in Clarke county Circuit court today that she shot Louis Townsend Moreland, a neighbor, on the night of March 18, only after he had refused to leave her home and had threatened her.

Testimony of the divorcee, daughter of Walworth Pierce, a Boston importer, on trial on a charge of slaying Moreland, was in direct conflict with a purported deathbed statement by Moreland that he was shot as he started to leave her home.

The defense rested late today after Miss Pierce had spent nearly two hours on the stand. Instructions to the jury will be prepared tomorrow.

Miss Pierce testified that Moreland had been drinking the day of the shooting and when she entered her home she found Moreland in her kitchen. She asked him to leave, she said, but he refused. Following an argument the shooting occurred.

BRIDE OF A DAY SHOT IN BACK; YOUTH IS HELD

Whitman, Mass., Oct. 29 (AP).—A 17 year old girl, married last night on the eve of her birthday, was shot in the back tonight after she fled from her car and escaped the first blast from a shotgun. At a nearby Brockton hospital Mrs. Grace Hayward Vera's condition was described as fair.

Special Officer W. Leo Welch said Mrs. Vera had halted her automobile in front of a store in the town square when the shooting occurred. She fled toward the store after the first shot was fired at the car, he said, and was hit while she was a few feet from the building. Police questioned a youth arrested near the scene.

Mrs. Helen Turner said her sister had been married yesterday in Middleboro to Lawrence Vera, 21, a machinist of Uncasville, Conn.

F. D. R. Talk Rouses Pastors; Proof of War Intentions: Wood

Blasts 'Cajolery'

Gen. Robert E. Wood, acting national chairman of the America First committee, said yesterday that President Roosevelt's Navy day address "is final proof that the administration intends to take us into war as soon as it can possibly frighten or cajole the public into it."

"The test comes," said Gen. Wood, "with the proposed revision of the neutrality law, which would send our ships into the war zones. Already America First chapters report that the tide of opposition to this warlike move is rising thruout the country. This is one proposal which cannot be disguised as a step away from war—it is deliberately designed to thrust us in.

Recalls Two Greer Reports.

"The President's refusal to submit for public inspection the presumed Nazi documents, which he described with such emphasis in his Navy day address, does not contribute to public confidence.

"The American people recall too well what happened when the President's message describing the Greer incident was subject to comparison with the actual facts as contained in the report of the navy department. If the President's description of the documents he referred to is as accurate as his statement on the Greer, it is not surprising that he chooses to keep these documents from public scrutiny.

Cites Convoy Mission.

"This aspect of the President's speech is no more disturbing than certain other statements contained in it. For instance, the President has thrust upon the American people a new interpretation of the word 'attack.' The Kearny, we now learn, was engaged in convoy duty, protecting delivery of goods to a belligerent.

"As the President had previously told us, 'convoys mean shooting, and shooting means war.' In accordance with this prediction, the Kearny was struck with a torpedo, yet the President now uses this invited incident as a pretext for claiming that even Illinois and California have been attacked."

Call Speech Belligerent

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Renewed protest against the administration's war policy was urged in a letter yesterday to 2,200 members of the Ministers' No War committee, by Dr. Charles F. Boss Jr., secretary of the committee and head of the Methodist Commission on World Peace. Dr. Boss inclosed in the letter to the pastors a telegram to President Roosevelt, protesting his war speech of Monday.

"I reluctantly must express my profound regret over the belligerent, warlike tones in your address before the Navy league, and protest the implications which are bound to be read into your world-wide broadcast," Dr. Boss' telegram to the President stated.

"Edging Into War."

"I am utterly opposed, as I believe are the majority of citizens, to the continued steps by which the interventionists are edging the United States into an all out, shooting war," the telegram continued. "I appeal to you to create a permanent commission on mediation seeking an early and just end to this war.

"Surely, Mr. President, God has a higher and more far reaching contribution which the United States can make than the participation in further destruction, bloodshed, and loss of freedom."

In the letter to the No War pastors, Dr. Boss said that it had been determined at a conference of leading clergymen to bring all possible support to senators and congressmen who are fighting modification of the neutrality law.

"Leave No Hope."

"The tone and content of the President's address leave no hope that he considers present steps the means of keeping the United States out of war," the letter stated.

"A fairly large number of senators are determined to fight the war movement to the bitter end. They should have our hearty support. Nor should we cease giving our support to members of the house of representatives. Should the senate pass the present bill including the elimination of sea zones, the bill will need be referred bac kto the house."

AMERICA FIRST UNIT COMPLAINS ON RADIO TIME

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—The Federal Communications commission said today that Chairman James Lawrence Fly had received a telegram from the executive committee of the New York chapter of the America First committee, complaining that it had been unable "to secure adequate air facilities" for a meeting tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden.

The committee said the only space offered for a speech by Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.] was "a very limited network at an hour too late for the meeting."

The telegram added that "no space had been offered for speeches by Charles A. Lindbergh and former Ambassador John Cudahy."

Fly sent a telegram to the networks saying that he would "appreciate receiving from you" a statement of facts as to how the matter had been handled by them.

CANADA GRANTS OUSTED PANAMA PRESIDENT ENTRY

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 29 (AP).—Arnulfo Arias, deposed president of Panama, has applied for permission to enter Canada, and the Canadian government has approved the application subject to certain conditions, an authoritative source said today.

Arias is now in Nicaragua. Canadian sources said the government had not been advised whether its conditions allowing residence here have been accepted.

They indicated the government decided that since Arias was suspected of pro-totalitarian leanings, it would be better to allow him to live where he could do no damage to the allied cause. Canada, they pointed out, has facilities for watching and controling undesirable activities.

EMPLOYE SEIZED FOR SABOTAGE ON MARTIN BOMBERS

Charge Youth Cut Wires and Tubes in Planes.

M. W. Etzel.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 29 (AP).—Michael William Etzel, 22 year old employé of the Glenn L. Martin Airplane company, was arraigned today on charges of sabotage. According to E. A. Soucy, special agent in charge of the Baltimore bureau of the Federal Bureau of Investigation who arrested him, Etzel admitted cutting electrical circuits and battery drain-off tubes on Martin B-26 bombers in the plant where he has been employed since August, 1939. The bombers are being built for the war department.

Soucy asserted Etzel made this statement to FBI and company officials.

"I feel that German people are all right and that everything is the fault of the German government, not the people themselves, and I did not want these planes we were making at the Martin plant to be used against the German people, so I damaged the ships."

Etzel was arraigned before United States Commissioner James K. Cullen, and held on a charge of violating the sabotage statute, filed by United States Attorney Bernard J. Flynn. Cullen entered a plea of innocent for Etzel and set another hearing for next Wednesday. He told Etzel he did this to "give you every opportunity to defend yourself." Commissioner Cullen set bail at $25,000, which Etzel said he could not raise.

Still wearing the leather jacket, worn brown trousers and paint-spattered shoes in which he was arrested yesterday by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Etzel fumbled as he related to court that:

He is a native Baltimorean, married and with "a baby on the way." His mother is dead; his father and other relatives are in Germany. Somehow he thought he was trying to protect them. The fact his alleged acts might endanger Americans struck him only after his arrest.

Find "Heil Hitler" Card.

Soucy, declaring that Etzel's was the first such case in this vital defense area, said his implication "was the outgrowth of a check being made to determine the identity of the individual responsible for a cardboard sign of "Heil Hitler" found in one of the B-26 bombers.

The FBI agent added "the investigation leading to his arrest was the report of a series of wire cuttings starting early in July, 1941, of vital electrical circuits and more recently the cutting of battery drainoff tubes.

NAVY WILL USE NEWSPAPER ADS TO RECRUIT MEN

An advertising campaign aimed at increasing navy recruiting in Illinois will begin Nov. 17 in more than 600 daily and weekly newspapers in towns of under 50,000 population thruout the state, it was announced yesterday. The advertisments will be spread over a 12 week period and will cost the navy an estimated $300,000.

Rear Admiral Nimitz.

Lieut. David N. Goldenson, in charge of navy enlistment in the Chicago area, said it is expected that the advertisments will increase the number of recruits materially. "We hope to be recruiting 15,000 men a month thruout the country by next June, because we need that many as we put new ships into service," Goldenson said.

A group of downstate newspaper publishers will meet tomorrow in La Salle to plan for their advertising allotments. Another group will meet Saturday in Centralia. The meetings were called by the Illinois Press association.

Rear Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, chief of the bureau of navigation, United States navy, reviewed naval units at the Great Lakes Naval Training station yesterday. He is in Chicago on a two day tour of inspection of naval units. Before leaving for Lincoln, Neb., today, Admiral Nimitz will inspect the naval training school at Navy pier, the midshipmen's school at Abbott hall, Northwestern university, and the naval ROTC unit at Northwestern.

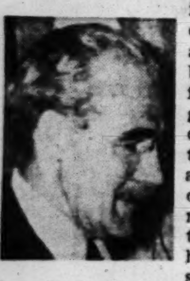
FURTHER DOUBTS CAST ON REPUTED NAZI DOCUMENTS

Report 'Map' F.D.R. Cited Described Last June.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—Amid charges that Mr. Roosevelt is fomenting war by deceitful means as Bismarck did by doctoring the famous Ems telegram, further doubt was cast today upon the authenticity of of the two documents whereby the President in his Navy day speech sought to establish the Nazi menace to the United States and to established religion.



Amos R. E. Pinchot.

One document was a "secret map made in Germany," as the President described it, showing South America and Panama divided into "five vassal states." The fact that the map included the Panama canal the President offered as proof of Hitler's intention to attack the United States.

The other document, "made in Germany by Hitler's government," set forth a plan to abolish all existing religions and substitute an international Nazi church with Hitler's "Mein Kampf" replacing the Bible. It transpired yesterday that this document, published by the Christian Science Monitor on Oct. 22, is a proposal of Alfred Rosenberg, Nazi ideologist, which there is no evidence the Nazi government has adopted.

Described Last June.

The "secret map," it transpired today, was described by Harold Callender in a Buenos Aires dispatch to the New York Times, published last June 17. Attributing its origin to South American Nazis, he called it "an elaborate scheme, worked out here if not approved in Berlin, to redraw the map of South America to eliminate some of the smaller countries and so smooth the way for the new order." He outlined the proposed division of the continent into five regions, with Panama restored to Colombia.

"This plan," said Callender, "has been discussed, at least tentatively, by some Nazis."

Mr. Roosevelt declined yesterday to make either document public because to do so, he said, would expose the source of his information.

Pinchot Assails President.

With anti-interventionists condemning the President for magnifying such flimsy "documentary evidence" into a casus belli, Amos R. E. Pinchot, noted New York attorney and brother of ex-Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, went even farther. He likened Mr. Roosevelt's misrepresentation of the Greer incident to Bismarck's trick to precipitate the Franco-Prussian war.

"In July, 1870," wrote Pinchot in an open letter to the President: "just prior to the outbreak of the Franco-German war, at a moment when relations between the two countries were exceedingly strained, Chancellor Bismarck, who wanted war for his own political reasons, falsified and gave to the press the text of a telegram he had received from the king of Prussia, describing the progress of the international negotiations at Ems.

"This garbled text, generally referred to as the 'Ems telegram,' making it seem that negotiations had been abruptly broken off, which was not the case, and that the French ambassador and Prussian king had been grossly insulted, inflamed the press and enraged both the German and French peoples."

Refers to Greer Attack.

Then Pinchot tells how on July 15 France, frenzied by the doctored telegram, declared war on Germany.

Citing what he treated as a current parallel of Bismarck's trickery Pinchot said that Mr. Roosevelt's misrepresentation in his Sept. 11 broadcast of the attack on the United States destroyer Greer "so generally inflamed the country, and congress in particular, that the advocates of war, up to that hour downcast and even desperate, suddenly became confident."

"I tell you," said the President in that broadcast, "the blunt fact that the German submarine fired first upon this American destroyer without warning and with deliberate design to sink her."

Pinchot compared this account with the report of the incident obtained from the navy department by the senate naval affairs committee. The department report said that the Greer, notified by a British airplane of the presence of a submarine 10 miles distant, took up the chase and followed the submerged U-boat for 3½ hours. The submarine then fired two torpedoes which missed their mark and the Greer discharged 11 depth bombs. Contact with the submarine was then lost, it not being known whether the craft had been sunk or disabled.

In 'Conflict with Facts.'

"In a word, Mr. President," said Pinchot, "the story of the Greer, as carried to the people in your Sept. 11 broadcast, was not factual. It was in direct conflict with the facts. The Greer was not proceeding on a 'legitimate mission' of carrying mail to Iceland when the torpedoes were launched.

"She was, and for hours had been, tracking the U-boat with intent either to destroy it herself or coöperate with the British in doing so. Nor in any honest sense can it be said that 'the blunt fact' was that the submarine fired first, 'without warning.'

"In a way, your broadcast about the Greer incident was perhaps worse than the Ems telegram. For, while Bismarck acted on the spur of the moment, altering and publishing it in its changed form the same day he received it, you made your broadcast a week after the Greer's brush with the submarine, and had ample time to digest the facts."

consciously go all the way into a shooting war, perhaps upon two oceans, or shall it not?

"That question has no trimmings and no qualifying phrases to go along with it. It is a question of war or no war; war with its inevitable AEF and its inevitable slaughter, or no war, with an America pursuing the independent destiny which it can so readily achieve, beholden to no one, afraid of nothing.

La Follette recalled that Woodrow Wilson won reëlection to the Presidency in 1916 on the slogan "He kept us out of war."

"A few short months after that election had been won congress was asked to grant to the then President the power to arm merchantmen," he continued.

"Very shortly thereafter the President asked congress for a declaration of war and it was constitutionally voted.

La Follette then drew the parallel of President Roosevelt winning a third term last year upon numerous professions of an intention to keep the nation out of the war. The President now asks for the arming of ships, he noted, and if the same sequence of events follows, he will be asking for a war declaration in the not distant future.

The Wisconsin senator said the "war party" in the United States has overlooked several details. One was the "economic decline of the British Empire," he said.

"It is no longer a paying economic unit," he told the senate, "and if we engage in this partnership which is envisioned in the repeal of the neutrality act we not only will have to furnish the man power to secure the military victory necessary to achieve this objective but thereafter we will have to give economic transfusions to the British Empire to keep it a going concern.

Chance of Separate Peace.

"Another hard fact which I think the war party overlooks is the possibility of separate peace upon the part of these nations that we are asked to join. Today most nations are forced to determine policy on a basis of self-interest and military necessity.

"One of the tragedies of the policies of the war party is that they have turned their backs upon the real problems at stake in the world today and seek to solve them by a made adventure in a military way 3,000 miles from our shores."

ARMY TAKES OVER SHIP ONCE USED BY BORDEN FOR ARCTIC CRUISES

Boston, Mass., Oct. 29 (AP).—The army took over the Boston pilot schooner Northern Light today for use on an unannounced mission.

The 120 foot, 247 ton craft was built in Oakland, Cal., in 1927. She was sheathed in ironwood and designed to cope with ice.

The ship was built for John Borden, Chicago milk magnate, who used it for arctic expeditions. In 1927 he took eight Chicago Boy Scouts on a journey to collect arctic fauna for the Field museum.

His sister, Mrs. Joyce Borden Balokovic, wife of the noted violinist, bought the craft, and in July, 1932, completed a 35,000 mile round the world cruise.

WEDDING BELLS STILL RINGING OUT WARTIME RECORDS IN ENGLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Britain is experiencing a wartime wedding boom.

Vital statistics issued tonight show that in the first 13 weeks of this year 80,719 weddings took place in this country. Altho this figure represents a decrease of 28,073 compared with the corresponding quarter of the year before, it is still 26,458 more than the average for the first quarters of the five years preceding 1940. The increase is attributed largely to the calling of men for war service.

Official statistics also show a fall in births and deaths. In the first quarter of this year births numbered 147,020, or 7,325 less than for the same period last year. Deaths totaled 178,647, representing a drop of 26,336.

PROVE IT! NAZIS CHALLENGE F. D. R. ABOUT HIS MAP

BERLIN, Oct. 29 (AP).—German spokesmen, still fuming over President Roosevelt's Navy day speech, challenged the President today to produce a map which he said revealed German aspirations in South America.

If such a map exists the spokesmen challenged the President to prove it authentic. Authorized Germans studied recently published maps of South America and speculated whether the President referred to any of these.

TOKIO, Oct. 30 [Thursday]—(AP).—The Japanese press campaign of criticism of American activities rose to a new pitch today, with the paper Kokumin declaring that "Japanese interests in the South Pacific are under immediate danger and necessary steps must be taken promptly." It urged "protection of Japan's interests and power" in that regions because of what it called a hostile economic blockade by the United States, Britain, and the Netherlands Indies.

GERMANY LOSES 120,000 MEN AT KHARKOV—REDS

Admit Fall of City; Vital Plants Moved First.

MOSCOW, Oct. 30 [Thursday] (AP).—The Red army acknowledged evacuation of the great Ukrainian industrial city of Kharkov today, but said most of its important factories and huge stocks of raw materials were moved out before the city was abandoned.

A total of 120,000 German officers and men were killed or wounded by Red defenders who held the Kharkov lines while the industrial plants were taken to the rear in the "leapfrog" retreat of Russian industries as well as armies, the early morning communique said.

[The Germans last Sunday announced that Kharkov had been captured on Friday, Oct. 24.]

"Not When Germans Wanted."

"The Germans planned to capture Kharkov as early as September, but these plans of the German command remained on paper," the communique said. "Kharkov has been left by our troops for strategic considerations at a time when the soviet command deemed it expedient and not when the Germans wanted it.

"During this period all the most important factories, railway rolling stock, raw material stores, and other valuables were evacuated from the town in time. Several medium and small plants of military importance were blown up."

The communique said also that a series of fierce German attacks on the Moscow front had been beaten off by soviet troops.

[The Moscow radio, as heard in London, stated that the Germans in a seven day drive had made slight progress northward toward Tula, a munitions center 100 miles south of Moscow. This, however, appeared to be no immediate threat to the capital.]

Claim Resistance in Crimea.

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, Oct. 30 [Thursday] (AP).—Latest dispatches from the southern front today acknowledged that the Germans had unleashed a new offensive against the Crimean peninsula with large scale use of tanks, planes, and artillery, but stated that the Russian defenders were resisting bitterly.

This news followed a declaration that the Red armies were beating the Germans back in general counterattacks all along the Moscow approaches and a proclamation by a high soviet organ that Hitler now was facing failure.

Metropolitan Sergei of Moscow, acting patriarch of the Russian Orthodox church, has moved from Moscow to a town on the Volga, Russian quarters reported today.

Stubborn Battle at Rostov.

LONDON, Oct. 30 [Thursday] (AP).—The Moscow radio declared in a broadcast picked up here today: "All attempts to break thru to Rostov are meeting the stubborn resistance of our arms.

"Our units are gradually strengthening and improving their positions. In the last two days successful counterattacks have been carried out. The armies of our western front are ready for a new thrust by the German armies on Moscow.

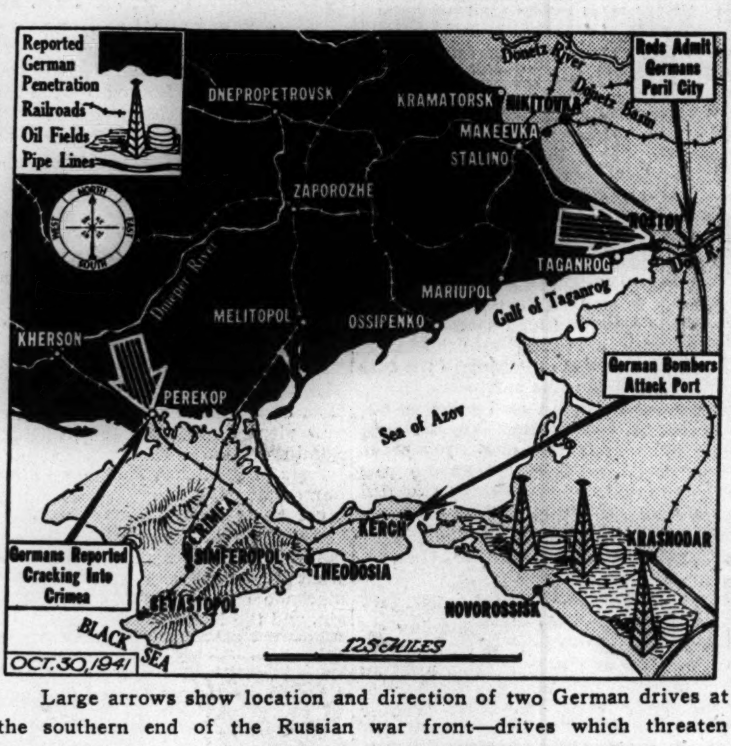
The Situation in the Russian War



Large arrows show location and direction of two German drives at the southern end of the Russian war front—drives which threaten Rostov, the gateway to the Caucasus, and the Crimean peninsula.

CRIMEA PERILED BY NEW RUSH OF GERMAN TROOPS

Drive on Peninsula After Violent Ten Day Battle.

BERLIN, Oct. 29 (AP).—Thousands of German troops tonight were pouring into the strategic Crimean peninsula after cracking Russian defenses, apparently on the 4 mile wide Perekop isthmus, in a violent 10 day battle, the high command announced.

Almost 300 miles to the east along the northern rim of the Black sea other German units were reported struggling over muddy roads only 10 miles west of Rostov, springboard for a turn southward into the rich Caucasus oil region.

News of operations on the Moscow and Leningrad fronts was almost blacked out here. A few sketchy reports told only of aerial bombardments of those two cities. Bad weather slowed up action in these sectors, but the Germans denied their war was "stuck in the mud."

Strategically the Crimea is important to the Germans because of their belief it will afford naval bases to facilitate the army's overland drive toward the Caucasus.

Halted, Italians Admit.

ROME, Oct. 29 (AP).—The official Stefani agency reported today that Italian troops on the eastern front had been halted and put on the defensive for the last eight days by Russian counterattacks.

An Italian column fighting in the Stalino zone of the Ukraine front [100 miles northwest of Rostov] was heavily engaged by Russian infantry supported by artillery, the dispatch said. The column "had not had a moment's peace or rest in eight days," but, it added, the Italian troops "never ceded a millimeter of ground."

Finns Advance 60 Miles.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Oct. 29 (AP).—Correspondents with the Finnish army reported today a surprise advance which forced the Russians into a rapid two day retreat of more than 60 miles along the Murmansk railway north of Lake Onega.

The correspondents said the Finns had captured several communities around Lake Sees, and occupied the town of Paatene. Maaselka station, north of the strategic junction of Karhumaki, thus is within range of land operations, the dispatches said.

CIANO QUITS EASTERN FRONT.

Mrs. Rado's dog, Prince, took the kitten under his care immediately and they have become fast friends.

GERMANS MOVING 48,000 JEWS OUT OF CZECH REGION

BERLIN, Oct. 29 (AP).—Transport of 48,000 Jews from Prague to resettlement areas in Nazi conquered lands to the east has been started, and all Jews are to be cleared out of Bohemia-Moravia [Czecho-Slovakia] cities "within a short time," Dienst Aus Deutschland disclosed tonight.

The authoritative commentary declared that Jewish transports were leaving regularly but did not give their exact destination. Of the 200,000 Jews in the protectorate when it was taken over by Germany in March, 1939, only 90,000 are left, Dienst stated.

A dispatch from Zagreb, in partitioned Jugo-Slavia, said the Croatian government had decreed state acquisition of all Jewish fortunes for revival of the national economy.

Say Nazis Shot 1,000 Jews.

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP).—More than 1,000 Jews were forced to kneel in trenches and were machine-gunned by Nazi troops near Lomza in northern Poland and several hundreds were killed in southern Poland, the British news agency Reuters said tonight, quoting Polish reporters.

BERLIN, Oct. 30 [Thursday] (AP).—The Hamburger Fremdenblatt said today that at least 47 persons were killed in the RAF raid on Hamburg Monday night.

DENIES U. S. HAS ASKED ENGLAND FOR BASES DEAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 29.—An authoritative source tonight said Britain has not received any proposals from the United States government concerning naval bases and the conduct of world trade after the war. News agency messages from Washington, D. C., published here said proposals have been made and Britain has agreed to them in principle as a basis for discussion.

The authoritative source described the reports as "either premature or phoney." However, the Thursday morning Daily Mirror reports that "negotiations are being carried on in a friendly atmosphere and the British hope that the results will provide equal gains for both countries."

The Daily Sketch declares that altho the reports from Washington are not official "they have an authentic ring about them." It adds that, "supposing these suggestions have been made, what reply shall we give to them? Whatever the reply may be, it cannot be made without full consideration. We and America are openly banded together for the purpose of maintaining the freedom of mankind. But we have not entered into that union at the cost of abandoning our own freedom."

Workers in Seven Cuban Sugar Mills Go on Strike

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 29.—Workers in seven mills of the Atlantic Gulf Sugar company went on strike tonight.

Feel a SNAP and briskness in the air?...... time for New England Boiled Dinner ..... at HENRICI'S

A mound of tender cabbage in the center of a plate ..... around the edge, in sections all their own, are spinach ..... mild white turnips ..... golden carrot nuggets and a fine big steamed potato. Then we hide the cabbage with slices of corned beef brisket that has just a whispered hint of garlic flavoring ..... and on the top of that you'll see a meaty, tender chunk of good salt pork.

Folks seem to walk a little faster ..... shoulders back a little more ...... maybe it's the nip of fall that's in the air ..... or maybe they're on the way to New England Boiled Dinner ...... at HENRICI'S.

RUSSIAN ISLAND FORT HOLDS OFF NAZIS 5 WEEKS

Shells Soldiers on Shore Day and Night.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE RUMANIAN ARMY ON THE BLACK SEA, Oct. 25 [Delayed].—The scene was the little port of Ochakov on the Black sea halfway between Odessa and Nikolaev. About one kilometer [five-eighths of a mile] offshore lies a little island which the bolsheviks named Pervomaisk [First of May]. This island was taken by the Germans only on Sept. 25—five weeks after the mainland was in their hands.

Heavily fortified, the island garrison kept shelling Ochakov and gave it hardly an hour's peace by day or night. The Germans in return kept pounding it from the mainland with a coastal battery the bolsheviks had abandoned intact—four guns marked "Vickers, Limited, 1915." [A British make.]

Bring Up More Guns.

Only after the Germans had brought up more heavy guns and storm boats did they venture a crossing to the island—only to find that the bolsheviks had fled.

"That shows," a Rumanian officer remarked to me today, "how hard it is to take islands, and the bigger the island, the harder it is."

At Ochakov there is a small shipyard for building speedboats. At concrete piers the Germans assembled their stormboats for the assault on Pervomaisk. The bolsheviks apparently saw them and once sent over a 210 millimeter [8½ inch] shell which tore a hole in the concrete and destroyed two boats.

"Excellent marksmanship," remarked my officer guide.

Rumanians Get Impatient.

Now that Odessa has been taken, the Rumanian troops in Russia have finished their main task, a high military authority informed me. The Rumanians impatiently are awaiting orders to return home.

Rumanian troops, I was informed, however, continue and will continue to fight against the bolsheviks. In the Crimea is a Rumanian force of two army corps and one cavalry corps. This force is purely "symbolic" of the Rumanian solidarity with Germany.

NEW VICHY LAW BANS TUNING IN ON BRITISH RADIO

VICHY, France, Oct. 29 (AP).—A new French law to be announced tomorrow will prohibit Frenchmen from listening either publicly or privately to British and certain other unspecified foreign radio stations "which for several months have been broadcasting violent anti-French propaganda."

The announcement said the purpose of the law was to protect "those who are likely to be troubled by these lying news stories since they have neither the time nor means of verifying their incorrectness."

Penalties included six month closing of public places, a fine of 10,000 francs [nominally about $200], and jail sentences up to two years.

Plan "Strike" Broadcast.

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—"Col. Britton," the anonymous British radio leader of the "V for Victory" campaign, will broadcast final instructions in nine languages Friday at 3:45 p. m. central European time [7:45 a. m. Chicago time] to French workers who have been urged by Gen. Charles de Gaulle to conduct a five minute "folded arms" strike 15 minutes later as a protest against the German execution of hostages in their country.

KEARNY STRUCK WHILE BATTLING SUB, SAYS KNOX

Rushed Into Convoy Fight, Statement Reveals.

President Reveals "Attack."

In his Navy day speech of Monday night, announcing that "the shooting has started" because "America has been attacked," President Roosevelt said:

"We have wished to avoid shooting, but the shooting has started, and history has recorded who fired the first shot. In the long run, however, all that will matter is who fired the last shot."

The White House was silent on the Knox revelations, which were anticipated yesterday by the President when he told his press conference that the Kearny was convoying merchantmen and hunting for submarines when attacked.

The Knox report gave the scene of action as about 350 miles southwest of Iceland. The crippled Kearny was escorted to port by other American destroyers. The arrangement of her boiler rooms enabled the commander to shut off the damaged fire room and shift to the second engine room.

Eleven Men Killed at Posts.

The force of the torpedo explosions, according to Knox, breached the side of the Kearny well under the water line, flooding the forward boiler compartment and killing the men on duty in the boiler room.

The explosion was forward and upward, he continued, with the result that the deck over the fireroom was ruptured "with such force that wreckage was thrown onto the bridge."

The Knox report added that the Kearny was forced out of action and her skipper, Lieut. Com. A. L. Danis, immediately invoked "casualty and ship damage routine, and by prompt action prevented the ship from sinking."

In announcing that the navy will issue no news on attacks on German submarines, Knox said he was following the present British policy. A similar policy was followed by the United States during the World war, but not before a formal declaration of war.

OFFICIAL KEARNY REPORT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—Following is the text of the official release regarding the torpedoing of the United States destroyer Kearny:

"Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox today released the following additional information concerning the torpedoing of the U. S. S. Kearny, as result of information received from the ship. [Location of the ship at present was not given.]

"On the night of Oct. 16-17, the U. S. S. Kearny, while escorting a convoy of merchant ships, received distress signals from another convoy which was under attack from several German submarines. The U. S. S. Kearny proceeded to the aid of the attacked convoy.

Depth Charges Dropped.

"On arriving at the scene of the attack, the U. S. S. Kearny dropped depth bombs when she sighted a merchant ship under attack by a submarine. Some time afterward, three torpedo tracks were observed approaching the U. S. S. Kearny. One passed ahead of the ship, one astern, and the third struck the U. S. S. Kearny on the starboard side in the vicinity of the forward fire room.

"The force of the explosion breached the side of the ship well under the water line, flooding the boiler compartment and killing the men stationed in the boiler room on the steaming watch. The force of the explosion was forward and upward. The deck above the fire room was ruptured with such force that wreckage was thrown onto the bridge.

Casualty List Given.

"Eleven men were killed as result of the attack. In addition, two men were seriously injured and eight men received minor wounds."

[Here followed the list of the dead, previously released.]

"The U. S. S. Kearny was forced out of action by the explosion. Her commanding officer, Lieut. Comm. A. L. Danis, U. S. navy, immediately invoked casualty and ship damage routine and by prompt action prevented the ship from sinking. The U. S. S. Kearny was escorted to port by other destroyers of the United States fleet.

"On arrival in port, the men seriously injured were removed to the army hospital for treatment. Those receiving minor injuries were given out-patient treatment and returned to the ship.

Admiral's Report.

"In the report made by Rear Adm. S. M. Robinson, U. S. navy, chief of the bureau of ships, to Undersecretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal, it was pointed out that due to the arrangement of the ship's boiler and engine rooms, the commanding officer was able to shift from the damaged fire room to another fire room and able to take the ship into port under her own power.

"Other features of the report were:

"The force of the explosion not only opened the starboard [right] side of the ship, but blew out the deck overhead and caused damage to the deck house and bridge above. The forward bulkhead of the boiler room was broken thru, flooding the next compartment, but the after bulkhead, altho deflected, held firmly, leaving the forward engine room intact.

Ship Almost Cut in Two.

"The ship was cut almost completely around from the turn of the bilge on the starboard side except for the heavy deck edge and side plating on the starboard side. This plating held intact.

"Altho the forward boiler room and smaller compartment forward of the boiler room were completely flooded, the ship remained upright with very litle change in trim. Moreover, despite the fact that the forward engine room was just abaft the compartment hit, the machinery was of such excellent type and design that the engine remained serviceable, even tho the foundation was slightly deflected."

AXIS OIL SUPPLY GOING FAST, SAYS SWEDISH WRITER

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 29.—The Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter in an analysis of the oil situation in Germany concludes that the axis oil reserves are strained to the utmost.

The total production of the axis powers is 13,500,000 tons a year, the writer says. Before the war the total oil consumption in Germany, Italy, and occupied countries was about 22,000,000 tons. The civilian consumption must be still 8,000,000 tons yearly. This means that only about 6,000,000 tons of oil produced are available for the German and Italian war machines.

It was largely because of the lack of oil, the writer believed, that the Italian fleet has showed itself so inactive. The war on the eastern front cost the axis almost 45,000 tons of oil a day. Axis aircraft are using 3,500 tons daily. This is the reason for the violent offensive against Rostov, behind which lie the oil fields of Maikop and Grovay, producing 6,000,000 tons of oil per year, the writer says.

BRITISH SEEK TO PUT CENSOR GAG ON U. S. OFFICIALS

London Says They Talk Too Much.

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP).—British officials were reported today to be gravely concerned over the freedom with which military information is circulated in the United States and to be seeking further steps by Washington, D. C., to keep war matters secret.

The British, it was said, have frequently pointed out to the American embassy stories given out in the United States which the British say provided important tipoffs to Germany.

President Roosevelt's announcement Oct. 24 that the Office of Production Management after Nov. 1 would keep secret the details of war production was seen as one fruit of the British complaints.

Among recent disclosures which the British think American individuals should not have made were:

That United States tank production would not reach 2,000 a month until June, 1942.

Sea Meeting Tipped.

That supplies to Russia would go from Boston by the North Atlantic route, a maritime commission announcement which the government later said was incorrect.

That the United States would manufacture a new type of torpedo for the British, testimony before the house appropriations subcommittee.

London took the stand that too much information given in closed committee hearings in Washington was being published and annoyance was expressed at the London newspaper story from Washington which gave the tip on the Roosevelt-Churchill Atlantic meeting.

U. S. Censors Pass Buck.

Censors and others have complained that they were frequently put in "extremely unhappy situations" by the reluctance of the United States government to accept responsibility for some stories. One such instance was the arrival of a convoy of American soldiers in Iceland in September.

Drew Middleton, Associated Press correspondent, filed stories on landing Sept. 17. These were censored in Iceland and finally reached London Sept. 22 but bogged down in the censorship here until Oct. 1. British censors asserted they were held up at the request of the United States navy, which wanted to make sure all ships were out of the danger zone before the stories were released.

Many telegrams have gone from ambassador Winant to Washington on the Iceland censorship problem.

The American embassy in London has treated the question of collaborating with British censors on United States matters with the respect one would give a loaded gun.

U. S. GIVES REDS 6,267 TON SHIP ON LEND-LEASE

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—The maritime commission freighter Mount Evans, 6,267 tons, has been turned over to Russia under the lend-lease plan, marine circles said today. The vessel, now at Boston, is being armed and will fly the soviet flag.

Built in 1919 at Portland, Ore., she was laid up at New Orleans before the war. She was reconditioned and placed in the South American service under charter to the Moore-McCormack line.

Her withdrawal from this service puts an added strain, authorities said, on a business already suffering a lack of ships.

LONDON, Oct. 29 (AP).—A Consolidated Catalina flying boat built in the United States has just completed the first nonstop flight from Fiji to Sydney, a distance of 2,000 miles, the British Broadcasting corporation reported tonight. The flying boat, described by the BBC as "one of many to join the Australian air force without a single accident," was being ferried from the United States.

'Ideal Homemaker'

Mrs. E. A. Quedenfeld of Waukegan with trophy awarded her in "ideal homemaker" contest.

Mrs. Ernest A. Quedenfeld, wife of a Waukegan letter carrier, yesterday received a silver trophy as ideal homemaker of the Chicago area. Mrs. Quedenfeld won the title in a contest sponsored by the Homemakers' Conference and Exposition at Hotel Sherman. Judge Camille Kelly of the Juvenile court of Memphis, Tenn., gave her the trophy at a luncheon held in connection with the exposition. Mrs. Quedenfeld is 32 and the mother of two children. She won the title by describing, by letter, the home and environment she and her family maintain on $2,100 a year.

HEAR 200 SERBS DIE IN BATTLE; 154 EXECUTED

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 29 (AP).—Two hundred Serbian insurgents were reported today to have been killed in a nightlong battle with axis occupation troops near the Serbian village of Belanovitch. The Belgrade newspaper Novo Vreme said the insurgents were communists and that only a few escaped. In three Serbian towns 154 communists were reported executed.

18 Condemned by Italians.

ANKARA, Turkey, Oct. 29.—Italian troops of occupation in Dalmatia have begun a "régime of terror," according to foreign military intelligence sources.

Tribunals at Split and Sibenik have condemned 18 persons among 30 arrested since Sunday to execution for alleged participation in guerrilla warfare. Anti-Jewish activity is increasing in Zagreb. In Belgrade the Germans have seized 1,500 new hostages, of which 20 to 200 are being executed at a time.

DARING SENUSIAN ARABS FIGHT FOR HOMES IN DESERT

'Storybook Soldiers' Join British Army.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 29.—Along with the "Free French" and other forces fighting beside the British, there is a little known force of Senusian Libyan Arabs who have formed special battalions under their own flag.

I have just visited them at a desert base where they are training with Italian weapons captured in Libya, which will now be turned against their original owners.

These Senusi from southeast Libya have carried on a running fight against the Italians since Italy invaded Libya in 1911. Most of them fled to Egypt or to the Sudan when they were unable to hold out against the Italians any longer in 1924.

Fearless of Dive Bombers.

Their first taste of action came in April during the British retreat from Libya. Lacking transport, they hitched rides back from Bengazi in other units' vehicles and assembled again at Tobruk on April 5. Most of them proved to be good soldiers, despite their scanty military training.

An officer told me how 270 were caught in a dive bombing raid as they waited on a lighter to board a transport in Tobruk harbor. Ignoring the order to take cover, they squatted on their haunches, firing rifles and Bren [machine] guns at the planes thru the two hour dive bomber attack.

The Senusian forces dress like the other British troops, but wear a cloak with which they can hide themselves in the open desert so they are invisible at 40 or 50 yards.

Victims of Italian Brutality.

They are a religious sect from various tribes, formed about 100 years ago as a sort of Mohammedan Puritans, adhering more strictly than the others to the precepts of the Koran.

The Senusian dream is to return to Libya with a conquering force and drive out the Italians, whose brutalities on them are notorious.

The Senusi live up to the tradition of storybook Arabs. They know their way about the desert as they do their own back yard. They carry their own flag, black with a white crescent and star, and are proud of it. It flies over their camp beside the Union Jack.

7,000 OFFICERS TRAINED IN YEAR AT FT. BENNING

Little Equipment Needed for Infantry Course.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Benning, Ga., Oct. 29.—The simplicity of infantry training compared with other arms of the military service is being demonstrated here in a school curriculum that requires only a small amount of equipment for proper functioning.

The reduction of courses from a year to 13 weeks in efforts to grind out officers for the new army has also lessened the number of handicaps, emphasis now being placed on a working knowledge of fewer weapons.

The school's high priority rating excludes any shortages in modern weapons necessary for student instruction. There is sufficient ammunition available for each student to fire the prescribed number of rounds with various weapons provided in the short term.

"Better Than None at All."

A spokesman was asked if authorities considered 13 weeks sufficient time in which to train an officer for modern war. He replied: "Certainly not, but 13 weeks is much better than none at all."

There are now seven separate courses running concurrently at the school, all of 13 weeks duration. The basic officer's course, with 1,022 students, is the largest. Classes of 200 each are echeloned a week apart for the purpose of making production a continual process.

The students are company officers, captains, and lieutenants who have been recommended by their respective commanders. About 5 per cent fail to receive their certificate of proficiency. At present about 7,000 officers are turned out a year but plans are under way to raise this total to 26,000.

Weapons listed for the courses include the rifle, Browning automatic rifle, bayonet, grenade, mortar, and light and heavy machine gun. Time is also spent on mechanical training, marksmanship, field firing, anti-aircraft pistol, 37 mm. anti-tank gunnery, and .50 caliber anti-tank gunnery.

Tactical Studies.

Under tactics are listed marches, outposts, battalion in attack, heavy weapons, company in attack, rifle company in attack, night attack, reserve rifle company in attack, motor patrols, battalion in defense, heavy weapon company in defense, front line rifle company in defense, reserve rifle company in defense, defense against chemical warfare, and organization of infantry regiments. A special feature is made of field artillery fire and tanks in attack.

General subjects include map and aerial photograph reading, methods of training, supply in combat, field fortification, first aid and hygiene, company administration and mess management, close and extended order drill, marches and camps, river crossings and grade test, manual courts martial and articles of war.

Communication and automotive subjects are alloted 4 and 8 hours each, respectively. Under tactics presented by weapons groups are listed combat training with heavy weapons, weapons of .30 and .50 caliber and 37 m.m. used in platoon attack, mortar platoons in attack, similar weapons in defense, preparation of problems, conduct of problems, security and combat outposts, advance guards, and training of individual soldiers.

Difficult in Short Period.

This is a partial list of subjects attempted in 13 weeks. Any layman can visualize the efficiency of an army organized under such handicaps.

Many new temporary buildings have solved housing problems at the post. There are 151 regimental and 174 reserve officers and 1,300 enlisted men on the school staff. Three hundred of the latter group are conscripts and the others are from the regular army.

Stationed here are three battalions of parachute troops, the 2d armored division, and the 4th mechanized division. School troops are the 29th infantry and 44th field artillery battalions.

Cake Baker

Whether commercial students, who can beat a neat pace on a typewriter, can whip up a cake with the same dexterity was determined yesterday at the Jones Commercial High school, 607 Plymouth court. The school conducted its first annual cake contest, open to girls and boys.

Despite the fact that 14 cakes of the 25 entries were chocolate, Miss Marge Wilson, 3328 Cuyler avenue, senior, walked away with the grand prize, a bid to the senior prom, with a sunshine cake topped with marshmallow frosting. Second place went to Louise Bartuck, 843 Lytle street, 15, for a whipped cream cake, and a boy, Jack Burkhardt, 7255 Vincennes avenue, 16, came in third with a Hungarian cake.

The cake contest was in observance of homemakers' week.

BRITISH PROPOSE TO DRAFT 500,000 FIGHTING WOMEN

BY GUY MURCHIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 30 [Thursday].—The conscription of women for auxiliary fighting services will be proposed at the next meeting of the war cabinet by Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin, according to the industrial correspondent of the Daily Mail. He says Bevin, who has frequently declared he would not conscript women, has been "forced reluctantly to change his mind" owing to poor response to his appeals and warnings.

Bevin will submit the conscription proposals to the cabinet with the full support of a joint consultative committee representing employers and trades unions, of which he is president. At a meeting yesterday the committee agreed that 500,000 women urgently needed for the ATS [Auxiliary Territorial Service], the WAAF [Women's Auxiliary Air Force] and WRENS [naval auxiliary] should be conscripted from among those under 30 who have no home ties and are therefore "mobile." The first to be affected will be women between 20 and 27.

Would Release 100,000 Men.

Legislation necessary to give Bevin powers to call up women for the forces may be framed to enable him to call on all women up to 40 if necessary, the correspondent suggests.

The immediate need, it is stated, is for women under 30 to release 100,000 men from "behind the lines" jobs. Fifty thousand in the ATS are required to help man anti-aircraft guns in Britain.

"The time is foreseen," the correspondent says, "when women will control anti-aircraft defenses in this country, except for the actual firing of the guns."

Will Operate Balloons.

The ATS no longer wants cooks and floor scrubbers, but "intelligent girls who can work and maintain radio location, operate telephone switchboards and teleprinters," it was stated.

The WAAF has a big program of expansion on hand, and it is hoped that eventually enough women will be obtained to operate the balloon barrage. WRENS also will want more recruits soon.

Bevin also said he was considering imposing a stronger measure of compulsion to recruit women for industry.

Ruby Keeler Weds

Ruby Keeler, former wife of Al Jolson, and her new husband, John Lowe.

North Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 29 (AP).—Ruby Keeler, former wife of Al Jolson, was married today to John Lowe, Pasadena business man, at St. Charles' cathedral. The actress and Jolson were married Sept. 21, 1928, and divorced Dec. 26, 1939. In attendance at the wedding was 6 year old Al Jolson Jr., adopted son of the bride. Lowe is 29 years old, his wife, 31.

MRS. ORTON CAN TURN A DEAF EAR TO HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Annabelle Adams Orton, 35 years old, made her first court appearance yesterday in the divorce suit of her husband, wealthy Philo A. Orton, 68, of 215 East Chestnut street, who accuses her of love affairs with a trio of mysterious men.

Mrs. Orton won her first victory and left the court wearing a bright smile.

Judge Cornelius J. Harrington granted the manufacturer's wife the right to refuse to answer 90 pages of questions posed by Orton's lawyer, Daniel Covelli, in taking depositions.

"I understand," said Judge Harrington, "that you contend these questions might incriminate you, or might at least be a link in evidence tending to incriminate you?"

"Yes," replied Mrs. Orton.

"A person may refuse to answer any question which might tend to incriminate him," said the judge. "The petition is denied."

COUNTY IS SUED FOR $2,662,322 ON OLD JUDGMENTS

A mandamus suit was filed in Circuit court yesterday on behalf of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance society, seeking to compel the county to pay the society $2,662,322 in judgments originally obtained by the city of Chicago and later purchased by the society.

The judgments were for Municipal court costs in cases involving state charges. When defendants are dismissed the county is required to pay the court costs, but in recent years it has made no appropriations for that purpose.

STUDENT ADMITS $2,200 IN THEFTS AT ILLINOIS TECH

Gardner Johnson, 24 years old, student at the Illinois Institute of Technology, 3300 Federal street, was held by the Stanton avenue police yesterday after confessing that he had stolen equipment valued at $2,200 from the school's workshops.

Johnson, who was hopeful of being graduated as a master metallurgist next June, had been teaching chemistry to freshman students. His sole income was $40 a month, and, he told police, he was desperate for money. He is engaged to be married.

The thefts began 18 months ago, but it was the removal of a lathe Sunday night that led to Johnson's arrest. Johnson, as custodian of the machinery hall, was questioned Monday by Detectives Edward Smith and Edward Rasmussen. They found in his car metal dustings that had come from the lathe. After he confessed the police found all the stolen machinery in the basement of his home, 1215 23d street, Wilmette.

HOW TO CHOOSE A JUDGE—G. O. P. SPEAKER TELLS

Ability to Serve Is Called the Chief Factor.

Judges should be elected on the basis of what they can do for a community, not for what a community can do for them, Eugene P. Kealy, Republican nominee for the Superior court, told 350 members of the Women's National Republican Club of Chicago yesterday at a reception and tea in the Chicago Towers club for Republican judicial candidates.

"The bench of Cook county," Kealy declared, "needs constant revivifying by the replacement of the incompetent and the untrustworthy, and the honorable retirement of those who, having given long and good service, merit the dignified leisure, free from economic strain, which such service has earned.

Stresses Performance Factor.

"In the last analysis, it is not the desires of the candidate, or the wishes of his friends to do something for him, or the amiability of his disposition, or his personal popularity, which should be the basis for the selection of our judges. They should be selected for what they can do for the community by competent, intelligent, and honest performance of duties.

"And to keep a judge in office in the face of lack of public confidence in the fairness of his decisions, technical incompetence resulting in constant reversals by the upper courts, and well grounded suspicion of partisanship and partiality in his rulings, is mere dullness of understanding and lack of intelligent citizenship."

Lewis Hits Machine Tactics.

Aquilla C. Lewis, another of the Republican candidates, speaking by radio last night, declared that the "Kelly-Nash [Democratic] ticket represents a high handed attempt to impose upon the litigants of this county a machine appointed judiciary."

"The Republican ticket has, on the contrary," Lewis continued, "been selected in the manner provided by law, after the most careful scrutiny and diligent investigation of the character, ability, and fitness of the candidates. It has been termed by Gov. Green and by the newspapers and civic organizations as a new high in judicial tickets and as the best judicial ticket ever presented to the people for their approval."

GETS PERMISSION TO SUE OFFICIALS OVER STATE JOBS

Judge Cornelius J. Harrington in Circuit court yesterday granted James Gordon of 2358 East 70th street permission to file a taxpayer's suit for an injunction to restrain state officials from paying the salaries of "temporary" employés allegedly hired in violation of Illinois civil service laws.

Michael F. Ryan, Gordon's attorney, charged that the state administration is trying to use the civil service system to build up a Republican political machine.

Judge Harrington ordered the defendants to file an answer by Nov. 7. They are Warren Wright, state treasurer; Arthur C. Lueder, state auditor; George McKibben, director of finance, and Robert L. Hunter, John V. Clinnin, and Ernest Hoover, members of the state civil service board. The court's permission was necessary because the law requires that suits involving state funds may not be filed against the state or its officials without such permission.

JEWISH NATIONAL HOME RALLY WILL HEAR GOV. GREEN

Gov. Dwight H. Green will be the principal speaker at a meeting in Orchestra hall Monday night commemorating the 24th anniversary of the Balfour declaration, by which Great Britain pledged to aid in the establishment of a Jewish national home in Palestine.

Sponsored jointly by the Zionist organization of Chicago, Hadassah, the Labor Zionist movement, Mizrachi, and the Jewish National Fund, this meeting is one of many to be held thruout the country in response to a proclamation issued by Louis E. Levinthal of Philadelphia, Pa., president of the Zionist Organization of America.

Dr. Solomon Goldman of Anshe Emet synagogue, 3760 Pine Grove avenue, former president of the Zionist Organization of America, also will speak.

Judicial Candidates

BY PERCY WOOD.

REPUBLICAN.

Attorney Lionel G. Thorsness, Republican candidate for the Sonsteby vacancy as chief justice of the Municipal court, is a former master in chancery of the Superior court and a practicing Illinois lawyer since 1917.

Lionel G. Thorsness.

Born in De Forest, Wis., 46 years ago, Thorsness received his prelegal education at Austin High school and Crane Technical High school. He took his law degree at Northwestern university, being admitted to the bar in 1917. Later he took graduate work in law at Lincoln's Inn, London.

After attending the Officers' Training camp at Fort Sheridan, like his opponent, Judge Scheffler, Thorsness spent 15 months in France as a lieutenant, 10 of them as a summary court officer. Back in Chicago, he practiced law and in 1929 was made a master in chancery of the Superior court, serving until 1937.

Thorsness was a candidate for the Circuit court in 1939 and was deemed qualified by the Chicago Bar association, which also described him as fair minded and possessed of an excellent reputation for integrity.

DEMOCRATIC.

Judge Edward S. Scheffler, chosen by his colleagues on the Municipal court to serve as chief justice until Nov. 4, in place of the late John J. Sonsteby, was slated by the Democrats to run for the rest of Sonsteby's term, which expires next year.

Edward S. Scheffler.

A native Chicagoan, 46 years old, Judge Scheffler was graduated from Carl Schurz High school and the Northwestern university law school, receiving his degree in 1916. In the World war he received a commission at the 2d officers' training camp at Fort Sheridan and served overseas with the Rainbow division.

From 1922 to 1926 the judge was an assistant city prosecutor. He was then an assistant to the late Henry Horner [at that time probate judge and later governor] until 1930, when he was elected to the Municipal court. He was reëlected in 1936, when the Chicago Bar association said of him: "He is exceptionally well qualified."

Last April the judges of the city bench unanimously elected Judge Schefffler to become acting chief justice after Sonsteby's death.

STATE TO APPEAL WRIT RESTORING SEVEN TO JOBS

Attorney General George F. Barrett announced yesterday he will appeal to the Illinois Supreme court from the writ of mandamus issued by Judge John Prystalski of the Circuit court last week restoring state jobs to seven civil service employés.

Former state jobholders named in the writ were Frank Surges, industrial foreman in Joliet penitentiary, and the following food inspectors—Ben Blum, Matt N. Norton, Frank J. Ranza, Frank J. Mulholland, Joseph Cassioppi, and Tony K. Johnson.

The seven were discharged or suspended from their jobs last spring on charges of having violated their civil service status by engaging in political activity.

OFFICERS OF 33D WILL BE DINNER GUESTS OF GREEN

Gov. Green will be host to several hundred officers of the 33d division at a dinner in the Palmer House on Nov. 11, after the Armistice day parade in which 6,900 of the Illinois troops now on federal duty at Camp Forrest, Tenn., will participate. About 3,400 downstate troops will parade in Springfield on the same day. The governor plans to review both parades—the one in Springfield in the morning, and that in Chicago early in the afternoon, after an airplane flight from the capital.

ASK GOV. GREEN TO O. K. CONGRESS STREET PARKWAY

Resolutions urging Gov. Dwight Green to approve the proposed 40 million dollar Congress street superparkway project were adopted last night at a meeting of west side residents in John Marshall High school.

Among the speakers were Joshua D'Esposito, Illinois PWA engineer; Dr. M. J. Sullivan, chairman of the Congress Development association; James Gilruth, public relations director of the Illinois Automobile club; Frank A. Hecht, president of the West Central association; Fred Huebenthal, past president of the West Side Real Estate board, and Ray McCarthy, chairman of the real estate board's traffic and transportation committee.

How to Make People Agree With You by Dale Carnegie

This is the fourth of a new series of articles on successful living, written by Dale Carnegie, and published by the makers of the new Old Gold—the cigarette blend that has added something new—rare, flavorful Latakia tobacco.

The late John D. Rockefeller once said: "I will pay more for the ability to deal with people than for any other ability under the sun."

No matter how much you know or how good your ideas are, they fall on barren ground unless you can get other people to agree with you.

So let me give you three important rules:

1. Don't argue. No matter how sharp-witted you are, you can't win an argument. You can't force a person to agree with you. "He that complies against his will, is of his own opinion still."

2. Respect the other point of view. If you are asking respect for your ideas, then show respect for the other fellow's. Let him do some of the talking, too. In return, he'll be more ready to listen to you.

3. Let the other person feel that your idea is partly his.

Teddy Roosevelt was famous for his ability to win over opponents. He would not say: "Here is what I want, you must agree to it." Instead, he planted an idea gently in the other person's mind; he asked for suggestions, changes, advice. Soon he had the other person feeling that the idea was his own—and agreeing heartily!

Share the credit—make the other fellow feel that he is largely responsible for the idea—and you'll have him rooting for you.

A READER SUGGESTS—

"Here's an idea," writes James Hayes, of Lakewood, N. J. "Each week when Dale Carnegie's column is published, I start practicing the ideas in it, and try to master them before the next column appears. I read every column from beginning to end and am persuading all my friends to try Old Golds. I've always liked them myself—and enjoy them even more now that Latakia has been added."

Yes, Old Golds have a fresh new flavor, altogether different from an ordinary cigarette. So get more pleasure from smoking! Light up a new Old Gold. Taste this new delightful blend, with a seasoning touch of rare, flavorful Latakia! Try a new Old Gold today!

Something NEW has been added!

Rainbow Garden of Giant Tulips

40 Bulbs for $2
Prepaid 600 miles

Forty tall, giant late tulips, eight each of five named varieties separately bagged and labeled embracing these colors:

RED, PINK, ORANGE, YELLOW, LAVENDER You saw them at the Flower Show last spring, or at the Lasker Estate—gorgeous giant tulips from Vaughan's great fields in Oregon, largest American plantation of these beautiful flowers. This fall you may plant them and have one of the few gardens which will be glorified by tulip displays next May. Experts are unanimous that American grown bulbs have proved the equal of tulips formerly imported from Holland.

FARLEY THE FLOP, LA GUARDIA SNEER AT FOE'S SPEECH

New York, Oct. 29 [Special].—New York City's bitterly contested mayoralty campaign reached a screaming pitch tonight in a shower of invective and personal venom as Mayor Fiorello La Guardia directed his most vitriolic brand of political fireworks at James A. Farley, whom he labeled sneeringly "Farley the Flop."

The mayor's outburst served to emphasize the serious split in Democratic ranks resulting from President Roosevelt's bolting the party by indorsing the third term cause of La Guardia, who is the candidate of the communist-tinged American Labor party, and also is the makeshift Republican and Fusionist standard bearer.

Leaders Back O'Dwyer.

Despite Roosevelt's indorsement, other Democratic leaders, including Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, as well as Farley, have supported William O'Dwyer, Brooklyn district attorney, the regular Democratic candidate, and tried to match La Guardia's violent language in kind.

La Guardia attacked Farley as "the flop," and referred to him as "the president of the great motor company which the SEC did not permit to float stock . . . the owner of the Yankees, the deal that didn't go thru . . . the man who was silent in the last Presidential campaign—Farley the flop."

Farley, asserting he stood by every word of his Tuesday night radio speech attacking La Guardia as a cad, a mugwump politically, and a hypocrite in action, made pointed reply to the mayor's "Farley the flop" insinuations.

Farley, O'Dwyer Reply.

Farley said he never had been the president of a motor company; that he was still interested in purchasing the world champion baseball team, and disputed the mayor's assertion that he was silent during last year's Presidential campaign.

O'Dwyer, who declared that the mayor had "grimaced and posed, danced and cavorted on the political stage," declared that La Guardia had failed to answer charges that he had destroyed the morale of the civil service employés, played politics with the sanitation department, permitted subversive groups in the public schools, allowed a communist group to dominate the welfare department, abused citizens who appeared before him, forced overassessment of small properties, absented himself from the city on personal junkets, and, despite his claim of nonpartisanship, had used public funds to build up a personal political machine.

POLES LARGEST GROUP IN 5,201 NEW AMERICANS

American citizenship was granted to 5,201 aliens in Chicago in August and September, Fred J. Schlotfeldt, district director of immigration and naturalization, announced yesterday. The number is slightly less than the average of the preceding months of the year.

As usual, Poles were the largest single national group admitted, with a total of 864. Germans were next with 756 and Italians followed with 518. Great Britain and its possessions supplied 679.

The following table shows numbers of larger national groups:

	Aug.	Sept.
Canada	119	126
England	54	113
Ireland	111	56
Scotland	53	29
Belgium	13	82
Czecho-Slovakia	158	104
France	9	23
Germany	289	467
Greece	58	63
Hungary	42	97
Italy	289	229
Lithuania	115	73
Norway	51	59
Poland	572	292
Russia	202	176
Jugo-Slavia	84	129
Sweden	189	159

An unusual feature is that more women than men became American citizens, Schotfeldt said.

MRS. LITA KOENIG.

Mrs. Lita Koenig, 30 years old, 3614 Fremont street, a cabaret organist, told Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday that her husband, Howard, a night club entertainer, balked at settling down to the routine of married life only two weeks after their marriage in New York City on Jan. 27, 1927. "I've waited almost 15 years, but that's long enough," said Mrs. Koenig in asking a divorce on the ground of desertion. Judge Desort agreed she had waited long enough, and granted the divorce.

600 LEADERS SET FOR NOON REPORT IN FUND'S DRIVE

More than 600 leaders in the women's and industrial divisions of the 1941 Community Fund campaign will report at a luncheon today in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House, it was announced yesterday by Robert A. Gardner, president of the Fund.

Activities of the 50,000 volunteer workers engaged in the campaign will be reported by chairmen of the 73 groups into which the city's industrial, professional, business, and public life is divided, Gardner said. More than a million employed men and women have accepted pledge cards and it is expected that a large percentage will contribute.

Pledges received since Oct. 3, when the campaign opened, total $1,879,195 toward a goal of $3,583,000.

Dog Summons Master to Burning Home; Dies

William L. Fawcett of 12241 Yale avenue, a mechanic, was playing cards in the home of a next door neighbor early yesterday when he was disturbed by the barking of his dog, Boots, a 14 year old cocker spaniel. Hurrying home, Fawcett found the living room of his bungalow in flames. He summoned firemen, who extinguished the fire and found Boots lying near a window suffocated. The damage was estimated at $150.

UNFURL RED FLAG TO ACCUSE 28 IN SEDITION TRIAL

U. S. Also Exhibits Guide for Revolution.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 29.—The declaration of principles of the Socialist Workers party, avowedly Trotskyite, was read into the record today in the mass trial of 28 persons accused of seditious conspiracy to overthrow the government of the United States by force.

District Attorney Victor Anderson read the document to the jury of 11 men and one woman in the federal court of Judge Matthew M. Joyce following the testimony of James Bartlett, a former business agent of drivers' union 544 and now an official of the AFL. The party's red flag also was offered in evidence.

Bartlett, first government witness, listed 16 of the 28 defendants as active in the Socialist Workers party, among them Vincent Dunne, one of the three Dunne brothers who bossed local 544, and others who controled that union which switched from the AFL to CIO affiliation last June.

Filed Red Charges.

Bartlett was a member of the committee of 99 members of local 544 which brought charges of communist activities before the International Teamsters' union, naming some of the leaders of 544 who are now defendants in the present sedition trial.

The Socialist party expelled a group in 1938 which then became the Socialist Workers' party.

In June, after Daniel Tobin, head of the International Teamsters, had investigated the charges of communism, this union switched from the AFL to the CIO. Vincent Dunne was declared by Bartlett to have been state organizer for the Socialist Workers' party in 1938.

G-Men Identify Documents.

District Attorney Anderson placed two agents of the federal bureau of investigation on the stand. They identified documents, pamphlets, books, and other material seized in raids last June 17 on St. Paul and Minneapolis headquarters of the Socialist Workers' party.

A red flag, with the name of the party in white letters, was unfurled as part of the exhibit. Another exhibit was a photograph of the late Leon Trotsky which was taken from the headquarters. It bore the inscription: "Warmest greetings to Comrade V. R. Dunne. Leon Trotsky."

One of the party declarations read by Anderson was:

"The specific task of the Socialist Workers' party is the mobilization of the American masses for struggle against American capitalism and for its overthrow."

District Attorney Anderson laid special emphasis upon views concerning war in the party's declaration. One excerpt read:

"The workers will destroy the whole machinery of the capitalistic state in order to render it incapable of counter revolutionary activity. Its place will be taken by a workers' state, based on workers' councils."

Another excerpt was: "The workers' state will not have a professional army but will depend on a mass workers' militia in which distinctions other than those required for technical efficiency will be abolished."

Silver Shirts Cited.

The "overt act" charged by the government was main theme of the opening statement to the jury by Albert Goldman, defense counsel, who was attorney for the late Leon Trotsky in Mexico. He also is a defendant in this trial. One of the charges in the indictment relates to the formation of a union defense guard. As an overt act, Anderson told the jury that a unit of this sort was established in the basement of local 544 headquarters, with target practice and military drill held, after consultations in Mexico with Trotsky.

"One question at issue," said Goldman, "is that of the union defense guard which will be called an overt act by the government. We shall show that in August or September, 1938, some members of local 544 organized a union defense guard. This was because an organization known as the Silver Shirts had as its object the destruction of the rights of labor.

"So, a union defense guard was organized to defend the hall."

Granted Divorce

Mrs. Eleanor Garrigan and her son, Edward, in the county building yesterday.

Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday granted a divorce on the ground of misconduct to Mrs. Eleanor Garrigan, 24 years old, 4418 Fulton street, from John Lincoln Garrigan, 26, a corporal in the 133d infantry at Camp Forrest, Tenn. Mrs. Garrigan also was awarded custody of her son, Edward, 3, and $5 a week support for the boy. A 26 year old witness identified only as "Jane Doe" told Judge Desort that she had had an affair with Garrigan, and was expecting a baby. Emil Caliendo, Mrs. Garrigan's attorney, said Garrigan and Jane Doe planned to marry immediately if the divorce were granted. Garrigan's attorney, Alvin Hirsch, confirmed this.

WIFE CHAINER DENIES 'GUNNING' FOR CONFESSIONS

Vandalia, Ill., Oct. 29 (AP).—Neal Cahoon, 62 year old Fayette county farmer, took the stand today after the state rested its case in the farmer's trial on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. No testimony on a charge against Cahoon of falsely imprisoning his 21 year old wife, Rosie, by chaining her in bed was heard.

The state called to testify only the three railroad section workers it charges Cahoon forced at the muzzle of a shotgun to write a statement confessing improper relations with Mrs. Cahoon. The railroad workers said Cahoon forced the confession Oct. 4 when they were working less than a mile from the Cahoon home.

They denied intimacy with the wife, saying they had had similar trouble with Cahoon two years ago. They said then he wrote letters to their wives. Cahoon stated that the Oct. 4 meeting was accidental, that the wife accused the men at that time. He said he always carried the shotgun and that his only desire was to keep the men away from his home.

BRIDGES OFFERS 53 REASONS FOR STAYING IN U. S.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 29 (AP).—Attorneys for Harry Bridges today filed a bill of exceptions giving 53 resons why they contend Special Examiner Charles B. Sears ruled erroneously in recommending the deportation of the CIO labor official.

Also filed with Director I. F. Wixon of the immigration and naturalization service was a request for oral argument of the defense position. If granted, the argument would be before the board of immigration appeals.

Sears, after an 11 weeks' hearing, ruled last month that Bridges was a member of the communist party and was affiliated with the Marine Workers' Industrial union and recommended that he be deported to Australia, his native country.

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal regularly, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

NEW DIRECTOR TELLS HOPE TO READJUST BOYS

Has Slight Interest in Fence Around School.

Russell W. Ballard, appointed superintendent of the Illinois Training School for Boys by Gov. Green, said yesterday that he is interested in what goes on behind the high steel fence around the institution near St. Charles rather than in the fence.

Ballard, who takes over Saturday, set out to prove his point by inspecting nearly everything at the 1,300 acre plant—except the fence. Rodney H. Brandon, state director of public welfare, wants it taken down. Legislators who had the fence built a year ago because of many escapes are determined it shall remain.

"I want to enable the boys to adjust themselves so that few of them will try to run away," said Ballard. "I'm positively against arming the guards. This is not a penal institution, and I hope the judges will learn to send us only boys who can fit into the school program."

Toughs Go to Sheridan.

Next week Ballard intends to inspect the Sheridan security unit of the training school, 45 miles away, which soon will be ready to receive 62 of the toughest inmates from the St. Charles school. This branch has barred cells.

After visiting the class rooms, the shops where inmates make footwear and uniforms, the laundry, the gymnasium, and several of the 21 large cottages where the boys, many of whom were arrested for robbery with a gun and burglary, are housed, Ballard said he was pleased with the facilities.

Pervaded by an air of scrubbed cleanliness, the cottages have linen-covered dining tables, showers, single beds—each with spread—and recreation rooms with pingpong tables, card tables, a radio and phonograph. A stack of jazz records was in a cottage for Negro boys.

650 Inmates in School.

"We should supply as nearly as possible under the circumstances the right kind of homes for these boys," Ballard said.

Lunching in the commodious residence furnished for the superintendent, Ballard heard that there are 650 inmates with a median age of under 16, whose intelligence quotient averages about 93.

He was the guest of Dr. H. B. Knowles, who has been acting superintendent since the resignation last August of William T. Harmon.

"I hope Mrs. Ballard will like it here," Mrs. Knowles said. "It took me a couple of months to get used to the idea of locking up everything around the home."

LAWYER ADMITS EMBEZZLEMENT OF TAX MONEY

Orrin A. Luster, a lawyer and son of former Municipal Judge Max Luster, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge U. S. Schwartz in the Criminal court to two charges of embezzlement totaling $6,083.

Luster, 36 years old, was indicted last spring on five charges of embezzlement involving $65,000. Prosecutors said he obtained the money from several taxpayers, promising that thru a unique method of paying the taxes, he could save money for them. He kept the money.

After his plea yesterday Luster, thru counsel, asked for probation, saying he hoped to make restitution. Judge Schwartz continued the case to Nov. 26, at which time he will hear testimony for and against probation. Assistant State's Attorneys John Phillips and Ralph Clare served notice they would oppose leniency.

Gets Out of Bridewell, Then In Again—All in One Day

John Mathis, 25 years old, 1401 Roosevelt road, was sent to the Bridewell a month ago for creating a disturbance in a tavern at 1410 Roosevelt road. Yesterday, after he was released, he returned to the tavern, created another disturbance, and was shot in the left leg. He was returned to the Bridewell after only a few hours' liberty.

RODEO PERFORMER'S LEG BROKEN.

Harold Rigney, 26 years old, of Morrison, Okla., a performer in the rodeo at the Chicago Stadium, received a fracture of his left leg Tuesday night when he was trampled by a steer. He was taken to the Norwegian-American hospital.

HOLD WEALTHY FATHER OF 4 IN GIRL'S MURDER

Farmington, Me., Oct. 29 [Special]. —Florence Buzzell, 20 years old, pretty blonde protégée of a wealthy, middle aged family man being held on a charge of murder in connection with her gunshot death, was revealed today as having been wooed shortly before her slaying by another married man.

The identity of the other suitor was not revealed, but State Police Chief Henry P. Weaver said this rival was winning the vivacious girl away from Fred Wheeler, 50 years old, a wealthy cattle dealer who had financed her education at a secretarial school in Augusta.

Wheeler, the father of three daughters about Miss Buzzell's age, and a son, has pleaded not guilty to a charge of murder. Superior Judge Albert Beliveau today set his trial for Nov. 24.

Authorities disclosed they had in their possession Florence's voluminous diary in which she described 122 love affairs which she wrote that she had experienced in three years. It was said the diary named the men with whom the popular girl carried on the romances. Some local youths named have been questioned by police.

Two Negroes Die in Fire; Third Injured in Leap

A colored man and woman were burned to death and a third Negro was injured yesterday when a fire, apparently started when an oil stove exploded, burned out a two room apartment at 51 East 44th street. About 100 persons were driven to the street when the fire spread to other apartments. The man was Oliver Kelty, also known as William Smith, 40 years old. The dead woman was not identified. Gus Daigre, 50, suffered a skull fracture when he jumped from a window.

DIES IN FALL FROM CHURCH.

George Schuh, 51 years old, 6919 Carpenter street, a tuck pointer, was injured fatally yesterday when he fell 100 feet after a frayed rope snapped on a scaffold. He was working on the Bethel Congregational church, 1412 North Sheffield avenue.

2 CONTRACTORS PLEAD GUILTY TO BRIBERY CHARGES

Chicago Men to Testify in Detroit Trial.

W. S. Lipman.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 29 [Special].— Seymour S. Smith and William S. Lipman, Chicago contractors, whose firms were successful bidders 13 months ago on the $8,300,000 Herman Gardens federal housing project, pleaded guilty today to conspiracy to bribe public officials.

The guilty pleas were a surprise, as Lipman and Smith had resisted extradition since their indictment here several months ago. Their attorney said they would testify during the trial of co-defendants on the conspiracy charge to tell the "true and complete story" of the alleged conspiracy to distribute a $30,000 bribe fund.

Councilmen in Prison.

Three Detroit councilmen have been convicted of receiving bribes and have been removed from office. John F. Hamilton and Harry I. Dingeman are serving prison terms after pleading guilty, and Robert G. Ewald is on bond pending an appeal from his conviction by a jury.

The guilty pleas were offered to Judge W. McKay Skillman, while codefendants in the case appeared before Judge Arthur J. Gordon in another courtroom of the same building. Bond of $5,000 was arranged for Lipman and Smith, and the sentencing date set for Nov. 19. The maximum penalty on the charges is five years in prison and $2,500 fine.

Co-defendants on Trial.

The co-defendants in the Lipman-Smith case are S. Brooks Barron and Oscar A. Adel, Detroit attorneys; Dr. Lyle C. Ling, former deputy coroner, and Samuel A. Berman, representative of the Raisler corporation, a New York heating subcontractor.

Lipman and Smith came here from Chicago to plead guilty after conversations with Prosecutor William E. Dowling, but assured Judge Skillman there had been no inducements and no promises.

Heater Explodes

Bruno Kowalsky, who was asleep in house at 5057 Addison street when water heater exploded, with dog, "Snoopy," whose leg was injured in the blast.

A grandmother was injured yesterday by a water heater explosion in the basement of her home at 5057 Addison street. Several other members of the family were shaken. The grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Olszewski, 61 years old, has a fractured left leg and was taken to Belmont hospital. A grandson, John Kowalski, 5, a victim of shock, was taken to the same hospital.

Burglars in 2 Homes Get Jewelry Valued at $8,250

Two burglaries on the south side yesterday netted thieves $8,250 in loot. Dr. Edwin W. Hirsch, a physician, 1755 East 55th street, reported that thieves entered his home and stole jewelry valued at $4,750. O. W. Burger, 5307 Hyde Park boulevard, reported that burglars took $3,500 in jewelry from his home.

Dec. 6th. You were born under the sign of Sagittarius; your ruling planet, or birth star, is Jupiter. You are well-fitted for the vocation you have selected, since you have a pleasing personality and are friendly and adaptable. You are not inclined to be conservative, and enjoy speaking the truth, sometimes without regard for the consequences. Guard against a tendency toward exaggeration and impulsiveness. Thursday should be a good day for you.

Zan Tucker, Henderson, Ky.

Oct. 21st. You were born under the sign of Scorpio; your ruling planet is Mars. You are essentially strong-willed and serious, with a definite sense of duty. You are determined and positive by nature, with an interest in investigation and the courage of your convictions. You must guard against a tendency to be skeptical, and must always cultivate a habit of graciousness and courtesy to others, since you are apt to be rather blunt.

Faye Zuburg, Chicago

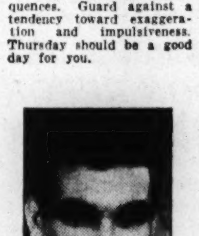
Oct. 4th. Your sign of the Zodiac is Libra; your birth star, or ruler, is Venus. You have a gentle, pleasant disposition and are generally good-natured and friendly. You are tactful of speech and have a great love of beauty. Guard against a tendency to avoid that which you dislike; apply your best efforts to all that you do. Friday should be your best day for personal advancement.

J. Colby Beekman, Petersburg, Ill.

Dec. 16th. Your sign of the Zodiac is Sagittarius; your ruling planet, or birth star, is Jupiter. You are a direct and rather independent person, frank and open in your dealings, and inclined to state your beliefs, regardless of possible consequences. You are generally good-natured and jovial, but must guard a tendency to be impulsive. Thursday should be your best day for advancement.

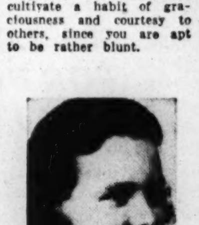
Ilene J. Getz, Chicago

May 4th. You were born under the sign of Taurus; your ruling planet, or birth star, is Venus. With proper training, you may excel in one of the arts. You have the strength and persistence necessary for success, and are willing to concentrate on progress. Active by nature, you have a practical turn of mind, but may, at times, be rather blunt. Guard against a tendency to be obstinate or fixed in your opinions.



R. Jerome Berg, Chicago

Aug. 25th. You were born under the sign of Virgo; your ruling planet is Mercury. You are a practical and serious person, with an analytical turn of mind. You are fair as a rule, but are not emotional or impulsive at any time. You have a real wish to be constructive and helpful to others, but must not permit yourself to be critical or condescending with those who do not have your high standards.



Barbara Menefee, Ambia, Ind.

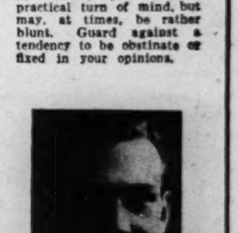
May 30th. You were born under the sign of Gemini; your planetary ruler, or birth star, is Mercury. You probably have an innate desire for change, and must guard against a tendency to be overly versatile and scatter your abilities. Sensitive and thoughtful, you have a retentive memory and many interests. You have a generous and kindly nature and a generally charming manner. If you can learn to concentrate and persist in any one thing, you can probably win success.

C. L. Barritt, Chicago

June 3rd. Your sign of the Zodiac is Gemini; your ruling planet is Mercury. Because of your eager interest in a wide variety of things, you may find yourself overdoing. You have a keen, inquisitive mind, and can be relied upon to think clearly and act with good judgment in an emergency. You probably enjoy discussions, and you can generally win your point through persuasion and quiet force. Avoid a tendency to be diffusive.

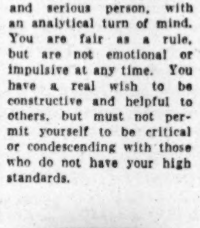
Mrs. J. K. Wells, Sioux Center, Iowa

Jan. 14th. You were born under the sign of Capricorn; your ruling planet is Saturn. Self-reliance and practicality are two of your outstanding characteristics. Inclined to be serious and patient in your general outlook, you seldom shirk responsibility. Gifted with organizing ability and a strong will, you can be successful in almost any task you assume. However, you must guard against a tendency to be unnecessarily apprehensive.



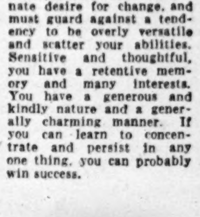
Adrian R. Oleck, Chicago

Apr. 30th. Your sign of the Zodiac is Taurus; your birth star, or ruler, is Venus. You are essentially a stable and well-balanced person, and are gifted with mental and physical energy. You are well-fitted to soothe those who are excitable, and you have a generally pleasing personality. Good-humored and kind-hearted as a rule, you must avoid losing your temper, since it is apt to be a rather furious one and may lead you to rashness or obstinacy.



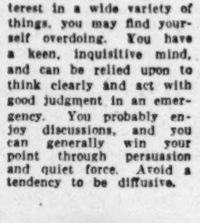
Muriel Martin, Hart, Mich.

Aug. 26th. Your sign of the Zodiac is Virgo; your ruling planet, or birth star, is Mercury. You are probably most reserved and tend to be shy with strangers. Neatness and order are two of your most outstanding characteristics. You have much quiet energy and can be most capable in an emergency. Probably you are quite discriminating in your personal tastes, and rather intellectual in your interests, but you must avoid a tendency to be critical of others.



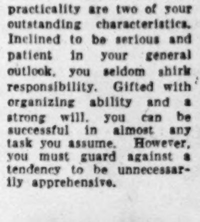
Jerry Goffron, Chicago

Feb. 21st. You were born under the sign of Pisces; your ruling planet is Neptune. Your greatest handicap is probably a lack of confidence in your own abilities. If you can learn to cultivate self-assurance, you can succeed in any line of work which you enjoy. You are a good judge of people, and are gifted with intuition, but must guard against letting your sympathies run away with you. You are a faithful and loyal friend.



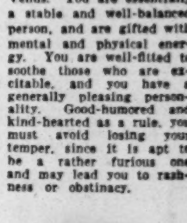
Mary Comeford, River Forest, Ill.

May 14th. You were born under the sign of Taurus; your ruling planet is Venus. You have a friendly and affectionate disposition, and are an energetic and persistent person. However, you must guard against a tendency to depression and, at times, stubbornness. You are a constructive worker, and are dependable and kindly. You appreciate the material things of life, and comforts and possessions.



Emil G. Nehls, Chicago

Jan. 24th. You were born under the sign of Aquarius; your ruling planet is Uranus. You are a quiet and rather reserved person, and have a strong and determined will. You enjoy freedom of thought and action and are inclined to be rather independent by nature. You are able to work progressively and constructively toward any goal you decide upon, but must avoid a tendency to disregard the opinions or rights of others.

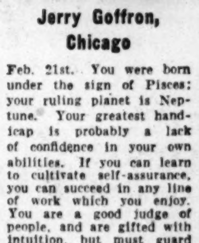


Mary E. Broske, Rewey, Wis.

Dec. 18th. You were born under the sign of Sagittarius; your ruling planet, or birth star, is Jupiter. Thursday should be your best day for personal advancement and the coming year is slated to be an interesting and eventful one for you. You are essentially honest and straightforward, and have a friendly and happy disposition. Generous by nature and easily adaptable, you must avoid a tendency to be impulsive.

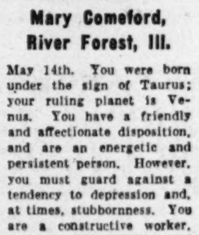
Francis C. Brewer, Peoria, Ill.

Oct. 29th. Your sign of the Zodiac is Scorpio; your ruling planet is Mars. You have a gift for investigation, are endowed with a strong will and are able to act with courage and decision at all times. You are inclined to be intense, but are an excellent judge of human nature. You have capabilities that should help you in work of an executive nature. Guard against excesses of any kind and avoid a tendency to be possessive.



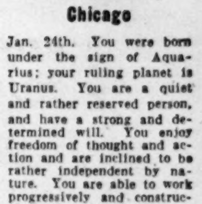
Ruth Ohlin, Chicago

Feb. 15th. You were born under the sign of Aquarius; your ruling planet is Uranus. Wednesday should be your best day for personal advancement, and if you wish, you can excel in scientific work. You are naturally a kindly and humanitarian person, but must avoid a tendency to dominate others and force opinions, which you believe to be correct, upon them. You are apt to be original in your thinking and to be a capable and determined worker.



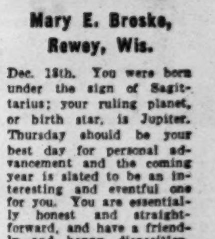
W. T. Tanking Jr., Racine, Wis.

Apr. 21st. You were born under the sign of Taurus; your ruling planet is Venus. You are generally reserved and good-natured, but when angered can be most unreasonable and rash. You are gifted with both physical and mental strength, and are kindly and affectionate, although probably loath to express your deepest feelings. Guard against a tendency to be too persistent; learn to relax and enjoy yourself.



Sonja Chuk, Chicago

Aug. 13th. You were born under the sign of Leo; your ruling planet is the Sun. You are a reserved, though affectionate, person with an even and generally happy disposition. You have strong home ties, and are a true and loyal friend. You are magnetic and forceful, and although rather quick to lose your temper, you are equally quick to forgive and forget. You must guard against a tendency to dominate others, or to be overly proud.



Louis C. McKean, Round Lake, Ill.

Nov. 19th. You were born under the sign of Scorpio; your ruling planet is Mars. You are essentially a strong and aggressive person, gifted with much energy and vitality. You are a shrewd judge of people and tend to be analytical. Inclined to be emotional, you must guard a tendency to be an extremist, and to be condescending or critical of others. Tuesday should be your best day for advancement.

NO RED PAVING FOR STATE ST., MAYOR RULES

It'll Be Black Asphalt, He Tells Merchants.

Mayor Kelly said "No" yesterday to a proposal of the State street merchants to have State street from Lake to Van Buren streets paved in maroon colored concrete. He said the new pavement will be black asphalt.

Representatives of the State Street council called on the mayor to get a final answer to their proposal, which was made several months ago. The delegation included Elmer T. Stevens of Chas. A. Stevens & Sons, president of the State Street council; Hughston McBain, vice president of the council and of Marshall Field & Co., and R. F. Starr, engineer for Marshall Field & Co.

Mayor Hears Proposal.

The three men told Mayor Kelly the council desired to have the main downtown shopping street paved in concrete colored with red granite chips and iron oxide. Safety loading zones for street cars and crosswalks for pedestrians should be outlined with strips of white concrete, they said.

The council officials said such paving would cost no more than asphalt, which already had been specified for all downtown streets by city engineers.

Mayor Kelly gave three reasons for preferring asphalt to concrete. They were:

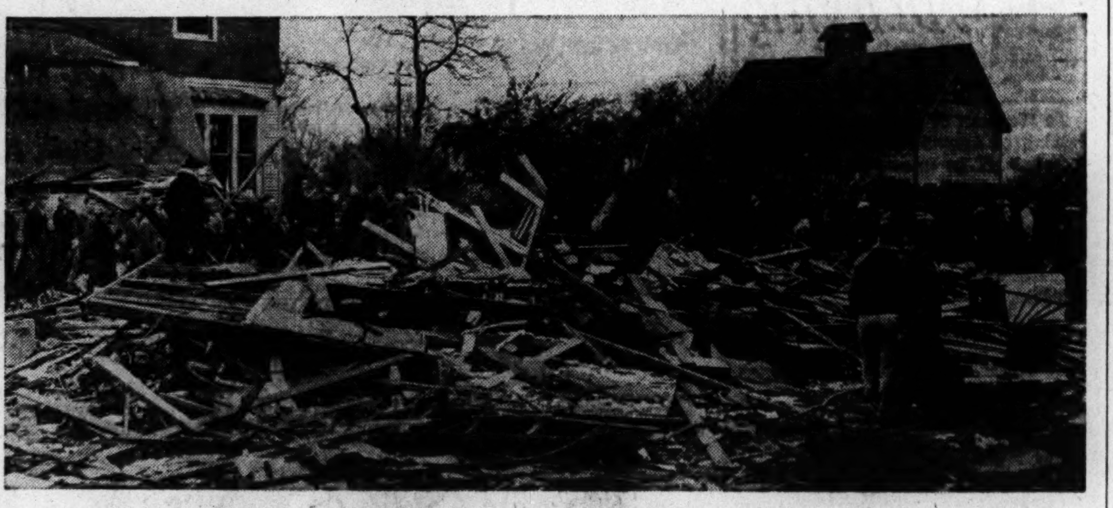
1. Some time ago city engineers decided all downtown streets would be paved with asphalt for uniformity and ease in patching.
2. Patches on a tinted pavement would be more noticeable than on asphalt.
3. Putting down a colored pavement would bring similar requests from every other shopping district.

Council Approval Expected.

Stevens explained after the conference with Kelly that he appeared only to present a formal request from the council. He added: "I am of the opinion that the council will approve Mayor Kelly's recommendation. We have had red granite cobblestone streets in Chicago for years, and they never attracted particular attention. The mayor told us he would endeavor to have space paved by the surface lines present the same surface as the rest of the street, and that will be fine."

William Mathews, city street engineer, said final plans for State street are being prepared and will be sent to state officials for approval next week. He said the pavement will be completed next year. Mayor Kelly said yesterday the street will be cleaned of all possible obstructions caused by subway construction for the Christmas shopping period.

Ruins of Home Destroyed by Explosion in Zion



The ruins of the home of the Carl Wortham family in Zion yesterday after an explosion destroyed it and ripped the houses on both sides of it. No one was injured. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Family Away

An explosion yesterday blasted into kindling a story and a half frame dwelling at 2205 Ezra avenue, in Zion, and damaged two neighboring houses. The house destroyed was that of Carl Wortham Jr., 27 years old.

He was at work as a factory timekeeper in Waukegan at the time, and his wife was in the St. Therese hospital with a baby girl born Monday. No one was in the house.

The blast occurred about 3 p. m. Débris flew 300 feet. The blast also ripped open the sides of two flanking houses, one empty, at 2203 Ezra avenue, and the other, that of Mrs. Ella Nelson, at 2207 Ezra. Mrs. Nelson, 76, colored, who was playing a hymn on the piano, was showered with débris.

TEACHER BREAKS 5 TRAFFIC LAWS; PAYS $42 FINE

Miss Clara Lautenslager, 39 years old, a teacher at Waller High school, paid a $42 fine last night in the court of Judge Joseph B. Hermes for failure to have a city license or safety sticker, for illegal parking, failure to show her driver's license and disorderly conduct.

Motorcycle Patrolman Larry Powers, who arrested Miss Lautenslager in front of 1421 North Wells street Oct. 21, said she refused to give her name or address or to show her driver's license, and that she promised to kill him "if I ever catch you in a dark alley with that motorcycle."

Judge Hermes expressed surprise at this, and Miss Lautenslager explained that she had been "joking." She promised to travel henceforth by "street car or plane."

Boy Naps in Movie; Police and Manager Release Him

Earl Krone, 7 years old, expressed his opinion of triple features last night by falling sound asleep in the Karlov theater, 4048 Armitage avenue. His mother, Mrs. Carrie Krone, 4157 Armitage avenue, who had been sitting farther back in the theater, reported his disappearance to Cragin police when he failed to come home. Sergt. John De Laurentis and a squad went to the theater, pounded on the doors, and Earl stumbled sleepily into the outer lobby. Unable to open the doors or to get Earl to do so from the inside, police called firemen. Joseph Kaznierski, assistant manager, hurried over and released Earl.

WOMAN IS KILLED BY AUTO AS SHE QUITS STREET CAR

A woman tentatively identified as Mae Schwartz, about 50 years old, of 1748 North Meade avenue, was killed early today by an auto driven by Carl Lindstad, 40, of 3214 Le Moyne avenue, as she alighted from a street car at North and Meade avenues.

C. H. Hagans, president of the Aurora National bank, and his wife, Emma, were injured, the latter seriously in an automobile collision yesterday near their home at 121 Harrison street, Aurora. According to police, their car was struck by one driven by John Callihan, 809 Prairie street, Aurora. Mrs. Hagans, 63 years old, suffered head and internal injuries and an ankle fracture.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 772 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 533 were killed in Chicago, where 21,213 persons were injured in the same period.

STUDENT FACES FURTHER QUIZ IN DEATH OF 2

Manslaughter charges against Clarence McDonald Jr., 20 year old engineering student at the Illinois Institute of Technology, were continued in Boys' court yesterday to Nov. 6 at the request of attorneys for the estates of two men who were killed by McDonald's automobile on Oct. 5. One of the attorneys, James Muench, charged that the coroner's inquest which found the deaths accidental and exonerated McDonald was a fraud and a farce.

Muench represents the estate of John P. Grady, 64, of 1508 Rosemont avenue. The other victim was John Doles, 59, of 2746 North Artesian avenue. The accident occurred at Western and Devon avenues. Varying testimony as to how fast McDonald was driving and whether Grady and Doles were crossing against the traffic light was given at the inquest conducted last Friday by Deputy Coroner Edward English. McDonald and his four companions had had several beers in taverns, but all denied he was intoxicated at the time of the accident.

Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin told Judge George L. Quilici that he did not believe there was sufficient evidence for a manslaughter charge and the court continued the case for further investigation. Another charge—leaving the scene of an accident—was placed against McDonald, who is the son of a wealthy electrical goods manufacturer and lives at 314 South Humphrey avenue, Oak Park.

Former Park Policeman Re-elected Fund Trustee

Henry Cummings, a former Chicago Parks District policeman, was reëlected yesterday to his sixth term as pensioner-trustee of the Park Police Annuity and Benefit fund. Cummings quit the force in 1918 after 21 years' service. He has served as trustee and secretary of the board since 1921. His home is at 3429 West 66th street.

BUICK BUILDS FOR DEFENSE
The buy for 1942 3 4 5 ? ? ?

WHEN we present this rugged Buick for 1942, we do so in no spirit of "business as usual."

On the contrary, it is a decidedly unusual car for unusual times, prepared in these and many other ways to serve you through longer-than-usual ownership:

Look at its frame – solid, substantial, husky, the sturdy sort of foundation every long-lasting structure must have.

Look at the springs – all-coil springs, that never need special care and never lose their easy comfort. Look at the new broadrim wheels that not only steady the ride but get maximum life from tires.

Look at the power plant. More efficient, to begin with, because it's a valve-in-head straight-eight, it gets maximum return out of gasoline from FIREBALL design – plus the top range-with-thrift of Buick's exclusive Compound Carburetion†.

Look at connecting rods – where strength has been added without adding weight – and look at bearings that, because of brand-new, Buick-conceived oil-cushioned finish, go twice as long in engineers' tests as previous bearings under the same weight and load.

Finally look at room – style – finish – body lines. If you're going to keep a car longer, you'll want the latest word in such things if for no other reason than for keeping up morale!

So – no matter how many years in your yardstick, lay them out beside Buick – and see how this rugged traveler takes their measure with plenty to spare!

No other car has ALL THIS FOR YOU IN 'FORTY-TWO

You get BROADRIM WHEELS, for improved ride and handling.

QUOTING ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Government Unimpaired.

The chief magistrate derives all his authority from the people, and they have conferred none upon him to fix terms for the separation of the states. The people themselves can do this also if they choose; but the executive, as such, has nothing to do with it. His duty is to administer the present government, as it came to his hands, and to transmit it, unimpaired by him, to his successor.

Abraham Lincoln.

Washington, March 4, 1861.

THE COMING LABOR FRONT.

Whether John L. Lewis' strategic retreat in the soft coal strike has come too late to prevent him from pulling labor down with him will soon be known. After rejecting three tenders to negotiate, he hurried into an 11th hour conference with Myron C. Taylor to try to save the situation. But the damage already had been done.

In a contest between two arrogant and wilful men, the president of the United Mine Workers has played into the hands of his present enemy and one time friend, Franklin D. Roosevelt. The regulation of trade unions is now being demanded by influential New Dealers.

Labor then would be the last element in the economic organization to be subjected to federal regulation and control. This was due neither to the wisdom of the leaders of labor nor the tolerance of an administration bent on centralizing all power in its own hands. First things simply had been dealt with first.

Reallocation of financial control was accomplished thru reorganization of the reserve system, the SEC, and Jesse Jones' federal loan agencies, which may well develop into a third Bank of the United States. The farmers were brought under control by crop restrictions and subsidies to pacify them for the loss of freedom. Thru the rearmament program, government has become the biggest customer of industry. Priorities, which mean life or death, consolidate the control of government over industry.

Labor alone was left. Moderation and wisdom were essential to the preservation of labor's liberty. If Mr. Roosevelt did not possess these qualities, Mr. Lewis might have supplied them. Under wise guidance, labor could not only have maintained itself as a free economic unit, but by calling an armistice in its warfare on industry might have assured the freedom of both.

But from the beginning Mr. Lewis failed to see where he was going. For two terms he was a fervid supporter of Mr. Roosevelt and his policies. He subscribed to the fallacy that labor was entitled to special rights and exemptions at the expense of the rest of the country, altho labor was and is a minority. He gave his blessing to all the legislation that was supposed to bring labor a new heritage of freedom.

He helped create the Frankenstein monster. Now it has turned on him and is on the point of smashing him. The labor front of the totalitarian state is on the way in. The fingers of the dictator's one hand will press down equally hard on finance, agriculture, industry, and labor. The other hand will be free to pull the strings that give the puppets simulated life.

DR. GOEBBELS' CROSLEY RATING.

Joe Goebbels is getting subtle. The new technique of the Nazi minister of propaganda and national enlightenment is to tell the German people bitter truths. Dr. Goebbels' message to the people of Berlin probably did not clock many laughs, but no one will dispute that for once the doctor was telling no lies.

"I know you have it hard today," Dr. Goebbels said. "Your wives sometimes stand for hours to buy some vegetables. Sometimes you have to go without a glass of beer, sometimes without cigarets. Then you have to shovel coal, then at nights go into air raid shelters and after two hours' sleep back to hard work. That is the way it is in many cities of the reich and in some it is even worse."

Many of Dr. Goebbels' past utterances have been distinguished more for propaganda than for national enlightenment. This one, if it brings scant comfort to the German people, has materially raised the doctor's Crosley rating. Even the master of ballyhoo no longer pretends to kid himself that war is fun.

THIEVES, CADS, ETC.

Mayor La Guardia, the Little Flower, has been strewing his petals upon the governor. At the last writing he had called Gov. Lehman a goniff, or thief, as well as a double crosser.

Mr. Lehman responded by tossing to the mayor a bouquet containing such posies as unbridled tongue, grossly abusive, inexcusable, etc., etc.

Mr. Jim Farley also visited the florist and arrived on the scene in time to present Mr. La Guardia with a wreath. Mr. Farley says La Guardia is a cad and a slanderer who has given the sovereign citizens of New York reason to bow their heads in shame. Mr. Farley explains President Roosevelt's indorsement of the cad and the slanderer for reëlection as a product of the President's desire to keep La Guardia out of the cabinet. The President, says Mr. Farley, knows only too well that the Little Flower lacks stability of character, the instincts of a gentleman, poise, and dignity.

Mr. Farley's contribution is a bit puzzling. For one thing, an examination of the present membership of the cabinet throws a good deal of doubt upon the statement that Mr. Roosevelt doesn't want cads and slanderers around him. For another, it might be supposed that if Mr. Roosevelt didn't want Mr. La Guardia in the cabinet, the simple expedient of not appointing him might accomplish the result.

Such considerations, however, are apparently not of much weight in a New York election, and particularly when New Dealers find themselves opposed by New Dealers. The exchange of compliments suggests that there has been a good deal of suppression of honest sentiment in recent years. When the election is over next week, however, it is not at all unlikely that the goniffs and cads will be found once again in the same bed.

MUSICA, BIOFF, AND C.P.A.

The audits of corporation accounts made by leading certified public accounting firms since 1938 have been more thoro and complete than they were before that year. When the auditors arrive to do their periodic jobs they bring along twice as many helpers as they used to and they stay twice as long. Philip Musica, the immigrant boy who became president of the country's largest wholesale drug house, is responsible for the increased scope of the audits.

Using the name of F. Donald Coster, Phil, an ex-convict, got control of McKesson & Robbins and became its president. By means of a fictitious raw drug department Musica and his brothers defrauded the company of 18 million dollars. Regular auditing practice then did not include the verifying of inventories. An accident resulted in the discovery that 18 million dollars' worth of drugs in the accounts were not in the warehouse. In fact, there wasn't any warehouse. Since Musica got away with the 18 million, inventories have been verified by auditing concerns at regular intervals.

But it seems that tho the auditors are bringing along more helpers, they still aren't bringing along enough. Some disclosures in a New York federal court during the last couple of weeks should further widen the scope of public accounting. Willie Bioff, the pander, who, as boss of the theatrical stagehands' union, extorted large amounts of money from the movie magnates, may turn out to have done as much to promote the public accounting profession as Phil Musica did.

The big shots from Hollywood testifying against Willie and his associate, George E. Browne, on trial for violation of a federal anti-racketeering law, have told not only the details of the shakedown but where they got the money to settle for $200,000 a year the attempted 2 million dollar extortion.

The movie men said that they feared that if they didn't pay Bioff would call crippling strikes and do them personal harm. Accordingly executives of the firms with the knowledge of the treasurers and controlers faked expense accounts and drew funds on phony vouchers to raise extortion money. Thru the accounting records of the movie companies are items covering many thousands of dollars for payments to the racketeers.

Stocks of the companies involved are widely distributed. Hundreds of thousands of owners of the securities of the companies have depended upon the audits of recognized public accounting firms to detect and report fraud if it were found. Since the published statements as certified make no reference to these wholesale fraudulent payments, it appears that the accountants did not discover the irregular payments to the racketeers.

Another step forward is clearly indicated as desirable. In well managed companies a complete auditing job now ought to prevent such stealing as Musica's but also such irregularities as were indulged in by the movie men to buy off Bioff.

FOR THE REPUBLIC.

As chairman of the Republican national committee, Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. has called a meeting of state chairmen and vice chairmen. They are to confer in Washington on Jan. 12 to lay plans for the congressional elections the following November.

Mr. Martin, after talking with party workers in a dozen states, has returned to the capital confident that the election next year will be won if the Republican organization is brought to a high state of efficiency. Accordingly, he has called the meeting of the state chairmen with a view to perfecting his organization as rapidly as possible.

The importance of this effort can hardly be exaggerated. The trend has been running strong toward the creation of a totalitarian dictatorship in this country. The independence of the Supreme court is gone. The third term tradition has been violated. The executive departments and bureaus are issuing orders to citizens for which there is no warrant in law. The principles of sound fiscal management have been violated. Now a headstrong and wilful administration is seeking to plunge the nation into a war whose fruit for the survivors will be bankruptcy, social unrest, and widespread suffering, all of which will be cited as justifications for further extensions of the dictatorship.

That is the prospect if another subservient congress is returned to Washington. The hope of maintaining the republic lies in the Republican party. Its success next year will mean that dictatorship will not cross the Atlantic ocean.

MAY BIRKHEAD.

May Birkhead became a newspaper woman by the accident that placed her aboard the steamship Carpathia when it went to the rescue of the survivors of the Titanic disaster. That was the beginning of a newspaper career which she pursued for more than a quarter of a century. Since 1927 she was a member of the staff of THE TRIBUNE.

From her post in Paris Miss Birkhead covered society. But she was a woman of too much intelligence not to have a greater interest in the whole of human society than in the society that is spelled with a capital S. Behind the folderol of the races at Auteuil, the receptions, and coronations, she made the acquaintances and established the vantage point from which to draw a keenly accurate picture of the world events of recent years. She saw the fall of Paris and abandoned her post there only when she was stricken by the illness which caused her death. She was a very gallant lady.

DAMAGE FROM BOMBING.

[The Tulsa Tribune.]

To read the stories of the great bombing raids on London, to see the pictures of the roaring fires and crumbling walls gives an impression that most of the city must be leveled. Yet we know that this is not the case.

How much actual damage is being done by these ferocious bombings? The Economist, British financial journal, estimates that damage to British property from German bombing in the first two years of the war comes to $480,000,000. They reached the estimate from the actual figures of an insurance company which found losses to its London holdings had reached 3½ per cent.

If this estimate is anywhere near correct [and of course no one can know] the surprising thing about it is that it is not greater. The really great losses of this or any other war are not those which can be measured in dollars.

A MAN FROM WYOMING.

We wish the inch-long item from Lava Hot Springs, Idaho, mentioning the death of Charles F. Ball, 76, had been expanded to half a column. Then we might know why "his life was said to have provided the theme for Owen Wister's 'The Virginian'." Did he, when riding the Wyoming prairies in the 1880s, meet a pretty New England schoolma'am named Molly? Did she teach him to read and admire Shakespeare and thus make a better, tho not a braver, man of him? And did he, on his wedding day, settle his feud with Trampas, a bad man who could shoot the spot out of an ace, according to the old Wyoming custom?

We would like to know these things in order to mourn without skepticism over the passing of Mr. Ball, who seems to have sprung from New York state rather than Virginia. Lacking evidence in the matter and being slightly suspicious of old timers who claim to have been the prototypes of fictitious characters, we will continue to think of the Virginian [he had no other name in the story] in terms of Dustin Farnum, who acted the rôle.

"The Virginian" was published in 1902, and we read its covers off. So did nearly every other American of our generation, and the play, which came along a year or two later, had a national vogue and a long life. Even today, when romances of the western plains, old style, are under discussion, "The Virginian" is placed at the head of the class.

The original Trampas, whose slaying in fair gun fight by the Virginian we have witnessed dozens of times, was not William S. Hart of later movie fame, as many people believe. He was Frank Campau, to our notion an even better bad man. Hart came into the cast later, and in 1907 he took over the title rôle. The town of Buffalo, Wyo., claims to have been the scene of this street duel, and on the packets of matches issued by its Occidental hotel you will find the slogan, "Where the Virginian got his man." In the lobby you will see a picture of the hotel as it looked in the 1880s, when the Virginian may have taken his bride there for a wedding breakfast, after mopping up Trampas.

TO A HALLOWEEN WITCH.

Little witch with turned-up nose,
In your fancy costume clothes,
Merry eyes, with mischief lit,
Mind that sparks with ready wit,
Lips of red, not Nature's hue,
Your eager hand has placed askew.

No broomstick do you ride tonight;
Your thoughts in wild, adventurous flight
Meet goblins, skeletons and spooks,
And eerie characters from books.
In all the stories I've heard tell
There was no greater magic spell
Than that you cast so artlessly,

Blame It on the Lawyers.

There is nothing mysterious about the expression, "Time is of the essence" [Oct. 28]. It is used by attorneys in discussing the rights of the parties who have entered into a contract in which a time element is stated. In such a case, time is "of the essence" of the contract.

As to the grammar of the phrase "of the essence," it is simply a shorter way of saying "a part of the essence," the "essence" being, of course, the necessary or essential elements. Therefore, "Time is of the essence of the contract" means: "Time is essential in the contract."

Undoubtedly many writers and speakers who are not attorneys have studied or read enough business law to make them familiar with this expression. They use it without any intention of being high-flown or affected in their language.

Once on a time they say the bat
Had but the mud for habitat,
But not content to be earth-bound
He thought he'd like to leave the ground.
For years and years his time was spent
In aerial experiment,
And tho he often cracked his sconce
He kept on trying, for the nonce,
Until today he flits on high,
The only mammal that can fly.

UNDERSTAND YOUR BEHAVIOR.

When we speak of "physique" we refer to the components of the body—the skeleton, the muscles, the nerves, and the vital organs. "Temperament," on the other hand, refers to the mental makeup with all of its moods.

No matter how much we study the mind, no one has been able to supply a complete analysis or to explain the vagaries of thought. We know that the nervous system can be excited or depressed. Some of us are given to outward exhibitions of feeling, while others are restrained and quiet.

There is a vast difference between these two natures. The bubbly, spontaneous individual is likely to develop frazzled nerves rather quickly. He cannot endure monotony. In other words, something must be doing all the time in order to remain in normal spirits. We call such a one high strung, vivacious or, to be more accurate, restless. Thriving on excitement, a goodly amount of physical energy is wasted.

In sharp contrast, the calm, phlegmatic man or woman requires a powerful stimulus to stir him up. But, once aroused, he will remain in that state far longer. Such persons grumble but little—they make the best of a situation and find happiness in relatively simple things.

Between these two extremes many intermediate personalities are found. They appear well controled and possess a sense of balance. They represent those who get plenty of fun out of life, but who refuse to be carried away with joy or grief. The objective of education and training is to develop evenness. Most of us prefer not to be classed in the category of the excitable; neither do we wish to be considered uninteresting.

We cannot separate the nervous system, including mentality, from the physical body. We are dealing with complementary and indispensable parts. Some day we shall probably find that the cause of mental illness lies in certain organic ailments.

The intimacy of the control of the nerves over one's behavior is well illustrated in the experiments of the Russian physiologist, Pavlov. He showed that food placed in the mouth will bring on a rapid flow of saliva. If, coincident with this procedure, a bell is rung and taste is associated with the sound, after a time merely beating a gong will start the secretion.

Another device involves the use of a drug to produce vomiting. If, just as the stomach contractions begin, a drum is struck, after a while the noise itself will bring about the same effect. These are called "reflex phenomena" but they account for the fact that we do certain things under a given set of circumstances. The mind translates the particular vibration into a sense of nausea and the emptying of the gastric pouch ensues.

The reason why some of us conduct ourselves erratically in the presence of abnormal excitement is because we are unable to reason. The story is told of a soldier who departed for the rear at the "boom" of the opening gun of a battle. When finally corralled, he stated that he didn't run away—his legs did it for him.

Most of our morbid ideas and superstitions arise because we have lost faith in ourselves. This also explains why a nation may follow one who is constantly promising achievements. Thus far Hitler has retained the fealty of the German people. But just as soon as failure succeeds failure, and they really know about it, opinions will change over night, and out of it will come a new government.

Mass movements may be horribly unjust—either in devotion or hate. The prestige of the leader of a mob is rarely based upon his personality or upon sober respect for his intellect. He is the "big shot" only so long as he can carry his adherents to victory.

The abdomen is no place to carry a "spare tire." An adjustable girdle, which will raise the diaphragm, will be helpful. In addition, employ bending exercises morning and evening.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

A BRUTAL, NEEDLESS ORDER.

River Forest, Ill., Oct. 27.—The Supply Priorities and Allocation board, now referred to as the SPAB, would be better characterized by the letters, "STAB." Its stop building order was a stab in the back of the building industry. By means of one needless, brutal, and unlooked for order the employment, plans, and hopes of millions dependent upon this industry were blasted, builders and firms financing homes were brought face to face with bankruptcy, and the way laid for outrageous increases in rents for living quarters. If one Washington burocrat by one order can jerk to a halt and lay waste an 11 billion dollar industry, the second largest in the country, what rights or freedom have we left? Is not this dictatorship of the most brutal variety? Could Hitler damage the country as much with a thousand bombers? Are we not slaves already? I. ASKU.

VOICE OF RAIL EMPLOYES.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—The letter, "Good-By to the Railroads," aroused me. To those who might feel pessimistic along with the writer of the letter, J. Albert Reeves, for the future of the railroads because of the 30 per cent salary increase sought by the employés, might I say a word in defense of the employés?

If the trucks were to pay proportionately as much in taxes for the repair of the roads they use as the railroads do for the purchase and maintenance of their own right of way, competition might be on a fairer basis.

Altho the railroads during the last 20 years have enjoyed a period of great prosperity and have also suffered a depression, this is even truer of the employés.

Altho railroad revenues have steadily mounted for the last seven or eight months, the number added to the pay roll has been negligible. In fact, the number of employés is less now than it was 20 years ago. It seems only fair for the present increased profits to be shared.

As for the 30 per cent increase in railroad employés' salaries, don't feel too sorry for the railroads until they pay it.

FAIRPLAY.

PEACE AND PEACE MONGERS.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—I quote Mrs. Roosevelt from last night's radio talk: "We are all praying for peace."

The above expressions coming from the White House explain why this country no longer has sanity in government.

G. F. G.

SECONDS THE MOTION.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—As to your reader's letter asking for "an honest to goodness evening paper": Me, too, for gosh sakes. Let's have an evening newspaper [preferably of the New York Daily News type] that is a newspaper, not a mirror for the Washington and eastern seaboard outfit. Truly the tripe in our evening rags is nauseating. Please, MR. TRIBUNE.

ANOTHER READER.

FOOD IN THIS MEAT CENTER.

Glen Ellyn, Ill., Oct. 24.—I recently made a trip some 500 miles away and had occasion to go into some grocery and meat markets. I was amazed by the fact that foods and meats were from 5 to 25 cents cheaper per pound or can than they are in the Chicago and suburban markets, altho all foods and meats are shipped from Chicago to that city. The irony was topped, however, when I learned that friends had purchased well known packaged meats in London at from $1 to $2.50 less than we pay in Chicago. It's quite an asset to live in the meat center of the world, isn't it?

J. CARLSON.

THE DEAD IN THE WAR.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—This second World war was started off by England's declaration of war on Germany. At this date we have the following list of military dead of the major powers as compiled by the New York Daily News:

Soviet loss	2,585,000
French loss	2,365,000
Polish loss	1,675,000
German loss	1,282,000
Italian loss	252,000
British loss	134,000

After the completion of this list by the inclusion of millions of our own dead does this not look like the old fox is playing the game very nicely for a final cleanup on the exhausted dupes?

F. A. B.

NOTE TO MOVIE HOUSES.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Why don't the movie theaters in the Loop mention the starting time of the feature picture in their daily advertisments? Failure to do this causes great annoyance to patrons.

And why is Chicago treated like Whistle Stop or Podunk by the exhibitors? Pictures like "Sergeant York" and "Dumbo" appear for weeks in New York before we get them in Chicago.

Please, Mr. Balaban of Hollywood, will you tell your associates about Chicago? Remember the little town that started you on your successful career.

HARRY ASH.

IN THE CAUSE OF LIBERTY.

Arlington Heights, Ill., Oct. 25.—In the columns of all the papers the other day I read that the secretary of the navy stated that the "11 men who were missing from the Kearny incident died in the cause of liberty."

I am wondering if he would also say that the 23 young American sailors who went down with the sinking of an "obsolete" submarine last summer likewise gave their lives in the cause of liberty.

FAIR PLAY.

THE USE OF NARCOTICS.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—An article in the Chicago Defender reports the use of narcotics and marijuana by a group of Negro youths ranging in age from 14 to 19. There must be some sociological reason, for this group represents only a small part of the whole picture. Could it be bad housing, lack of wholesome recreation, faulty formal education, or any number of conditions that might give rise to such anti-social indulgences?

In its isolationist stand THE TRIBUNE has said that America should clean up at home both morally and physically before dashing off to fight another nation's war. Well, here is an opportunity to really demonstrate your program. Get at the cause of these conditions and put on a campaign to stamp them out. An endeavor of this kind may cost a little money, but your return will overbalance the cost in strong, upright, moral beings.

PINKEY HAYES.

SHORTER AND LONGER DAYS.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Your October daylight saving time was such a success [according to you] I'll give you a new idea to play around with.

Have our aldermen vote for shorter days in winter and longer days in summer. They could vote us into bed 6 hours a night in summer and 10 hours a night in winter. In that way we'd have longer hours for sports in summer and longer hours for sleeping in winter to build up energy for our summer sports. Sounds silly, doesn't it? Just as silly as your Sunday editorial. CECILIA C. DOYLE.

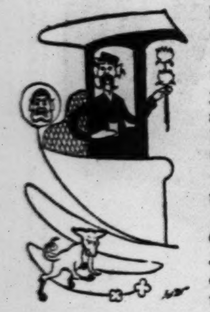
ADE-M'CUTCHEON SKETCHES OF '90s BLOSSOM AGAIN

Famed Series Reprinted by Book Lovers' Group.



Sketch illustrating the Beardsley influence on art.

Three newspaper men who half a century ago were responsible for putting on paper a living panorama of the Chicago of the '90s sat together again yesterday while admiring members of the Caxton club gave a new lease on life to their work.

The three are George Ade and John T. McCutcheon, creators of the work, and Charles H. Dennis, who as managing editor of the old Chicago Record gave them the assignment that made it possible. This was a commission to fill a two column space on the editorial page each day with human interest sketches of Chicago people, places, and events. "Stories of the Streets and of the Town," it was called.

Sketches by McCutcheon.

George Ade did the writing. John T. McCutcheon drew the sketches. From 1893 until 1897 they worked together. Then McCutcheon went on a world cruise. But the column continued until 1900. Selections from the feature were printed in paper backed volumes from time to time, much as THE TRIBUNE's Line o' Type or Two Linebook is now.

There were eight of these collections in all. About 20 years ago one of them was found by Franklin J. Meine, noted Chicago collector of American humor.

Only recently did he find the last one and only recently did he learn that these anonymous little books were the work of Ade and McCutcheon. Then Meine, who has edited several famed anthologies, including "Tall Tales of the Southwest," took his findings to the Caxton club.

This is an organization of book collectors who each year or two issue [or reissue] a work they consider a real contribution to American letters. The Caxton club commissioned Meine to collect and prepare representative sketches of "Stories of the Streets and of the Town." The first copies were off the press yesterday.

Second Artist Present.

At the luncheon celebrating the event, besides Ade, McCutcheon, and Dennis, was Carl Werntz of New York City, who drew some of the sketches after McCutcheon went abroad. They told some stories of their own about the seven year series out of which came Ade's "Pink Marsh" and "Fables in Slang."

Their favorite of all the stories is "Mr. Benson's Experience with a Maniac." And there are many others in the book: "Intellectual Awakening in Burton's Row," "A Fair-Minded Discussion in Dearborn Street," and the killer about the Beardsley influence on Chicago art.

Ade said he had thought his publishing days were over. Then he told a story that was for the ears of the Caxton club only. McCutcheon gave a little more detail about Mr. Benson and the maniac.

MRS. NORMA PINK.

Mrs. Norma Pink, 22 years old, 7902 South Paulina street, told Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday that her husband, John R., 35, an office manager, reacted violently when she did something to which he objected.

"I smoked a cigaret, and he beat me," she said. "When I visited my mother too often to suit him, he beat me again. So I decided to sue for divorce on the ground of cruelty."

Her attorney, Sol. R. Friedman, said Mrs. Pink would waive alimony. She got the divorce—also the right to use her maiden name, Norma Sample.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Charles Fahy.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29—Charles Fahy, assistant solicitor general of the United States, was nominated by President Roosevelt to be solicitor general, next-to-top position in the department of justice headed by the attorney general. Fahy would succeed Francis Biddle, former solicitor general and now attorney general. Biddle was promoted to fill the vacancy created by the appointment of Robert H. Jackson to the Supreme court.

The nomination of Fahy was expected and his approval by the senate is a foregone conclusion. However, the appointment was a blow to the ambitions of Thomas G. Corcoran, former No. 1 New Deal braintruster and political fixer.

Wires Pulled for Job.

Corcoran had expected to get the job as solicitor general after Chief Justice Hughes announced his retirement and it was reported that Jackson would be appointed to the court and Biddle would be named attorney general. Corcoran is known to have pulled some potent wires to land the post and succeeded in getting several members of the Supreme court to intercede for him at the White House.

Last month, however, Sen. Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], chairman of the senate judiciary committee, warned that if Corcoran's nomination was sent to Capitol hill, the committee would seize the opportunity to make an exhaustive inquiry into Corcoran's lawyer-lobbyist activties. Van Nuys predicted that the committee would find grounds for voting unanimously to reject the appointment.

Resigned Before Election.

Corcoran resigned from his government job before the election to circumvent the inhibitions of the Hatch act in working for President Roosevelt's election to a third term. After the election he entered private practice, which consisted chiefly in dealing with the government in behalf of various business interests.

He was quoted as telling friends that he intended to make a million dollars in one year and then to return to government service as solicitor general.

Fahy, who is 49 years old, is a native of Rome, Ga. He entered government service in 1933 as first assistant solicitor of the interior department and later that year became a member of the petroleum administrative board. Subsequently he was made chairman of the board and then was appointed general counsel for the National Labor Relations board.

Drafted Pact for Bases.

He has been with the justice department for the last year, and was a member of the special commission which drew the agreement between the United States and Great Britain whereby the United States secured air and naval bases on British possessions in this hemisphere in exchange for 50 destroyers.

Good Morning!

As an entertainer of charm, wit, and ingenuity Rosalind Russell has always been considered tops by this reviewer. . . . And never have I enjoyed her more than in "The Feminine Touch."

Essentially, Miss Russell IS feminine, and the old lace of her femininity peeps out from her most rollicking, football manner. . . . She is the sort of girl who can boss, mother, and cling, and I should think men would be mad about her. [Guess they are.]

The rôle of Julie Hathaway is right up her alley.

The story, once called "The Female of the Species," centers attention on four principal characters. . . . They are:

A college professor, who has written a learned book on jealousy and what a senseless emotion it is.

His wife, who adores and is jealous of him and boils over because she can't get him green-eyed.

A neurotic book publisher, who feels he is an all-women man and works at trying to be.

His secretary, who wants him for herself and who, for years, has desperately slaved at the job of persuading him he's a one woman guy—and she's the woman.

Hathaway's book is accepted for publication by Morgan, and succeeding episodes are often pricelessly funny. . . . The finale is preceded by several of the most hilariously rib-tickling situations you could imagine.

I reckon it won't hurt to whisper that the professor is transformed into a normal male of the species before Julie gets thru with him.

"The Feminine Touch" is smart from every angle. . . . Smartly written. Smartly acted. . . . Smartly directed, staged, and dressed. . . . And if you're smart you'll make it a "must."

See you tomorrow.

Here is as dainty and charming a little dress as any youngster from two to six could wish. It is easy to crochet, and the maker, as well as the wearer, will be inordinately happy with the results. The instructions are available in sizes 2, 4, and 6.

For instructions in crocheting the child's dress, No. 882, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Veloz and Yolanda Part in Program Ballet Is Canceled

Frank Veloz of the dance team of Veloz and Yolanda is ill with bronchitis, and the Veloz and Yolanda part of the four dance programs which Col. Wasily de Basil's Ballet Russe is giving at the Civic Opera house this week has been canceled. This was announced yesterday by Harry Zelzer, Chicago manager for both attractions. The ballet will expand its bills to fill the entire performance time. Revised programs are as follows: Tonight—"Les Sylphides," "Scheherazade," "Aurora's Wedding." Friday night—"Carnaval," "Francesca da Rimini," "Graduation Ball." Saturday afternoon—"Swan Lake," "Aurora's Wedding," "Graduation Ball." Saturday night—"Swan Lake," "Les Presages," "Blue Danube."

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Solomon of Drexel avenue announce the marriage on Oct. 25 of their daughter, Dorothy, to Capt. Edward E. Seidmon, son of Samuel Seidmon of Merrill avenue. Capt. Seidmon is stationed with the United States army medical corps at Carlisle barracks, Pa.

Dinner and Party.

The Woman's University club will have a Halloween party following dinner this evening at the club rooms, 410 South Michigan avenue.

YWCA Extends Friendly Hand to Lonely Girl

BY JUANITA DALY.

If the army has taken your boy friend and left you stranded on Wednesday and Saturday nights, don't despair. Ask the YWCA for help. Thousands of girls have joined the Y's business and industrial clubs to fill in their leisure time and larger groups are expected this year, according to records on YWCA service for the year just ended.

Miss Dosalée Venable, executive secretary in Chicago, said almost every department has expanded its work. Promises of new and better jobs have drawn thousands of young women to the city and filled to overflowing the four Chicago YWCA residences. Not even the world's fair put such a strain upon the association's housing resources, Miss Venable said.

Of the 13,782 guests in the residences 1,591 were permanent and 12,191 transients. Guests the preceding year totaled 12,667. Altogether 526,364 meals were served in the residences and other association centers.

An increase of 174 voting members, bringing the total to 2,843, indicates a larger number of individuals ready to work for the association as well as to be served by it, Miss Venable pointed out.

In only one place do the figures show a substantial decrease in the use of a Y service and this reflects the improved employment situation in Chicago. Fewer girls, 5,794 as compared with 7,540, turned to the YWCA employment bureau for vocational counseling and help in job placement. Enrollment in the practice school, where girls are able to brush up their typing and shorthand during periods of unemployment, also dropped from 1,813 to 1,269.

However, more young women obtained jobs thru the bureau than in 1939-'40 and a larger percentage of the placements were permanent. Several hundred more girls asked for advice in finding places to live.

In the field of new activities special stress has been placed on co-educational features in order to entertain the servicemen. Many of these boys who do not know how to dance have been attracted to the social dance group in the loop center where lessons are a part of the program. Girls at the McCormick residence give monthly dances for the midshipmen at Abbott hall.

Stage Notes

"Ah, Wilderness!" which had been scheduled for a Nov. 10 opening at the Grand Opera house, summarily canceled its Chicago engagement yesterday. Receipts from Monday's opening in Detroit totaled only $600, and apparently the Theater Guild feared that Chicago might treat the revival with similar coolness. The Grand has no alternative booking in sight.

Nov. 10 will, however, provide another first night—that of "Native Son," the dramatization of Richard Wright's novel, produced by Orson Welles and the Mercury theater. Starring Canada Lee, the drama will come to the Studebaker for an indefinite engagement.

On the preceding evening, Nov. 9, the Harris theater will be taken over by the mystery comedy, "Mr. and Mrs. North." The featured players are Anita Louise and Owen Davis Jr. The play was adapted by Owen Davis Sr. from a novel by Frances and Richard Lockridge.

A special matinée will be given by Katharine Cornell and her company in "The Doctor's Dilemma" this afternoon at the Grand Opera house for the benefit of the Actor's Fund of America.

The Jack and Jill Players open their fall season on Saturday afternoon with Alice Gerstenberg's dramatization of Kingsley's "The Water Babies." The Players operate in the Foresters' theater, 1016 North Dearborn street.

New Interest in Walking Is Beauty Aid

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

Our startled ears heard this from a woman who didn't look like a hiker at all: "I did four miles and a half today."

"You did?" exclaimed her companion. "I only did two, but I'll be up with you shortly."

It's in the air, this business of woman's physical fitness for defense. We hope it will bring better health and a greater awareness of the need of health. We have a hunch that the pretty doll babies in their hobble-de-hoy spikes are going to be criticized, as is the woman who, today, knows she should reduce but never gets around to it. And that will be a good thing for women themselves, as well as for the nation. When women set about policing each other, the result is more effective than sermonizing.

Then, too, there is the competitive angle, which acts as a spur when one woman says "I did four and a half miles today." That's quite a few miles, you know. You may not be able to get around to it right away, but it is a future prospect, and a merry one. There's no time of year like autumn either, for enrolling with the hikers.

The good we see in this for women is a complexion clearing course, completely magic. Did you ever, on a brisk day, take a look at yourself before stepping out for a long hike and on returning, take another look? It's skin clarifying magic!

Early Dinners 'Must' on Opera Opening Night

BY JUDITH CASS.

DINNER parties to precede the opening performance of the opera season usually are planned weeks in advance but no matter how long ahead they are planned, they always have to be set for an early hour. The curtain in the Civic Opera house waits for no man, nor woman, and is lifted promptly at 8 o'clock. Boxholders almost always are late in arriving but fortunately they do not disturb their neighbors, not much, that is.

The boxes that were added on the main floor several years ago have been removed this year, so there remains only the sweep of boxes at the rear of the great theater, 31 of them in two tiers, 14 in one and 17 in the other. There is no old-fashioned golden horseshoe in Chicago's new opera house such as the old Auditorium has.

Most of Boxes Are Sold for Opening Performance.

Most of the boxes for the opening on Nov. 8 have been sold and so have the majority of the main floor seats. Miss Elizabeth McCormick, her brother, Robert Hall McCormick; Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mr. and Mrs. James G. McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Leverone, Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, Fred A. Poor, Mrs. Louis E. Yager, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Cuneo, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Goldblatt, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Saltiel, and Mayor and Mrs. Kelly are some of those who are planning box parties to hear "The Masked Ball," which will be the first production this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Monroe Wynne have planned a dinner and opera party for Saturday night, Nov. 8, for Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Hawkes of Montclair, N. J., and Pasadena, Cal., who will be spending the week-end with the Wynnes in Winnetka. Mr. and Mrs. Wynne will take their guests to the Casino club to dine. Among those in their party will be Mr. and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift, and Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey H. Mellinger.

On Sunday, Nov. 9, Mr. and Mrs. Wynne will give a reception at their home, 770 Hill road, for Mr. and Mrs. Hawkes. Mr. Hawkes is president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and he and his wife are both well known here.

Opera Guild Sponsoring Benefit Program Today.

This afternoon at the Arts club things operatic probably will be discussed at length for, following a musical program that Edith Mason will give to benefit the music students' fund of the Illinois Opera guild, there will be a tea at which Giovanni Martinelli, artistic director of the Chicago Opera company, will be the special guest. Charlotte Caldwell [Mrs. Clifford], who will accompany Mme. Mason, and the soprano are donating their services.

Mrs. Louis Eckstein, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Mrs. Leeds Mitchell, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Frank C. Logan, Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher, Mrs. George Woodruff, and Mrs. Frederic W. Upham have been asked by Mrs. James G. McMillan, president, to pour.

"Come at four to say hello to Polly and good-by to Sally," Mr. and Mrs. I. Newton Perry have bidden their own and their daughters' friends, by way of clever little cards, to a party on Sunday at the Casino. Polly is Mrs. Harold Kneedler of Manila, who with her husband and three children has come to Chicago to spend the winter. Sally is Miss Perry, who is

Mrs. James G. McMillan, Giovanni Martinelli, and Mrs. William Ragland (Edith Mason) were enjoying themselves immensely when this picture of them having luncheon at Camellia House was taken. This afternoon they will be together again at the Arts club, for Mme. Mason is to give a musical there for the benefit of the Illinois Opera guild, of which Mrs. McMillan is president, and Martinelli, artistic director of the Chicago Opera company, is flying back from New York to be the special guest at the party.

Harold Townsend, Radio and Concert Tenor, Gives Recital

Harold Townsend, a tenor with extensive broadcasting and some concert experience, gave a recital in Kimball hall last night. In a program consisting of songs in a variety of languages and drawn from several musical epochs he revealed a voice whose most delightful characteristics are its ease of production and its soft, natural resonance.

Townsend has other things besides a good voice. He is accurate as to pitch and seems to have an innate feeling for the right tone coloring in the right place. Often it was difficult to understand his words. It was as if his very ease of production militated against the scrupulous definition of word sounds which singers with fewer natural gifts take such pains to achieve. Another thing on the debit side of the Townsend ledger is his habit of breaking the musical line occasionally with a sudden forte, even when there is no reason for it in text or music.

Note for Writers.

A note of possible interest to ambitious young writers is contained in some comments made by Bellamy Partridge, author of Country Lawyer and Big Family, while he was in town the other day. Partridge, a mild mannered, blue-eyed agreeable man, told how he had wanted to be a writer, but had studied law to please his parents. Finally he had broken away and gone west in search of experience, the raw elements of copy.

He sold real estate in San Diego, sold grindstones for a hardware store, and was cook in a mining camp. That was so he could learn the moods of the desert, he said. But when he finally sold his first story it wasn't about anything he had learned in any of the jobs he had undertaken for the sake of finding copy. It was about a woman trying to get her husband to buy her a car. He got a check for $100 for it from Harper's.

"I've written 14 books since, and not one of them had a California setting," he said. "All of them came out of my life at periods when I wasn't gathering material at all."

Hollywood has bought the rights to both Country Lawyer and Big Family.

Disapproval.

The gray stone mansion of the late Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick on the drive has been turned into a private school this autumn. The other day a little boy passing it with his mother noticed the children in the yard playing on the swings and slides and jungle gyms, and stopped to peer thru the bars of the great wrought iron fence.

"Come along, Junior," said his mother disapprovingly. "That's where they teach children to be good Republicans."

Foresight.

A Maywood resident answered a ring at his front doorbell to be confronted by a small lad wearing a mask.

"Any Halloween pennies, mister?" he asked.

"Sure, but why not wait until Halloween?" answered the householder.

Indoor Clambakes.

The story of the indoor clambake recently given by the vice president of Eureka college at Eureka, Ill., identified as "probably the first indoor clambake ever held in the middle west," brought in reminders from readers that the late Thomas C. Dennehy, until he died a year ago, held a clambake on the Fourth of July at his home in Hubbard Woods every year for at least thirty-five years, for his children, grandchildren, and other relatives. The recipe Mr. Dennehy followed was similar to the one printed except that he was partial to lots of onion in another cheesecloth bag. He also had a spigot soldered into the wash boiler to facilitate draining off the clam juice. Members of the Dennehy family speak highly of the clambake and recommend it as a form of entertainment.

Tables Rival Art Works at Institute Tea

BY MARTHA MURPHY.

"It's nice to have tea early and then see the pictures if you can," said one of the 5,000 Chicagoans who attended the Art institute's 63d annual reception and the opening of the 52d annual exhibition of American paintings and sculpture yesterday. Twelve women's clubs united in arranging five tea tables on the second floor and they, as usual, drew almost more attention than the art works in the exhibit.

Most of the guests were feminine —clubwomen and housewives who later would copy the table decorations for their own parties; stenographers from La Salle street who had been granted an hour's respite to come and see the show and sip tea, and mothers with tiny children who are being taught to appreciate beauty and art at an early age.

"If they'd only realize we just want to look!" one woman moaned as she shoved her way thru the crowd before the table arranged by Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy for the Fortnightly club and the Antiquarian society.

Mrs. Cudahy had used some of her own precious china which was once a part of the Hammer collection, formerly belonging to the Russian nobility. A tall white and gold china epergne filled with blue and yellow grapes, red and yellow apples, and the masterful touch of a half of a bright red pomegranate formed the centerpiece. Broad green bird of paradise leaves and short stalks of wheat shot up from the back of the mound of fruit, forming a picture which might have been a real life version of one of Georgia O'Keefe's Hawaiian paintings.

Two-branched crystal candelabra with white candles flanked the centerpiece, the candelabra dangling crystal prisms. On each side of the crystal were two-tiered china compotes filled with fruit. The compotes showed the blue bases and linings for which the Hammer china is famous.

The Antiquarian and the Allerton tea services were used on this table. "Who's the lovely lady in green sitting in that big carved chair at the end of the table?" one woman asked her neighbor. The lovely lady was Mrs. Louis F. Watermulder in green velveteen.

Mrs. Charles S. Davis had a special sheaf of pink, coral, and deep red anthuriums flown in from California for the table which she decorated for the Chicago Drama league and the Renaissance. The anthuriums were banked with pink and white coral around a pink and white figure of the Chinese goddess of mercy. A deep turquoise moire cloth was on the table and two silver tea services were used.

A gold and white striped cloth had been specially woven for the modern table which Mrs. John L. Cochran arranged for the Friday club, the Arts club, and the Contemporary club. Two jaunty black and gold blackamoors held pyramids of white carnations, Easter lilies, and sprays of yellow flowers like forsythia on each end of the table. "And a white service! Did you ever!" some one said of the chalk white modern tea service on this table.

A magnificent bouquet of red roses, tea roses, and wine colored mums formed the centerpiece on the long oval table which Mrs. John Haeberlin decorated for the Municipal Art league, the Art institute alumni, and the Chicago Woman's club. Runners of green and white filet picked up the color of the rare old bronze candelabra which represented Egyptian slave girls bearing trays of gifts—deep wine candles in this case.

Green and white, the Arché club colors, formed the decorations for the table which Mrs. Leroy John Zorn arranged for the Arché club and the Musicians' Club for Women. A mound of white chrysanthemums was arranged in a low bowl on a white Italian cloth. Green candles were placed in the twisted silver three-branched candelabra.

HOUSEHOLD FORUM

by Louise Bargelt

[Have you some household help that lightens labor, is there some convenience you could enjoy? We'll be glad to pass on your ideas to our readers.]

Mrs. George T., Chicago: Here's a comfort we could all enjoy this coming winter. Why not rubbers and galoshes made from that new rubber which gives off heat? They would be all to the good in zero weather!

Elinor G., Evanston, Ill.: When I want to cut buttons off garments, I slip a comb under buttons and then use a knife or razor. This saves cloth from any accidental cutting.

Mrs. Daniel M., Elgin, Ill.: When I find that the cane seats in any of our chairs are beginning to sag, I wash them with warm water and soap suds. This tightens them by shrinking them slightly. I let chairs dry thoroughly before using again.

Now your idea, please.

New Bowling Garb Is Swank and Flattering

BY REA SEEGER.

Nowhere except within the walls of a shop entirely devoted to sports apparel for women will you find the right outfits for whatever it is that is nearest to your heart for recreation, relaxation, and fun. In such a shop [one entire floor just for women] we found the long sought for dress for bowling. It's a dress that looks just like any other classic designed for freedom of the arms and body, and at the same time it loses nothing in smart silhouette, interesting detail, and the necessary flattering colors.

There are two models from which to choose. One is a knockout affair of smooth fine flannel, expertly cut and tailored with a bifurcated skirt. It has that obliging blouse top with a couple of deep inverted pleats, one on each side, that assures comfort and extra inches for the widest swing of the arms. Sleeves are short, necklines in a deep vee, and a narrow belt of the same material completes the necessary and supercomfortable details. The flannel is not thick, the colors are soft gray, green, and a stunning grege.

The second model is made of a cooler fabric, a novelty rayon mixture with a good looking smooth gabardine texture. The short sleeves are the details that provide the extra inches for action. The skirt has knife sharp pleats in front, a narrow buttoned panel to conceal the divided part of the short skirt, with a neat belt going thru slots of the material and patched on pockets to the blouse top. Color range . . . a good brown, gray, and soft blue. These particular bowling dresses have been approved by all the masculine critics, who report them swanky in streamlining, flawlessly neat, and flattering to every girl who wears them.

SYNOPSIS.

Gay Ripley, in Paris to buy antiques for her New York firm, is staying with her cousin, Mrs. Hiram Renfrew, a rich widow. Her cousin is taken to the hospital, ill, and gives Gay a valuable antique necklace to put in her wall safe at home. That night Mrs. Renfrew dies of a stroke, and Gay thinks she hears some one in her room after she goes to bed. The next morning the necklace is missing. The following night Gay is overpowered by ether, and when she awakes the necklace has been returned. Mrs. Renfrew's brother-in-law, Horace, an antique dealer, insists on an inquest and it is found that Mrs. Renfrew died of an overdose of benzedrine, which caused the stroke. Her visitors at the hospital the afternoon of her death are the main suspects. Aside from Gay, the visitors were Horace, Raoul de Chabenil, an unscrupulous gigolo; Estrella, a dressmaker; Manx, Mrs. Renfrew's butler, and Miles Dorsey, junior partner of Geoff Macadam, whose firm took care of Mrs. Renfrew's affairs. Geoff's wife, Catherine, is an old friend of Gay's. Hortense, Mrs. Renfrew's cook, and Alixe, her former maid, are also under suspicion. Altho Miles warns Gay against trying to solve the mystery, she finds that Raoul and Estrella are lovers and that Estrella's brother, Dr. Borosh, sells drugs illicitly. She also overhears Alixe sell a seemingly important letter to Estrella. While Horace and Gay are playing backgammon, they hear a body falling and, looking out the window, see Hortense, dead in the court below. Alixe disappears, and when Gay sees Borosh coming out of Horace's shop, Horace claims Borosh has tried to sell him information about the murder. That night Borosh is found drowned. Manx has some kind of stroke and is taken to the hospital but later escapes. When Gay asks Raoul about her cousin, who was brought up a strict Methodist, having a rosary, he acts upset. Estrella sends for Gay for a fitting and refuses to let Gay go until she has revealed the name of the murderer. Raoul enters and tries to torture Gay into telling what she knows.

INSTALMENT XLVI.

SECRET MARRIAGE.

I can see now the carved profile, turned oddly away. I can feel the agony of my blistered feet. What had been smart, easy fitting brown suede shoes had become iron moulds of crude torture. They were smoking.

In the lurid dusk the pale blur of the lamp seemed lost, like the moon above the neon flares of Montmartre. The hammering, of course, came from inside my bursting head.

Why was De Chabenil listening?

I couldn't understand. Two jerks of the knife had ripped my cords asunder. My gag fell free; but only as I tried to move my parched tongue did I recognize the sounds I was hearing. They didn't come from my own brain. Fists were pounding on hollow wood. Now came the bellow of men's voices.

De Chabenil cried out, "Un instant, messieurs!" He leapt across to Estrella's prone body and bent down.

My first thought was a hideous one. He was going to plunge the tailoring knife into her throat. It was I who shrieked. Her only noise was a smothered moan. Already De Chabenil was straightening up, a key in his hand. Crossing the floor he paused just long enough to sweep back his vagrant look. Then he flung wide the door.

"Entrez!" he snapped.

A cavalcade stormed in. Three men, to be exact, the last a quaking elephant in pale gray.

Popeyed and yammering, he held me off. "Alive? O, my God, we're in time!"

I'd lost sight of my shocking seminakedness—remembered it only when I saw poor Horace's dreadful embarrassment. Things were happening, things I mustn't miss. The Inspector stood solidly blocking the door. De Chabenil confronted him, but his arms were above his defiant head, and the other officer was running practiced hands along his slim sides.

"And the meaning of this intrusion, messieurs?"

"Search well," ordered the inspector tersely. "Keep your arms up, De Chabenil! Ah, I see!"

"Look out! She's got one too!"

From the lee of the divan a long black arm had snaked out. Whether or not Estrella had a weapon I never did know; but the inspector made a plunge, and clicks sounded as handcuffs closed on two pallid wrists.

"Good!" panted the inspector, and poised, triumphant. In sonorous accents he intoned, "Raoul Concourt de Chabenil: I arrest you in the name of the French law. You will be charged with two murders: that of Hortense Rimbaud, and that of Madame Raoul de Chabenil, your wife."

So ended my half hour of Hell; and if ever I'd felt more emotionally grateful to any human soul than I now did to Horace Renfrew I can't say when it was. I'd despised him, I'd laughed at his exaggerated terrors, but I wasn't laughing now. When he got home and saw Estrella's note face up by the hall telephone what but an ever active jitterbug had warned him I might have walked blindfold into some devilish trap? For he hadn't then learned the inspector's big news. That bombshell burst on him during the stampede to the Rue de Sevres.

It had, in actual fact, shattered Horace considerably worse than it had me. This was why about 9 o'clock that evening he had swilled down the steadying dose the nice English doctor had left for me to take before going to bed; but I mistrust sedatives, and I mention this only to explain why Horace was so dazed and numb and why the inspector when he called round addressed most of his remarks to me.

We had the study fire going, but Inspector Bouige looked too het up to come near it. He was bursting with pride and perspiration, and he took an attitude just by the door to report, with immense satisfaction, his latest results.

"We have put on the screws," he announced. "Already we have extracted a highly damaging admission. The diamond necklace, mademoiselle. We took it, who put it back?"

"De Chabenil," I answered. "Who else could it be?"

He glowered at me, crestfallen. "Mademoiselle guessed?"

"Well, I did, rather." I declined to say how. "But you can't mean he freely admits it!"

"Surely you perceive why?" The inspector was recovering his aplomb. "It is a clever attempt on his part to throw doubt on the more serious charges. He argues that it was absurd to steal property of which by law he now enjoyed full control. But we retort, then why the theft at all? On his own statement he had private and urgent need of funds. If he stole an uninsured jewel then he could have done so only in the sure knowledge that his wife would not be alive to realize her loss. Ah, mademoiselle, we had him there!"

"Exactly. Well, what does he say to that?"

"His story is highly ingenious. Here it is, for what it is worth: He swears it was never his intention to steal anything, least of all the Marie Antoinette necklace. That he had seen a modern and seldom worn bangle put into a certain square box — "

"That's right, a sapphire bracelet. And — ?"

"And meant to take only that. To pawn, redeem, and return at an early date. He contrived a car collision, operated his theft virtually under your eyes; and then to his horror discovered what he had on his hands."

"O, yes?" I said witheringly, and I glanced toward Horace for sympathy. All I got was a contemptuous grunt. "So he says," I added. "Well, go on?"

"The rest you may imagine," the inspector said negligently. "Sudden panic over the prospect of a post mortem—a mad haste to put back what at short notice it would be impossible to dispose of. To which I reply, Why terror of a post mortem? The accused is convicted out of his own mouth. However! He denies with scorn that he entered the apartment by way of the service lift; and here he may well be speaking the truth. He declared Madame de Chabenil had confided to him a duplicate latchkey. He simply made use of that."

Yes, that anyhow I could believe. The remaining details, openly poured out, were much as I had supposed. De Chabenil had come along at an hour when all the front part of the floor was deserted. Without much difficulty he had opened up the safe, but as he was shutting it again he heard me coming along the hall. He simply wedged under the bed and lay low, the bad luck being that when he tried to slide out I woke up. Only a man in the last extremity of guilty fear would be handing out these ruinous admissions. Not meaning to steal the necklace was just mud in our eyes.

"Because, mademoiselle, it is easily seen how the accused wished immediately for large sums of ready money. He had two threatening mouths to silence; but we will return to that feature presently. Let us speak now of the main crime.

"At no moment, needless to say, were we in doubt as to the accused's opportunity for administering a lethal dose to madame, your cousin. It was his reason which baffled us—and motive there must be. The crime itself was admirably conceived, scientifically perfect—or would have been but for an accident impossible to predict. Yes, assuredly, our young criminal has a brain. If he had been content to delay matters—if he had not impetuously yielded to a glittering temptation to finish things in a hurry, then the guillotine would not be claiming its own."

"You mean he ought to have made public his marriage, lived with his wife openly for a short time?"

I could have kicked myself for this bluntness. Poor Horace had flinched.

"Obviously, mademoiselle! You grasp, I think, the idea that there was to be a church marriage prior to any announcement?"

I nodded. Inspector Bouige went on, "Quite so. De Chabenil, naturally enough, is a Roman Catholic. His wife cherished a desire to have her union solemnized by Roman rites, the difficulty being that she wished to become a Roman Catholic before having her church ceremony; and such a step cannot, so to speak, be accomplished overnight."

"Yes, I know. She had first of all to receive religious instruction. After that would come holy communion. Then she'd be ready to be married in church. What I can't understand is why some priest hasn't come forward to say what was being done?"

"Ah, mademoiselle, do you suppose that a priest of Rome would volunteer such information? It is for him a sacred trust."

Universal day—The better the start today the better the finish next week.

November—Those in an 8 year this year have lots of opportunities coming along in November and they should be ready to move up with confidence into the places open to them. Altho they are nearing the end of a cycle which closes next year, there is still a year to go, and this is the beginning of it as far as the numbers are concerned. Take a firm stand and don't shirk responsibility, but see that you get acknowledgment of your position. Put something original and new into the old ways and means. Since the emphasis this year is on finances and organization, get off to a new start in these matters right now.

DON'T Work So Hard, Ladies

HERE'S THE SECRET OF EASY CLEANING

The bane of many a woman's life is the problem of keeping the bathroom clean and tidy. Here's a good work-saving recipe:

1. Dissolve 1 teaspoon Climalene (2 for heavy cleaning) in 1 gallon warm water.
2. Wash woodwork, painted walls, floor, tiling, fixtures. See how the dirt vanishes, bathroom sparkles. No scratch—no film.

This Romancer 'Plays Field' of the Fair Sex

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

He tells that he is 20 and a man who labors hard all day, therefore in need, when evening comes, of the pleasure of a girl's company.

"I'm no beauty," he goes on, "but I do get places with the best looking girls with surprising success and fascinating results. I will date one girl for two or three occasions, then I have the urge to change to another girl. I continue this method, dating a number of girls alternately. But, after a lapse of a few months, I crave to go out with the first girls again, and repeat the circle of, perhaps, 10 girls in all. I dated that many this last year and, strangely enough, when I come back and ask them for a date they readily comply, holding no animosity for my having jilted them previously.

"I offer very little to these girls, for I have no car and have to spend economically when on a date, so the girls must like me, and could learn even to love me. I'll admit I have a fairly good 'line' that seems to grip their hearts, but it has an amusing angle for me, too. I feel, being young, that I should allow myself the privileges of changing company as often as my romantic heart desires. Yet, there is the possibility that, later on, I may lose their respect and friendship of all these girls if I continue to carry on this way. What is your judgment? "MR. X."

◆

You seem to be doing all right for yourself, Mr. X., without any aid from us. You surely must have "what it takes," but I wouldn't be so sure about the heart grips. You're probably presentable and gay, an amusing companion and, as a filler-in, the girls welcome you just as you welcome change. However, we'd postpone the worry until a later day about being tripped up by said girls. You'll probably go on circling the whole girl globe before one hearty siren stops you dead in your tracks. But that's all right and, with your temperament, much as it should be.

DORIS BLAKE'S LETTER BOX

Have you a perplexing problem on which you need friendly counsel? Write to Doris Blake in care of the Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill. If you wish a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

No Age Chasm.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been going 'steady' for over a year with a chap of 20. He thinks I am 21; in reality, I am 22. We have the same interests and get along fine, but do you think I am deceiving him in allowing him to think me younger? LORRAINE."

Don't worry your pretty head over your so-called "deception." There's so little difference that it shouldn't matter. You know he likes you for yourself, don't you? You can tell him some day about your age.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1941: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Good pancakes are made with thin batter, so thin that it pours easily. Only a thin batter will produce a thin pancake. The thinner the pancake, the more tender and delicious it seems. French pancakes are made so thin you can almost see thru them!

Breakfast pancakes aren't quite that lean, but they shouldn't be so fat as to make a stack of three look imposing.

Plain Pancakes.
[About 15.]

- 2½ cups sifted flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 egg
- 2 cups milk
- 2 tablespoons melted butter

Sift dry ingredients, beat egg, add milk and melted butter. Add to dry ingredients and beat batter until smooth. Drop batter from spoon or pitcher onto hot griddle and turn with pancake turner when bubbly. Serve hot cakes with plenty of butter and sirup.

WHOLE WHEAT PANCAKES.

Use the preceding recipe, substituting 1 cup whole wheat flour for 1 cup white flour.

CORNMEAL PANCAKES.

Use 1 cup cornmeal and 1 cup sifted flour in the preceding recipe, other ingredients being the same.

BRAN PANCAKES.

Use 1 cup bran in place of 1 cup flour in the recipe for plain cakes.

BUTTERMILK PANCAKES.

Buttermilk or sour milk may be used in place of sweet milk. In that case, use 1 teaspoon soda and ½ teaspoon baking powder for leavening.

BACON PANCAKES.

Cook 4 strips bacon until crisp and crumble into the batter. Cornmeal and bacon cakes are very good.

BERRY PANCAKES.

Fresh or drained canned blueberries or other berries may be added to the batter. A half to ¾ cup is plenty.

Luncheon Jelly Pancakes with Sausages.
[Six cakes, three servings.]

- 1 cup sifted flour
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 2 eggs, separated
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- Jelly
- 6 broiled sausage links

Sift dry ingredients. Combine milk and slightly beaten egg yolks and add to flour gradually, beating batter smooth. Add shortening. Fold in egg whites, beaten until stiff. Bake on hot, greased griddle and spread, while hot, with jelly. Roll each cake around a hot sausage and serve at once.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

If you like pine in its truest, most attractive translation—and if you like luxuries that aren't too costly—you'll be entranced with the newest family of bath glorifiers.

People either like pine or loathe it. When it's good it's very, very good and when it's bad it's awful. In this new bath sequence of bubble bath, bath oil and soft, lathery soap it's good. Not a suggestion of that horrid tar note that spoils so many attempts . . . this is invigorating, fresh and just as beautiful as the true scent that has probably thrilled you when you were fortunate enough to be out in real, honest to goodness pine woods.

The bubble bath is particularly nice. A bath trimmed with it is a treat when you're terribly tired, and just as much of a treat, but in another fashion, when you start your day. Soaking in a warm, pine scented bath can be wonderfully soothing when your bones ache and your nerves are frayed. Taking a quick, pine perfumed bath in the morning has the opposite effect; it peps you up. In some mysterious fashion pine can be all things to all people!

SMART AND PRETTY APRONS.

At the left a dress apron pretty enough for informal hostessing, with its frilled collar, cuffs, and pocket. This model buttons all the way down the front. The party aprons have shoulder straps designed for comfort, and the aprons may be trimmed in a variety of ways.

Style No. 2701 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, and 52 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of contrasting and 2 yards of ruffling.

Style No. 3479 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. Medium size requires 2⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting for apron with scalloped bands; 2⅛ yards with 3⅛ yards of light braid, 2⅛ yards of dark braid for other model.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly. The fall and winter pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with pattern.

Step Parents Need Help of Entire Family

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

The advice I have given in connection with the management of stepchildren has been focussed on two points: One is the need that new stepparents have for gaining understanding of children; the other has stressed the importance of winning over children before attempting to discipline them and, perhaps, change their ways. These suggestions concern one angle of the "step" question.

There is another angle that, in a way, is a more difficult matter to cope with. It has to do with the family of the children, that is, the grandmother or other relatives who have had charge of the children after the death of their mother or father.

It is a very common thing to see these people resent bitterly the second marriage of, for example, the children's father. They will frequently do everything in their power to turn the children against their new mother. They will bribe and coerce the children to stay with them, rather than to go to the new home that is being provided for them. Or, if the children do leave, they interfere and still make their influence felt, to the destruction of harmony in the home.

The women who have written to me describing situations such as this ask for my help. All I can do is to appeal to the unselfishness of the relatives who have had the children, in the hope that their real love for their young charges will make them desire for them a normal father and mother kind of life.

As to the stepmother and her new husband, if the children are old enough and things continue to go badly, I believe the whole situation can be put before them, without rancor but because it is a necessity.

leaving next Thursday with her parents for the Canal Zone, where she will be married on Nov. 18 to Ensign Edward A. Limberg Jr.

Mrs. Perry is president of the Casino. She and Mr. Perry will be back in Chicago in plenty of time to spend Christmas with their grandchildren, but Sally probably will not be back for some time, for she and her bridegroom are to reside in Ancon, a suburb of Balboa. The Perry trio and Mrs. Limberg Sr., who lives in St. Louis, are sailing on Nov. 8 from New Orleans for the south.

The Perrys will just miss the Casino's first club party of the winter, for it is to be a dinner-dance on Friday, Nov. 7. Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer is chairman of the committee planning it with Mrs. Kent S. Clow, Mrs. John A. Stevenson, and Walter Frazier as her chief assistants. Mrs. Clow, Mrs. Cyrus G. Hill, Mrs. Charles S. Davis, and Mrs. Perry have reserved tables, but the last named will be an absent hostess, for her party is for the Kneedlers. There will be square dancing after dinner.

W. Robert Johnstons Going East for Son's Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Robert Johnston of the Whitehall will be going to Washington, D. C., for the marriage on Monday of their son, W. Robert Johnston Jr., to Miss Margaret K. Rounds. The ceremony, which will take place at high noon in the chapel of the All Souls' Memorial church, was planned suddenly when young Mr. Johnston was granted a furlough of eight days. He will fly up to Washington from Alexandria, La., where he has been stationed with the Black Horse troop.

The bride will have her younger sister, Mary, as maid of honor. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Rounds of Washington. Goodwin Johnston will make the trip east from Kenosha, Wis., to be his brother's best man. Also going east for the wedding will be Miss Rounds' aunt, Mrs. Logan Gridley of Geneva, and Mr. Johnston's uncle, Stewart Johnston.

Mr. Johnston, who attended Andover and Harvard, will take his bride to Alexandria to live.

Josephine Hancock Logan Being Married Nov. 22.

The second wedding within a month in Mrs. Frank G. Logan's family will take place on Nov. 22, when her namesake granddaughter, Miss Josephine Hancock Logan, becomes the bride of John L. Bermingham Jr. Invitations have gone out for the ceremony at 3 o'clock in St. Mary's church, Lake Forest. A reception will follow at Loghaven, the Libertyville home of Miss Logan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Temple McFayden. Mr. Bermingham and his bride will reside in Evanston, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bermingham, make their home.

Miss Logan's cousin, the former Miss Loraine Logan, was married last Saturday to William Robinson Felton.

Mrs. James C. Thompson has gone to Abington, Pa., to be with her daughter, Phyllis, who is in the Abington Memorial hospital with a broken back. Phyllis, who is a student at the Ogontz school, was thrown during a horse show last Saturday.

"History of a Magazine" will be discussed by Prof. Marius Jean at the opening meeting of the Alliance Française this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. James H. Winston, president of the alliance, will be hostess at tea following the program.

The English Speaking union will entertain at tea in their rooms at 360 North Michigan avenue after the symphony concert tomorrow for Capt. and Mrs. C. S. Forrester.

Hull House Shop Sale to Be Next Wednesday.

Mrs. J. Clark Lawrence will open her home at 960 Sheridan road, Hubbard Woods, next Wednesday from 10 to 6 o'clock for a Hull House shop sale. Among those who will assist are five Winnetkans who have given their homes in years past for similar sales. They are Mrs. Frederick H. Scott, Mrs. Everett Graff, Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard, Mrs. Morris K. Wilson, and Mrs. Donald F. McPherson.

Mrs. Arthur G. Cable and Mrs. J. Andrews King departed yesterday for the Cables' home in Santa Fe, N. M. Mrs. King will be gone a week and Mrs. Cable, two weeks.

Kimball Salisbury, Russell Kelley, T. Clifford Rodman, and Gerald Cudahy have returned from a golfing trip to the French Lick Springs hotel.

LAST THURSDAY'S QUESTIONS.

Question 6; Both sides vulnerable. The bidding proceeds:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	Double	1 heart	?

You are South, and hold:

♠865432 ♥72 ♦QJ6 ♣54

What call do you make?

Answer: One spade. This hand is worth a free bid opposite partner's take-out double. True, your honor strength is almost nil, but you have a six card spade suit and can show it at the one level. If you fail to bid now, you may be shut out of the auction or may have to enter at a prohibitive level. [Fifteen points demerit for a pass; 30 points demerit for two, three, or four spades; 50 points demerit for any other call.]

Question 7: Both sides vulnerable. The bidding proceeds:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	Double	1 spade	?

You are South, and hold:

♠QJ1085 ♥6 ♦743 ♣K1052

What call do you make?

Answer: Double. With North holding the strength for a take-out double, you certainly are strong enough to double one spade for penalties. No other action is logical. [Thirty points demerit for a pass, one no trump, or two clubs; 50 points demerit for any other call.]

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 14: Rubber bridge; both sides vulnerable. The bidding proceeds:

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 spades	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the eight of clubs, East won and continued with the club jack. Declarer won with the king, and noted with satisfaction that dummy's ten of clubs was established and would afford a heart discard. He laid down the ace of spades and discovered, to his dismay, that East had started with all the outstanding trumps.

A little calculation disclosed that it would be necessary to enter dummy twice for spade finesses and a third time for the discard on the ten of clubs. [It was too risky to attempt to cash the ten of clubs earlier, since East's play indicated that he had started with a doubleton.]

The only means of entering dummy was thru the diamond suit. Altho South had three natural diamond tricks, it was necessary to risk the loss of a diamond in order to find the vital third entry to dummy.

Declarer, therefore, took his courage in both hands and finessed dummy's 10 of diamonds. When this held, the contract was safe.

Gopher Captain Is Team's Bellwether.

It's Snowing

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 29 [Special].—Rain of early morning turned into snow here late this afternoon, forcing the Minnesota football coaching staff to keep the squad in the fieldhouse for the third straight day.

The field is believed to be in good condition for the Northwestern game unless snow and rain continue up to kickoff time. A large tarpaulin was put on the gridiron as soon as the rain began and will be kept there indefinitely.

Forecasters predict that the wintry weather will remain thru Thursday, but a change for the better will come Friday, and playing conditions will be good Saturday.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

While Minnesota reputedly is revamping its back field for the championship game Saturday with Northwestern, the Wildcats are going ahead with their defensive preparations on the assumption that Minnesota's Capt. Bruce Smith, who was injured in the game at Michigan, will be ready for action.

Smith is the bellwether of the Minnesota flock. His eighty yard run last year against Michigan made possible Minnesota's 7 to 6 victory over the Wolverines. Last Saturday his long pass put the ball on Michigan's 5 yard line and set up the scoring play that beat Michigan, 7 to 0.

Smith will be at his left half or tail back position, but if he shouldn't start, or when he is given a rest, Bill Daley, the big full back, probably will move to left half unless Herman Frickey, sophomore tall back, has recovered sufficiently from injuries to play. Smith and Bob Higgins are the only Minnesota backs who do not play more than one position.

They're Versatile Lot.

Warren Plunkett is familiar with the quarter back and full back assignments. Daley plays full back and left half. Bob Sweiger, normally the right half, also can fill in at full back. This is the position he played last year when he plunged for the Minnesota touchdowns that defeated Northwestern, 13 to 12. Bill Garnaas, sophomore quarter back, also can be moved to right half. Garnaas will call the signals when in the game.

Helge Pukema, right guard, probably is the only one of the three Gopher players injured last Saturday who will not appear against the Wildcats. Bob Smith, senior right guard, and John Billman, another senior who has been a reserve left guard, are expected to take care of the position. In addition Bill Baumgartner, regular right end, who suffered a broken fibula in the opening game at the University of Washington, now is ready to return to action. Baumgartner is a fine pass catcher.

Gophers Prefer Power.

Most Minnesota teams prefer to win by power. Last year's Minnesota-Northwestern battle was no exception. The Gophers attempted only six forward passes and they completed one. Northwestern scored first in the opening period when a first down pass by Ollie Hahnenstein was caught by Tuffy Chambers who ran from the 25 yard line to the goal. The net gain was forty-three yards.

Minnesota then marched sixty-one yards to the goal with 19 rushing plays. Joe Mernik place kicked the point for a Minnesota lead, 7 to 6. The Gophers' second touchdown was accomplished by a fifty-three yard attack. Eight running plays put the ball on Northwestern's 15 yard line. On first down George Franck passed to Bill Johnson who was stopped on Northwestern's 2 yard line. Sweiger plunged over.

N. U. Marches Eighty Yards.

In the third period of last year's game Northwestern began its scoring march that was completed on the first play of the last quarter, covered eighty yards, and was accomplished in sixteen plays. The only pass play was called on Minnesota's 27 yard

FRESHMEN SCORE 3 TOUCHDOWNS ON NOTRE DAME

Lillis and Laiber Suffer Slight Injuries.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 29 [Special].—Capt. Paul Lillis, right tackle, and Right Guard Joe Laiber suffered slight injuries as the Notre Dame freshmen, using Army plays, ran up three touchdowns on the varsity tonight. The scrimmage concluded a long drill and was conducted under lights. The Irish meet Army in their annual game in New York Saturday. Trainers said Lillis and Laiber would be ready for the battle with the Cadets.

Coach Frank Leahy included a long session on pass defense out of respect to Henry Mazur, star Cadet tail back. Army has used very few aerials this year, and the infantry was employed to rip thru a sturdy line in the 13 to 0 victory over Columbia last Saturday. Not a yard was made thru the air.

But Leahy is suspicious. "I think they have a passing attack ready for us, and we might as well try to be ready for anything," he said.

Mazur was a freshman at Boston college in 1938-39. Leahy had him in spring practice in his first year as a head coach, 1939. Then Mazur got an appointment to West Point.

Better Than O'Rourke?

About Mazur, Leahy said today: "We rated him ahead of Charley O'Rourke as a passer and as an all around back in the spring of 1939. I wouldn't be a bit surprised to see the Cadets suddenly fill the air with passes which our scouts have not seen."

The Irish have averaged 17 passes a game and have completed more than 9 a game, so it's certain they will do their part to make Saturday's game.

The crowd of 78,000 will see one of the two teams, or both, toppled from the ranks of the unbeaten and untied elevens of the nation, the first time in many years that both schools have come up to their New York battle undefeated.

ARMY WORKS AFTER DARK.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 29 [Special].—Army today continued its heavy work in preparation for the Notre Dame game. The practice session lasted well into darkness on the Plains' gridiron, aided by flood lights. A scrimmage against a squad using Notre Dame plays featured the drill. In the rehearsal of the Cadets' offensive, forward passing was stressed.

Spirit runs high at the military academy as the game approaches. Banners are hung from the windows of cadet barracks hurling defiance at the South Bend eleven. Tomorrow evening a football rally is scheduled to be held in the mess hall at supper formation. The army squad will leave on Friday morning.

Joe DiMaggio to Spend Off Season in New York

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 29 (AP).—Joe DiMaggio will break precedent and spend the winter in New York instead of at the family home in San Francisco. The Yankee outfielder made the statement on his arrival today for a visit with his parents before returning to rejoin his wife and young son, Joe DiMaggio III. He will be here two and a half weeks.

When Halloween Is Here.

When autumn air grows crisp and keen
We greet the merry Halloween,
Then people chase their cares away
And take time out for pranks and play.
From wayside windows there within
The jolly jack-o'-lanterns grin,
While spooks and goblins walk the street
And hobnob with the folks they meet.
A grim Mephisto slyly hid
Turns out to be the neighbor's kid,
And no one seems much horrified
Gay cackling witches, gaunt of face,
Ride broomsticks all about the place,
The fortune teller spins his tale.
And sometimes kisses are for sale.
All dignity is doffed the while
The bars are down once every year
When happy Halloween is here.

ILLINOIS HOPES RISE; PAWLOWSKI IS READY TO PLAY

Tony Butkovich Returns to Action Also.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 29 [Special].—Joe Pawlowski, first string guard who was injured at Notre Dame, returned from South Bend today and probably will be ready to face Michigan Saturday in the homecoming game here. It had been believed that he would be lost for the season, but all effects of a neck muscle injury have disappeared.

Also back in uniform to bolster Illini hopes was Tony Butkovich, sophomore left half back, who was out last week with a weakened ankle. Coach Bob Zuppke returned Butkovich to the second team, where Dick Tumilty had taken his place.

Freshmen ran Michigan plays against the Illini in a spirited practice session under steady rain, which failed to hamper the team's ball handling and passing. Liz Astroth, senior quarter back, has been named acting captain for Saturday's game, the third time this year the distinction has been given him.

WOLVERINES BLOCK, TACKLE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 29 [Special].—Michigan's football team worked on blocking and tackling today in preparation for the Illinois clash Saturday. The coaches also turned to the task of finding a capable successor to Joe Rogers, veteran end injured in the Minnesota game. The fight for the vacated end position revolves about Rudy Smeja and Jack Karwales, both of whom formerly starred in Chicago prep circles, and Phil Sharpe, another junior. Of the three, Smeja has given the most promise and probably will start against the Illini.

HOOSIERS REGAIN WHITE

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 29 [Special].—Indiana's football team was cheered today by the return of Capt. Gene White, South Bend senior guard, who has been out of playing action since the Texas Christian game.

Bo McMillin, Indiana coach, said Capt. White's right knee has healed sufficiently to allow him to play against the Iowa Hawkeyes Saturday in Iowa City. White, the team's place kicker, booted three points after touchdowns for the Hoosiers in the Nebraska victory, despite his injury, but missed two at Wisconsin, the margin by which Indiana lost. Walter Jurkiewicz and Kenny Moeller, senior centers, alternated at the pivot position in today's offensive drills. They will share the job left vacant by the injury to John Tavener, who will not be ready to play again until the Indiana-Purdue clash here Nov. 22.

Earl Doloway, junior full back, has been schooled in the left defensive half back position, where he will alternate with Charley Jacoby, sophomore wingback.

FINDS PASS DEFENSE WEAK.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 29 [Special].—Iowa's football team went over its defensive machinery for Saturday's homecoming game with Indiana today and found it particularly vulnerable to Hoosier passes.

Freshman backs, impersonating the Indiana veterans, rifled passes thru the first and second team with comparative ease in a long defensive workout. Coach Eddie Anderson, dissatisfied with this showing, said more of this type of work was in store for tomorrow.

Bob Otto, 205 pound senior, worked at right tackle for the third straight day. He played most of the Purdue game and will be a likely starter against Indiana Saturday in place of either Al Urban or John Staak. The Hawkeyes also ran thru new plays. Anderson indicated Iowa will open up with a passing attack of its own to combat the Hoosier aerial threat.

Fight Decisions

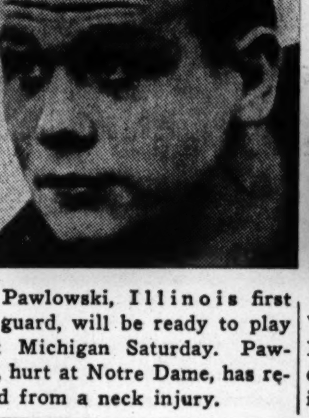
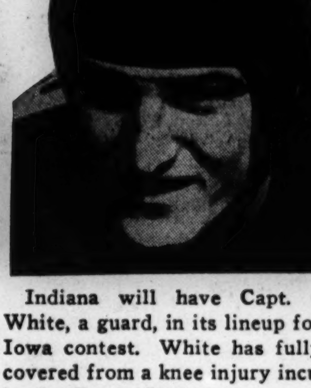
At Boston, Mass.—Jim Robinson beat Johnny Shkor [10].

Hoosiers and Illini Happy



Joe Pawlowski, Illinois first string guard, will be ready to play against Michigan Saturday. Pawlowski, hurt at Notre Dame, has recovered from a neck injury.



Indiana will have Capt. Gene White, a guard, in its lineup for the Iowa contest. White has fully recovered from a knee injury incurred in the Texas Christian game.

Bears Suffer Recurrence of an Old Ailment; It's Hutsonitis!

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The Chicago Bears are worrying about Don Hutson again—or still. This represents perhaps the longest continuous worry they ever have had. The lanky end from Pine Bluff, Ark., officially was in the league less than one minute when he caused the Chicagoans their first headache concerning him. That was six years ago. This week, preparing for the Green Bay Packers' do-or-die invasion of Wrigley field Sunday afternoon, Mr. Hutson's lank form again bobs up to haunt the pro champions.

Hutson's first National Football league game was with the Packers against Chicago in the fall of 1935, just after Don had played on the All-Star eleven, which lost to the Bears, 5 to 0.

Feathers Loses to Hutson.

The Packers brought the Bears' kickoff back to their 17 yard line. On the first play, Arnie Herber faded back almost to the goal line and pitched a pass far down the field. Beattie Feathers was the Bear delegated to cover Hutson. But Feathers never had a chance. Hutson made a leaping catch in midfield and with a tremendous burst of speed, pulled away from Feathers, who gave up the chase about 20 yards from the goal line. Those 6 points represented victory for the Packers. That was all the scoring in the game, and was fulsome revenge for Don against the Bears.

Since that afternoon, the Bears and the other teams in the league have had to map two separate sets of defenses against the Packers—one with Hutson playing and another with Hutson out. They are afraid that those defenses arranged with Hutson out won't be of much use Sunday. This is the game the Packers must win, and each minute Hutson is in there increases their chances.

Carry Scoring Burden.

By scoring two touchdowns against Cleveland Sunday, Hutson became the greatest touchdown maker in the league's history. He has made 52 in all; 10 against the Bears. One of the six touchdowns Don has made this season in seven games was against the Bears.

All season long, Hutson and Clarke Hinkle have carried the Packers' scoring burden, and the 200 pound full back was making touchdowns for Green Bay three years before Don came up from the University of Alabama. Hinkle's total for the season is 38, giving this high powered scoring duo 90 of the 149 points the Packers have made. Herber is gone from this combination, but in his place is Cecil Isbell, who has completed 76 passes in seven games this year for 989 yards, and nine touchdowns.

18 Bears Contribute Points.

Thus, it is easy to put the finger on the Packers' scoring threats, but just the opposite is true of the Bears. Eighteen players have contributed to the 209 points the champions have amassed in five games. Thirteen different fellows have made touchdowns, and five others have chipped in with scoring kicks.

The Bears will be bidding for their fifth straight triumph over Green Bay, the streak having started in 1939, when perhaps the most thrilling battle of the series resulted in a 30 to 27 score. The lead changed hands four times. Those 27 points are the most the Packers have made against the Bears in 45 games. The Bears have won 23, lost 18, and tied 4. Since the 30 to 27 triumph, they have beaten the Packers by scores of 41 to 10, 14 to 7, and 25 to 17.

Last season, Green Bay's 238 points were made by 11 individuals. The Packers, who were defending champions in 1940, made 30 touchdowns in 11 games. The Bears, in five this season, have scored the exact number.

Just to be sure that Joe Maniaci, Bears' full back, gives his injured knee a complete rest, he has been kept in a hospital since Monday.

Yesterday, while the Bears were in the midst of one of their hardest workouts of the year, Coach George Halas noticed three men outlined against a window of one of the apartments across the street from Wrigley field. Trainer Andy Lotshaw was sent to reconnoiter, and returned with the breathless information that the three were playing pinochle, and had invited him to join them. Andy didn't accept, because he doesn't know how to pronounce or spell pinochle, much less play it.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 29.—The Blackhawks played hard and skillfully on the University of Illinois rink tonight to administer a 7 to 1 trimming to their minor league kinsmen, Johnny Gottselig's Kansas City Americans of the American Association.

The match was the first of three exhibitions the teams will play before the Hawks open the National league season in Chicago Stadium next Thursday. The teams will play in Chicago Arena Saturday night and in Kansas City Sunday night.

The game tonight, played before a capacity crowd, was more zestful than most hockey exhibitions because the Americans are owned solely by the Hawks and every Hawk has to defend his job against Gottselig's protégés from now until Stanley cup time.

Try New Officiating System.

The proposed revision of the system of officiating was given a tryout. In addition to a referee, there were two linesmen, each of whom operated at the end of a blue line. A poll is to be taken among club officials of the National league, and the system may be adopted as a league procedure immediately. The Hawks liked the three official idea and will vote for it, they said.

The scoring was well distributed, Doug Bentley being the only fellow who scored two goals. The others were by Mush March, Fido Purpur, Alex Kaleta, Bob Carse, and Joe Papike.

The Hawks' first goal of the autumn quite properly was made by the senior member of the ensemble, March. It was registered on an assist from Bill Thoms, the team's leading scorer, in 6:24 of the opening period.

Hawks Go Into Lead.

The Hawks' lead stood up until Bill Mitchell tied the count at 1-all. He did it in 14:05 of the first period on an assist by Jack Mann. Purpur, assisted by Johnny Allen and Bob Carse, put the Hawks ahead, 2 to 1, in 17:56.

The second period was nearing the half way mark when Doug Bentley tallied the third Chicago goal, with Thoms and Earl Seibert aiding. Tiny Doug batted home the puck from close in. Kaleta, assisted by Joe Cooper, scored the fourth Chicago goal in 18:20 on another closeup foray.

The Hawks in the third period not only added goals by Bob Carse, Papike, and Bentley, but tightened the defense to the point that the Americans scarcely were permitted to skate in the Hawks' defense zone.

BADGERS WORK ON DEFENSE FOR SYRACUSE SPEED

Half Backs Are Drilled to Replace Seelinger.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 29 [Special].—Two pairs of half backs were used by Coach Harry Stuhldreher today in building a defense against Syracuse plays, which Badger scouts report combine both speed and a deception built around the unorthodox position of Syracuse's center, who passes the ball with his back to the defensive team.

Outside of Seelinger, the squad is in excellent shape and the starting lineup will be unchanged except for the half back positions.

SYRACUSE SEES TEST.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 29 [Special].—Syracuse, viewing Saturday's game with Wisconsin as its toughest test of the season, scrimmaged against the freshmen today. The frosh used Wisconsin plays while on the attack. The varsity play was featured by the running of Norm Michael, sophomore full back.

O. S. U. TRIES FUNDAMENTALS.

Columbus, O., Oct. 29 [Special].—With the Pittsburgh game only two days away, Ohio State's football team today went back to fundamentals—blocking, tackling, charging, etc., before taking up the Pittsburgh theme. Later offensive measures to be taken against the Panthers were studied.

The Buckeyes still are hampered with injuries, but it appears that Jack Graf, regular full back, may be able to go Saturday. His injured knee is responding rapidly to treatment. Dick Burgett filled the full back post on the first team today. Dick Fisher appeared in uniform for the first time since the Northwestern game, having spent the interim in University hospital with an arm injury.

The first Buckeye team today was composed of Leon Schoenbaum and Bob Shaw at ends, Jim Daniell and Capt. Jack Stephenson at tackles. Fritz Howard and Lin Huston at guards and John Rosen at center. In the back field were John Hallabrin and Burgett at full back, George Lynn at quarter back, and Tom Kinkade and Paul Sarringhaus at the half backs.

The team leaves Columbus Friday morning and will work out at the Pitt stadium in the afternoon. Headquarters are at the Schenley hotel.

Twins Support Pastor Card in Stadium

Willis and Willard Hogue, twin middleweights of San Diego, Cal., who made an impression in winning their Chicago debuts recently, will return to action in two bouts in Chicago Stadium Nov. 7. The former will probably oppose Andre Jessurun in 10 rounds and Willard probably will face Larry Kellum in eight.

Bob Pastor, New York heavyweight who scored a sixth round technical knockout over Al Delaney, Canadian champion, in Toronto, Ont., Tuesday, is scheduled to arrive today for a 10 round main event against Booker Beckwith on the card.

Joey Pirrone, Cleveland lightweight, is expected to meet Al Reid in an additional supporting match of eight rounds. A six round return encounter has been suggested between Jimmy Joyce, Gary junior lightweight, and Matt Daugherty, Milwaukee. Daugherty scored a close victory over Jimmy in the Coliseum last Friday. It was Joyce's first professional defeat.

Johnny Colan, New York boxer, has been signed to meet Tommy Tucker in a 10 round bout in St. Nicholas arena, New York, Nov. 10, it was reported last night. . . . Tito Taylor, south side welterweight, sparred three rounds with Nate Bolden yesterday for a 10 round headliner against Harvey Dubs of Windsor, Ont., in Marigold Gardens Monday. . . . Eddie Lander, west side lightweight, tomorrow will return from Billings, Mont., where he stopped Ray Isaacs on Tuesday. . . . Entries for the forthcoming Catholic Youth organization amateur boxing tournament will close Nov. 15, line on first down. Don Clawson passed to Hahnenstein for an eighteen yard gain. Hahnenstein eventually scored.

The current rule on substitutions will make it impossible to duplicate last year's situation. After going into the lead, 13 to 6, Minnesota removed several linemen who had started the game. When the Wildcats began their eighty yard advance, these players could not return to the game. They were ineligible to return until the start of the fourth period.

Garnaas will be the only sophomore in Minnesota's starting lineup Saturday. All of the linemen have had at least one year's experience. While no decision has been made, it is likely that Northwestern will start Sophomore Ray Vincent at right tackle with Leon Cook, senior, who has been out since Oct. 14 with an injured knee, in reserve. Tony Samarzia, who started in this position at Ohio State, cannot play for two more weeks.

Gophers, N. U. Lead Statistics.

Minnesota's position at the top of the Western conference race is reflected in the official statistics that place the Gophers first in total offense and second in total defense. Northwestern ranks second in offense and has a forward passing record of 126.6 yards average gain for three games. Minnesota's rushing average is 237 yards a game for two games.

Daley leads in individual standings with an average of 6.6 yards for the 36 times he has carried the ball.

RAM BACK FIELD WORRIES PURDUE; STRESS DEFENSE

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 29 [Special].—Coach Mal Elward warned the Purdue team today that it would be facing one of the greatest back fields in the country when Fordham is met in the Polo grounds in New York Saturday.

Altho Purdue's defensive play has been strong all season, the Boilermakers went thru a long workout in this department, concentrating especially upon the passing threat of Steve Filipowicz, Fordham full back.

John Petty and John Andretich both ripped wide holes in the freshman line as the drill closed with a brief offensive scrimmage. Petty and Andretich are alternating at the full back post.

Elward indicated that Bill Powers would again start in place of Tom Milton, who will see little, if any, service Saturday because of a leg injury.

The Purdue squad will leave here early tomorrow afternoon, arriving in New York at 9 o'clock Friday morning. Their final drill of the week will be held at the Westchester Country club, Rye, N. Y., Friday afternoon.

RAMS STRESS PASS DEFENSE.

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Ed Kosky, Fordham assistant coach and scout, supervised today's practice for the Rams and sought to strengthen their pass defense for Saturday's struggle with Purdue.

Most of the attention was given to Sophomore Backs Joe Anderjco and Joe Ososki, who have been lax in protecting against aerials in some of the early games.

Coach Jim Crowley said the Rams probably would use the same lineup that opposed Texas Christian last week.

STADIUM RODEO RECORD BROKEN IN CALF ROPING

The fastest calf roping of the rodeo in the Chicago Stadium occurred last night when Jiggs Burke of Comanche, Okla., and Jim Snively of Pawhuska, Okla., bettered the time of other ropers by throwing and roping their calves in 15.2 and 16 seconds, respectively.

Another casualty occurred when Bob Murray of Fort Worth, Tex., broke his ankle in the saddle bronc riding contest.

Last night's results:

CALF ROPING—Won by Jiggs Burke, Comanche, Okla., 15.2 seconds; Jim Snively, Pawhuska, Okla., 16 seconds, second; E. Pardue, Lamar, Colo., 22.2 seconds, third.

BRONC RIDING—Won by Carl Huckfeldt, Fort Pierre, S. D.; Bud McDaniel, Singleton, Tex., second; Royce Sewalt, Brooksmith, Tex., third.

STEER WRESTLING—Won by George Hinkle, Comanche, Okla., 7.2 seconds; Frank Van Meter, Weiser, Idaho, 9.4 seconds, second; Royce Sewalt, Brooksmith, Tex., 10 seconds, third.

STEER RIDING—Won by Vidal Garcia, Santa Margarita, Cal.; Bemure Bender, Trail City, S. D., second; Louis Brooks, Pawhuska, Okla., third.

WILD COW MILKING—Won by Charles Bennett, Wheatland, Wyo., 44.2 seconds; E. Pardee, Lamar, Colo., 46.3 seconds, second; Jim Snively, Pawhuska, Okla., 52.3 seconds, third.

KNOX SCORES 1ST ROUND KNOCKOUT OVER FLOWERS

Buddy Knox, Dayton, O., 191 pound boxer, knocked out Lou Flowers of New York in the first round of a bout set for 10 rounds in Civic center auditorium in Hammond, Ind., last night. The crowd of more than 1,000 booed when Flowers went down for the count from a right to the body and a left to the jaw. Bill Petersen, Indiana Harbor heavyweight, stopped Dick Howard of Columbus, O., in the first round of a scheduled eight round semi-windup. Anthony Jones, Chanute field middleweight, made it two in a row over George Mitchell by beating the former Detroit sectional Golden Gloves winner in a six round event. Hezzie Williams, 1941 Chicagoland Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion, scored a second round technical knockout over Tommy Johnson of Detroit. In a four round opener Ray Olcott, Roseland junior welterweight, and Willie Miller of the south side fought to a draw.

Hawthorne A. A. Eleven Whips St. Bart's, 13 to 0

The Hawthorne Athletic association eleven last night defeated St. Bart's of the CYO, 13 to 0, in a Greater Chicago Football league game at Weber park.

THIS TEAM WILL HAVE CAPTAINS IF NOTHING ELSE

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 29 [Special].—If the number of captains on the field has anything to do with it, Lawrence college should overpower Ripon in football here Saturday.

Coach Bernie Heselton has named these five men as co-captains: John Lingel, Chicago, end; Robert MacIntosh, Milwaukee, center; Frank Nencki, Milwaukee, full back; David Spalding, Menasha, guard, and George Stuart, Milwaukee, end. Both Lawrence and Ripon are undefeated in the Midwest conference.

MACK READY TO SELL EVERYBODY TO GET A WINNER

Connie Wants One More Flag Before Retiring.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 29 (AP).—Connie Mack's life these days seems to be one disappointment after another—and he wants so much to win another pennant with the Athletics before throwing in the sponge.

It was bad enough that his A's folded in the 1941 campaign and ended up in the cellar. Now it looks like the navy's going to take the mainspring of his building plans for next year.

From San Francisco today came word that Sam Chapman, star outfielder, had been recommended by Lieut. Comm. Gene Tunney for appointment as a physical education instructor. With an A-1 draft classification, Sam is expected to be in training soon.

Hates to Lose Sam.

"Of course, it's going to affect us if we lose him," lamented Connie. "He's a pretty good man and one of the real ones I was depending on to build a team around next season."

Now the grand old character of baseball, approaching his 79th birthday and 58th season in baseball, is ready to put every member of his 1941 outfit on the block if he can get the men he wants. He'll hold open house for owners with trading ideas at the Florida minor league meet in December.

Connie's first desire still is pitchers, but he's also interested in plugging up the left side of his infield. Mainly, tho, the pilot of the once great Athletics wants spirited players.

Cites Cochrane, Dykes.

"I don't want any more of those fellows who hit only for the record books," he declared. "I want players who win games. Look at Mickey Cochrane and Jimmy Dykes. They've always been spirited players. I think Mickey could win pennants with any kind of good team just because he doesn't know when he's licked."

He'd come to think a great deal of Chapman even tho the 25 year old former University of California football star didn't do so well his first two years. Connie handed Sam an $8,500 bonus for signing in 1938 prior to graduation and all but gave up on the husky outfielder before coaching of Al Simmons finally brought Chapman into his stride. Last season Sam was freely acclaimed as the most improved ball hawk in the majors.

PICK OSHKOSH TO MEET ALL-STAR QUINTET NOV. 28

The champion Oshkosh, Wis., team of the National Basketball league yesterday was selected to face the college All-Star five Nov. 28 in Chicago stadium. The college squad is to be named later this week.

The game will match such pro stars as Le Roy Edwards, Charley Shipp, Lou Barle, Herman Witasek, Connie Mack Berry, and Bob Carpenter against leading collegians of last season. The All-Stars are being chosen in a poll of sports writers and coaches.

Oshkosh replaces Detroit, winner of last season's tournament, held in Chicago, as the pro representative in the Nov. 28 game.

Baranowski and Provenzano! Catholic League's Mighty Mites

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Henry [Babe] Baranowski, Leo High's quarter back, and Angelo Provenzano, Fenwick's full back, who are not exactly Paul Bunyans in size as football players go these days in prep conferences, have shown Catholic league opponents that little fellows also can be successful in the game. They are innocent looking half pints in classrooms and on their school grounds, but they reveal tremendous power defensively and offensively on the field against 200 pound tacklers and ball carriers.

Baranowski, who is 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 155 pounds, 10 more than a year ago when he led the Lions to the league title, heads the Chicago district individual scoring list with 76 points, 11 touchdowns, and 10 extra points. Provenzano, who also is 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 153 pounds, has produced 32 points against three league opponents, eight extra points and four touchdowns. The four touchdowns were made last Sunday against De Paul, two of them on runs of fifty and forty yards.

Small, but Tough

Babe Baranowski. Angelo Provenzano.

Altho they are two of the smallest half backs in city prep circles, Baranowski leads Chicago district scorers with the 76 points he has scored for Leo, while Provenzano has accounted for 32 for Fenwick. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

◆

◆

The 1941 campaigns of Rockford's schools, East and West High, will come to an abrupt end on Nov. 7, altho each has a game remaining on its schedule after that night. . . . The schools will close for two months because of insufficient funds in the school board's treasury. . . . The Illinois High School association has ruled that the elevens cannot play after the schools have been closed and they have no official standing in the Big Eight conference this season. . . . The Portsmouth, O., High school band, Tri-State champion, will appear between halves of the Hyde Park-Calumet game in Stagg field Saturday afternoon. . . . Wayne McKinney and Vern McCathryn, reserve sophomore tackles on the Emerson of Gary team, are 6 feet tall and weigh 190 pounds.

◆

Eight Chicago boys are members of the St. Bede academy team which will meet Marmion Military academy of Aurora Sunday in its annual homecoming game in Peru. . . . The St. Bede eleven, coached by Bron C. Bacevich, is undefeated in five games this season. . . . Earl Nelson, South Shore's 6 foot, 185 pound left tackle, is a second bass in the school's choral club. . . . Culver Military academy will seek its third Midwest Prep conference victory against Morgan Park academy on the latter's field Saturday afternoon. . . . Fenwick's team averages 159½ pounds, the lightest squad ever coached by Tony Lawless.

WOMEN BOWLERS SCORE 1,007 FOR SEASON RECORD

The Art J. Williams Jewelers rolled 1,007, season's high game and 2,842, season's second high series in the league, to win three games from the Logan Square Buicks and drop the Buicks into second place in the Congress Women's Major league last night. Marge Lindvall led the Williams with 601, Ella Zalesky got 569; Rose Barnes, 593; Alma Orden, 526, and Vaughn Sagert, 553, including a 231 game.

Goranson's 20 Alleys went into the lead by a game by winning three from Congress Recreation and running their record to 22 won and 5 lost. Sally Ostrowski's 222, 234, 199—655 series led Marigold Arcade to a two-game victory over Bee-Vac and the Pabst Blue Ribbons rolled a 2,779 series, led by Agnes Pitelka's 223, 220, 176—619, to win twice from Villa Moderne. Other honor scores:

MRS. THORPE GETS DIVORCE FROM FORMER ATHLETE

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 29 (AP).—Mrs. Freeda Thorpe, 35 years old, won a divorce today from Jim Thorpe, 52, famous Indian football player and Olympic track star of three decades ago.

"He used liquor to excess for some time before our separation, stayed away from home for long periods of time, and was indifferent toward our children," Mrs. Thorpe testified.

Mrs. Thorpe was awarded custody of the children, Carl, 13; William, 12; Richard, 8, and John, 3, but because Thorpe, who is on a lecture tour, speaking on health and physical culture, was not served with the complaint, no order for their support was asked or made.

Mrs. Nalon Gets Divorce from Racing Car Driver

Judge Thomas J. Lynch of the Circuit court yesterday signed a divorce decree which separated Mrs. Charlotte Nalon, 26 years old, and Clayton [Duke] Nalon of Indianapolis, Ind., a racing car driver. Mrs. Nalon charged cruelty in her petition, which was unopposed. Attorney John A. Kahoun, representing Nalon, said his client was in California.

STAR PRINCETON END RETURNS FOR HARVARD BATTLE

Injuries Healed, Schmon to Face Crimson.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 29 (AP).—Dick Schmon returned to his position at end for Princeton today as the Tigers held a light defensive workout against Harvard plays in preparation for the game here Saturday. The rangy junior had been out of uniform for two weeks and his return was expected to solve Coach Tad Wieman's pressing problem at the flanks. However, Reserve Back Almo Weisheit was found to have a fractured ankle bone that will keep him out for a couple of weeks.

HARVARD SCRIMMAGES.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 29 (AP).—Harvard's first and second elevens were sent thru a scrimmage session against the freshmen today in the Crimson's last hard tuneup for Princeton. Coach Dick Harlow kept several of his regulars out of the rough work.

YALE LOOKS RAGGED.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 29 (AP).—Yale's varsity looked ragged today in winding up heavy work for Brown here Saturday in a scrimmage with the freshmen. The regulars scored several times thru the air, but their ground game bogged down against the frosh.

COLD SLOWS DARTMOUTH.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 29 (AP).—Dartmouth's football drill was slowed down again today by cold weather and a long injury list, but Coach Tuss McLaughry made the best of the situation by concentrating his attention on several sophomores who will fill in against William and Mary this week. The varsity had a short scrimmage against W. and M. formations.

SCHLITZ WINS 2; WIDENS LEAD IN CLASSIC LEAGUE

Schlitz's Classic league leaders widened their margin over Pabst bowlers to three games in the Wednesday division last night when they led in team totals with 3,002 and won two games from Monarch Beer while Pabst was losing a pair to Koenig Brau.

Carl Berger of Washington Shirts bowled the highest three games—669. His team defeated Blatz twice, once on a roll-off. Ambrosia beat National Bowling Equipment in two games, and tied Monarch for third place. Scores:

Maroons Demand Bigger, Better Football—at N. U.

University of Chicago students want football—but they don't want it back at the University of Chicago. Consequently Northwestern "where games are big, well played, and colorful enough to satisfy the most rabid followers of the pigskin," is the logical choice as their adopted football alma mater. And so what? So an arrangement should be worked out whereby Chicago students are granted reduced rates on season passes to Northwestern games.

This is the idea which is to be planted in the minds of Maroon students as they read the November issue of Pulse, campus monthly magazine, today. It is the plan of Demarest Polachek, sports editor of Pulse and a graduate student on the Chicago campus.

And how to bring about such an arrangement as Polachek proposes? He simply states that Chicago students can accomplish such an objective "if they express themselves strongly enough."

Clay Bryant Leaves for Operation in St. Louis

Zanesville, O., Oct. 29 (AP).—Clay Bryant, once a pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, but now with Tulsa of the Texas league, left tonight for St. Louis to undergo an operation on his pitching arm. Bryant, who lives here, said X-rays disclosed a chipped bone in the elbow.

AMERICA'S NO. 1 CARD GAME IS RUMMY

AMERICA'S NO. 1 CIGAR IS PHILLIES

In many places, Phillies outsells the next most popular 5¢ cigar by as much as 5 to 1. Taking the entire country, smokers have given Phillies a preference that causes it to outsell any other two 5¢ brands combined. The reason? Men who smoke Phillies get more enjoyment out of smoking.

COMPARE THE GUARANTEED VALUE
No other cigar can match the Phillies guarantee. Guaranteed by the world's largest cigar makers to be the same fine cigar, for only 5¢, that was good enough to become the country's biggest-selling 10¢ brand.

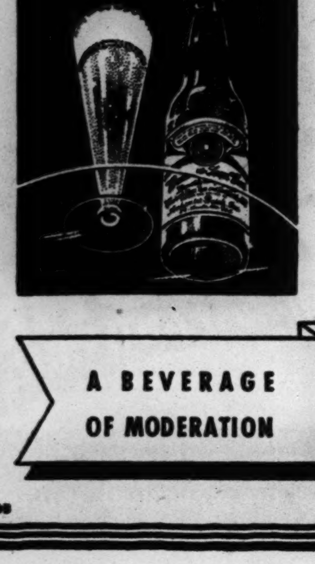
When all America calls for the best, it's a large order

America always makes up its mind about quality slowly and carefully. But, once it is certain that a product is the best of its kind, America quickly demands its production on a tremendous scale.

With more Budweiser than ever before, there has not been enough to go 'round



Never before in history has there been a situation like this:

A vast expansion program carried on for eight years made it possible for the world's largest brewery to produce more beer in 1941 than ever before has come from a single brewery or group of breweries operating under one management — and yet it was impossible for us to fill all orders.

Such a demand, previously unheard of for any similar product, made it difficult to maintain adequate distribution in all of the 48 states at all times. Through it all, our dealers have shown great patience and for this we are grateful.

America prefers Budweiser. Your own preference for Budweiser is a compliment to your own good taste — proof that you recognize the outstanding quality that has made Budweiser the biggest-selling beer in history.

With the completion of our expansion program, we trust that you now are getting Budweiser whenever you call for it.

UNCLE WALTER PUTS OVER ENTRY AT SPORTSMAN'S

Defeats Cross Bow II. as Chance Sord Runs 3d.

Uncle Walter and Chance Sord combined their speed in an effort to beat the favorite, Crossbow II., in the Winnetka purse yesterday at Sportsman's Park. They were running as an entry, but most of those who backed them were depending on Chance Sord to turn the trick. As things turned out, it was Uncle Walter which carried on after his colleagues had tired in the later stages of this seven furlong dash.

It's Uncle Walter.

Uncle Walter got home a neck in advance of Crossbow II., while Chance Sord was hanging on to third place. The teammates had run side by side in the early part of the struggle, while Crossbow II. was well back. Crossbow II. closed resolutely in the stretch, conquering the weary Chance Sord in handy fashion, but he could not get to Uncle Walter. The entry paid $9.40, $3.60, and $4 across the board.

Paul Kelley's Commission and Clarence Davison's Honey Boat put on an unusually spirited duel in the fifth race. Commission, running at 4 to 1 odds, got home three-quarters of a length in advance of his rival. Bert W. took third money.

Commission Regains Lead.

Under N. L. Pierson's good rating, Commission took the early lead in this seven furlong dash. After going half a mile, Honey Boat, the 6 to 5 favorite, challenged so persistently that Pierson decided to give Commission a breather rather than engage in a costly duel. So he held back while Lee Haskell sent Honey Boat into the lead.

On the last turn it seemed that Commission was beaten. Then Honey Boat went to the middle of the track on the swing into the stretch and Pierson renewed his efforts with Commission. Steadily his mount overhauled the favorite and got to the front in the last few yards. Commission paid $10.40, $3.80, and $2.60 across the board.

MUTUELS SILENT AS ONLY 2 RACE TODAY IN SPECIAL

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 29 (AP).—A nonwagering match between Market Wise and Haltal in the Pimlico Special and the second running of the Exterminator handicap, will mark the opening of the Maryland Jockey club's 13 day fall meeting tomorrow.

Since Market Wise and Haltal were the only entries in the $10,000 winner-take-all special, the Jockey club decided to call off betting on the race. Market Wise, whose 9 victories in 24 starts this season include a decision over Whirlaway, has earned $77,965 this year. Haltal, victorious in 6 of his 16 starts, has won $51,515.

Mrs. Marie Evans' Shot Put, winner of the event last year, heads the field for the $5,000 added Exterminator, to be decided over a route of two miles and 70 yards. Mrs. Willis Sharpe Kilmer's 26 year old Exterminator, the beloved "Old Bones" for which the race was named, will lead the field of six to the post.

CARDINALS CLAIM VANZO OF LIONS, FORMER N. U. STAR

The Chicago Cardinals have claimed Fred Vanzo, giant blocking quarter back of the Detroit Lions, it was learned last night. It is expected that the waiver papers will clear thru the offices of the National Football league today. The Lions recently asked waivers on the former Northwestern star.

Since before the season opened Coach Jim Conzelman of the Cards has been trying to get a blocker of Vanzo's ability to help clear the way for such runners as Johnny Hall and Marshall Goldberg. Vanzo is 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 228 pounds, and is 25 years old.

DEL LYMAN TO RAMS.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 29 (AP).—Purchase of Del Lyman, 225 pound tackle, from the Green Bay Packers, was announced tonight by the Cleveland Rams. Lyman is from U. C. L. A.

SMILIN' JACK—GROUND LOOP

OKAY, JACK-- --BE READY IN A FEW MINUTES!

BRADLEY DOESN'T WANT GEHRINGER AS INDIAN BOSS

Cleveland, O., Oct. 29 (AP).—Alva Bradley, owner of the Cleveland Indians, tonight said it was a poor guess that Charley Gehringer would manage the club next year. The report originated today in Detroit.

"Gehringer is one of the finest ball players I've ever seen in action," Bradley said, "but even his friends call him a sphinx, and I don't know how it would be to have a sphinx for a manager."

Roger Peckinpaugh, present manager of the Indians, said he had heard nothing of the Gehringer possibility, and that he knew nothing about any changes in the club's organization and personnel.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE FROM DU PONT

IN THE INTEREST OF NATIONAL DEFENSE, conserve anti-freeze so there will be enough to go around . . . Don't buy or use more than you need . . . Before you put in anti-freeze, have your car radiator cleaned to remove the rust, scale and dirt that cause poor circulation and overheating . . . Have your dealer tighten up all hose connections, cylinder bolts, and water pump packing. This will prevent leakage of anti-freeze . . . Also see that the fan and belt are working properly to provide full cooling efficiency . . . Then put in a dependable anti-freeze, following the directions on the can.

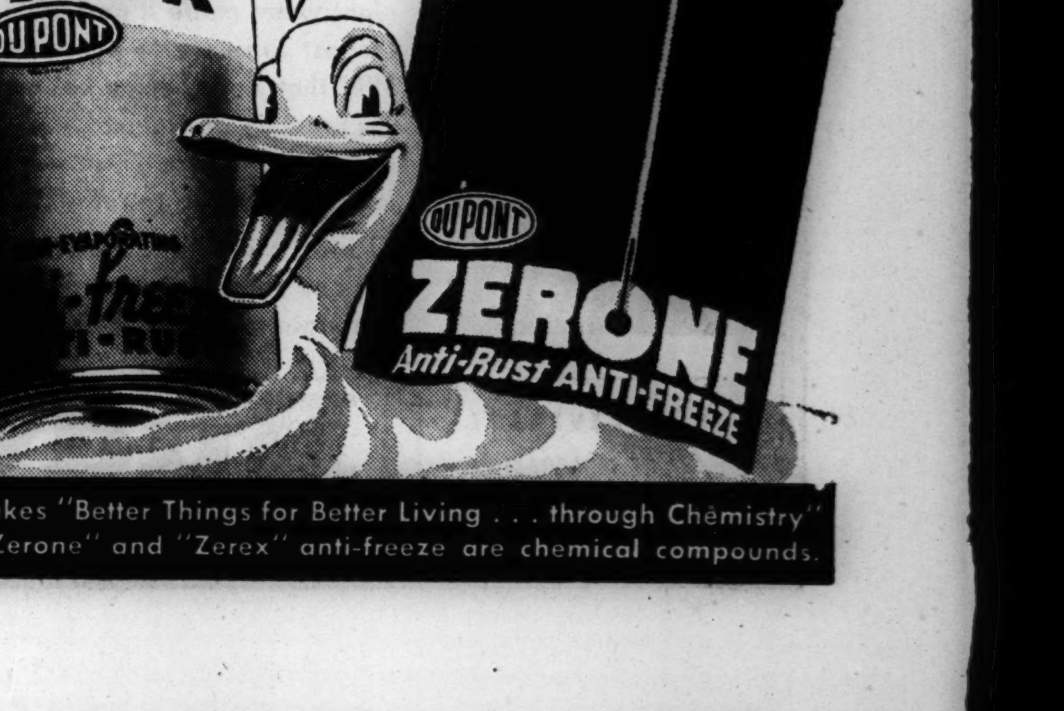
$2.65 A GAL. WON'T BOIL OUT! ONE FILLING LASTS ALL WINTER LONG

▶ Du Pont "Zerex" is an outstanding premium anti-freeze. $2.65 a gallon. It won't boil out . . . it's non-evaporating. One filling lasts all winter long. It's for the man who will pay a little more to get complete freedom from winter worries.

$1.00 A GAL. ECONOMICAL . . . ! REQUIRES ONLY AN OCCASIONAL CHECK-UP

▶ Du Pont "Zerone" is America's largest-selling anti-freeze. $1.00 a gallon. It's the type preferred by the American motorist who wants maximum anti-freeze economy with great efficiency.



Du Pont makes "Better Things for Better Living . . . through Chemistry" . . . and "Zerone" and "Zerex" anti-freeze are chemical compounds.

State Given Evidence for Prosecution.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Illinois Racing board yesterday ruled four persons off the turf for life in connection with the recent Rapid Bone ringer coup at Hawthorne. Four others who already had been disbarred were linked with the affair. The board members—Maj. Ednyfed Williams, Frank Mandel, and William Fay—then turned over their records of the case to State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney for criminal prosecution under the racing law of 1941 which provides a prison sentence for running a ringer. The persons ruled off are:

R. V. C. Van Cleve of Abilene, Tex., who was registered as the owner and trainer of Rapid Bone, a horse which won at Haythorne on Sept. 24, and which ran second on Sept. 26.

Philadelphia Woman Involved.

Mrs. George Ehinger of Philadelphia, for whom Rafferty said he was acting when he purchased Hasty Notion from Brad Brodsky of Philadelphia a little more than a week before the horse was run as a ringer.

Pete Walls of Philadelphia, who attended to the details of the shipment of Hasty Notion from Havre de Grace to Hawthorne and back again to Maryland, according to the testimony presented at the board's hearing.

The persons already disbarred who were linked up with the case in the board's order are John M. Sperry, C. F. Sperry, Dr. H. C. Reith, and Thomas Malone. The first three were ruled off in connection with the Laddie Boy Ring case at Washington Park on Aug. 2, 1938. Malone was barred on charges of complicity in the Bye Bye ringer affair at Pimlico on May 7 of the same year

Hasty Notion Ruled Off, Too.

The horse, Hasty Notion, was ruled off the turf and so was his shadow, Rapid Bone—if the latter exists at all. Disciplinary measures were taken against Joe Neel, a trainer, and Louis Galli, a stable attendant, for indorsing Van Cleve's application for registration at Hawthorne without sufficient knowledge of his character. Each was suspended for 30 days.

The board signified that an investigation would continue into other aspects of the case. Among those still under scrutiny are Brodsky and his trainer, Harry Baker; Ralph Bohn, the jockey who rode Rapid Bone at Hawthorne, and Edward Cartnick, to whom the Jockey club of New York issued a certificate for the registration of Rapid Bone.

"I think there has been enough evidence presented to bring indictments in this case," said Albert J. Meserow, assistant attorney general who represented the racing board in hearings on Friday and Tuesday.

Evidence to Be Studied.

Richard Austin, who represented the state's attorney's office in the capacity of an observer at the inquiry, said his department would study the evidence which the racing board has assembled and would reach an early decision on the feasibility of going before the grand jury in quest of indictments.

The board commended Clement Nance, its secretary, and William Hamilton, steward, for alertness and diligence in spotting the deception and in tracking down the evidence.

HAIL, PARTRIDGE! SPORTIEST BIRD RATED SUPREME

BY BOB BECKER.

The ruffed grouse or partridge which some hunters aptly call the "brown bomber of the forest" has been giving both Wisconsin and Illinois hunters no end of fun since the season on this great game bird opened Oct. 18, when it became legal to hunt both pheasants and partridges in many Wisconsin counties.

When we were on our way to unlimber our 20 gauge shotgun along the old right of ways and tote roads in Forest county, Wis., several days ago, we saw a number of Illinois cars with hunters on the highways reaching into good partridge country and it was noticeable that Wisconsin hunters whom we met had little to say about ducks.

The Sportiest Target.

There are opportunities for quick snapshots in woodcock, snipe and quail hunting. But no feathered target seems to sail away so quickly and get behind a big tree so expertly as the partridge. It's snapshooting de luxe when a bird roars out of the bush next to a tote road and hurls itself thru the timber. How they get thru the brush without knocking their heads off is a mystery to us.

Dr. Ernest Ovitz and W. W. Intermill, forest ranger of Laona, Wis., steered us to some forest roads which at times had a few feet of fairly open timber on each side, so that occasionally one could get a shot at a bird without having to mow down about 50 small popple trees. The hunting plan called for Lyman Barr of Highland Park, a member of this "brown bomber" expedition, to work his English setter, Pat, ahead of us on the wood roads while we kept our Labrador at heel for the rough work of crashing the bush to pick up the birds.

They Avoid Open.

Rarely did a bird flush straight ahead along the road. In fact, we recall just one that charted that course. And we made a complete miss on this bird, the easiest shot of the trip!

From that time on it was a case of slinging shot with split second speed at birds which roared out of the brush close to the roads, and there were occasions when you either got your bird with one shot or it was a case of "good-by forever" to that grouse because these fast-flying stump dodgers often are out of sight before you can use a second shell. With such shots constantly coming up in partridge [grouse] hunting it's no wonder that this bird often is given the number one position as the sportiest upland game bird in the north country.

Football's Safe at This School—but Not the Band!

Sedan, Kas., Oct. 29 (AP).—Last week was pretty rough on Sedan High school. Tuba Tooter de Arlene Thornhill blew a face ligament. Somebody rammed Kenneth Smith's baritone horn down his throat and knocked out an upper tooth. The football team got beat, 12 to 0, but escaped injury.

That Roller Derby's Rolling Again in Its Own Unique Way

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

You already have attended this thrilling spectacle back to the time it began in 1935, in this same building and under the auspices of a young man from the state of Washington, one Leo Seltzer, a fellow who will make you run out and buy a pair of rollers, even tho you may dwell off a dirt road.

It's all very confusing, trying to impart the mechanics of this sport that encompasses so many other forms of athletic endeavor. You have tried to be flippant about the whole thing. You've gone to such lengths that you even have brought the rassler, Maurice [The Angel] Tillet, into it. You recall the time that you constructed a bit of prose about the nostalgia of an old timer who remembered the Coliseum from the old, old days, when it was the town's seat of pugilism. You even went so far, once, when the Roller Derby was being run on a transcontinental basis, as to say that the troupe, theoretically, had passed thru Big Springs, Neb.

It's a Sports Cocktail.

But finally, you were driven back to the primitive method of reporting an event as it happened. Therefore, you proceeded to view the Roller Derby as an event. And it's one that will continue nightly thru Nov. 23, with a melange of racing of all kinds, embellished by a touch of football and hockey. [This is not to mention those dashes of pugilism supplies last night in the Coliseum by all members of the cast].

The two competing teams—one representing Chicago and the other California, will go at it for the next few nights over a space of three hours. The five men of the respective teams will break out of the starting lines for the first 15 minute period. They will be followed in the same interval by their feminine partners. There will be four 15 minute sessions in each half. As in six day bicycle racing, a skater must make contact with his or her partner before being officially declared on the track.

Intricate Scoring System.

Scoring is determined on the basis of individual performance, regardless of whether or not the skater is a man or woman. One point is registered by completing a jam, that is to say, by circling the track and passing a member of the opposing team. If in consummating this lapping you pass three members of the opposing outfit, you collect two points, and overtaking five will bring you five points.

Last night, a rather brisk one for an opening brush, found the Chicagoans taking the lead by winning the first game gith five points to the Californians' four.

CRANE TIES FOR CUE LEAD; PONZI DEFEATS CARAS

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 29 [Special].—Irving Crane created a triple tie for the lead by routing Harold Baker ol Los Angeles, 125 to 2, and Andrew Ponzi of New York denied Jimmy Caras of Wilmington, Del., an opportunity to join the leaders by defeating Caras, 125 to 85, in tonight's leading matches of the world pocket billiard tournament.

Crane, who is from Livonia, N. Y., joined Ralph Greenleaf of Chicago and Defending Champion Willie Mosconi of Philadelphia in the tie for the lead, each with five victories and one defeat. He required 15 innings to beat Baker and ran 77 in the eighth. Ponzi started off with 22 in the first inning and wound up with 47 unfinished to beat Caras in nine innings. Caras' best run was 36.

George Kelly, Philadelphia champion, evened his record at four victories against four defeats by winning, 125 to 101, from Don Tozer of Decatur, Ill., and Joe Procita of Gloversville, N. Y., beat Arthur Cranfield of Syracuse, N. Y., 125 to 67 in 11 innings.

The standings:

Wheaton Wrestling Coach Quits for Dairy Business

John M. Player, Wheaton college wrestling coach, said yesterday he was giving up his athletic post to devote all his time to the dairy business. He has coached the Wheaton wrestlers the last three years and also from 1931 to 1933.

2 SOPHOMORES GET PROMOTIONS AT MARQUETTE

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 29 [Special].—Important changes loomed in Marquette university's football lineup today as Coach Tom Stidham drilled the squad for Saturday's homecoming game with the University of Mississippi.

There also may be a change at right half back as the result of injury to veteran Johnny Goodyear of La Grange, Ill. Bob O'Hagan, Arlington Heights, Ill., junior, is working at that position. It is believed Goodyear will be able to play part of the games, however.

5 YEARS OLD
93 PROOF

Chicagoans are as proud to introduce visitors to Chapin & Gore Bourbon as they are to point out the sights of the City itself. For "C & G" has been a particular pride of Chicago since village days . . . a favorite since 1865. It's "the whiskey that grew up with Chicago."

Pick up a bottle of "C & G" on your way home tonight or try it at your favorite tavern. Enjoy it in a mixed drink. Or sip its mellow smoothness straight. You'll say it's one of the best Bourbons ever barrelled and bottled.

H. F. M'CORMICK ESTATE PLACED AT $7,500,000

Widow and Children Will Share Fortune.

The will of Harold F. McCormick, chairman of the board of the International Harvester company, who died Oct. 16 at the age of 69, was filed yesterday with Frank Lyman, clerk of the Probate court. The will bequeaths a gross estate estimated at $7,500,000 to Mrs. Adah Wilson McCormick, his third wife, and to McCormick's three children by his first wife, Edith Rockefeller McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller.

Under the terms of the will the widow is to receive an annuity of $40,000 until three years after McCormick's death, when four separate trust funds are to be established.

Division of Trust Funds.

One-half of the estate is then to be placed in one fund, with Mrs. McCormick to receive the income. If that income is less than $40,000 a year the difference is to be made up out of the fund's principal. The other half of the estate is to be divided into three equal funds, one for the benefit of each of the children—Fowler McCormick, president of International Harvester; Mrs. Muriel Hubbard, and Mrs. Mathilde Oser.

All of the trust funds are to be terminated eight years after Mr. McCormick's death, and the assets distributed to the beneficiaries. Attorneys said Mr. McCormick during his lifetime made provision for the children aside from the bequests.

Altho the estate was placed at $7,500,000, attorneys also estimated half of that amount would be taken by federal estate and Illinois inheritance taxes.

Gives Proof of Heirship.

After the will was filed, Fowler McCormick appeared before Probate Judge John F. O'Connell to give proof of heirship. The court set Nov. 5 for proof of the will, allowing time for witnesses to the document, signed last March 19 in Los Angeles, Cal., to give depositions.

Mr. McCormick was the son of Cyrus McCormick, one of the developers of the reaper. He was divorced on the ground of desertion by the first Mrs. McCormick in 1921. She died in 1932. A year after the divorce, Mr. McCormick married Ganna Walska, opera singer, in Paris. They were divorced in 1931, and in 1938 he married Miss Adah Wilson.

He died in Beverly Hills, Cal., where he had lived much of the time in recent years.

Former Slave Dies at 102; 79 Descendants Survive

Burton Roy, 102 years old, a former slave, died last night in the home of a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Greeley, 5345 Federal street. Mr. Roy, a former deputy sheriff, alderman, and Sunday school teacher, lived in Pulaski, Pulaski county, where he owned a farm and a cemetery. He moved there from Atlanta, Ga., shortly after the Civil war. Surviving are 79 direct descendants.

MAY BIRKHEAD FUNERAL RITES THIS AFTERNOON

Louisiana, Mo., Oct. 29 [Special].—Funeral services for Miss May Birkhead, former European correspondent for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be held in this place of her birth tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Christian church.

Miss Birkhead died in New York last night at the Hospital for Special Surgery following an illness of more than a year. She arrived in New York on Aug. 16, 1940, from Europe where she had been a newspaper correspondent for more than 25 years and a Tribune staff member since 1927.

She was born in Louisiana in 1883, the daughter of Dr. W. W. Birkhead, a dental surgeon, and Mrs. Laura Rule Birkhead, member of a pioneer Missouri family. Her father died in 1904. Her mother resides here.

NBC AND CBS SIGN 9 YEAR CONTRACT FOR ASCAP MUSIC

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—The National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System today signed a new nine year contract with the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers, providing for the return of ASCAP music to both major networks at midnight tonight.

The agreement ended a controversy which has kept ASCAP tunes from most stations since Jan. 1. Signers were Gene Buck, president of ASCAP; Niles Trammell, president of NBC, and Mefford R. Runyon, vice president of CBS. The Mutual Broadcasting Company signed an agreement with ASCAP in May.

ORPHAN ANNIE'S COUNTERPART TO BE HONOR GUEST

Important adults in the municipal, civic, and educational affairs of Chicago are expected to honor a girl, 7 years old, from Cincinnati, O., tomorrow.

She is Betty Emily Hochhauser. She will bring greetings from the school safety patrols of Cincinnati to the school safety patrols of Chicago. A luncheon in her honor at the Palmer House has been arranged by the Chicago Motor club.

Among those to be present at the luncheon will be Mayor Kelly; Charles M. Hayes, club president; Ald. George D Kells [28th]; James B. McCahey, president of the public school board; the Rev. Stanley Stoga, assistant superintendent of the parochial schools, and two children each from the public and parochial schools systems. Betty was chosen to deliver the safety patrol message in a contest in Cincinnati in which she was voted the Cincinnati girl most closely resembling "Orphan Annie" of radio and cartoon strip fame. The radio program is heard over W-G-N.

NATION'S POWER SUPPLY TERMED EQUAL TO NEEDS

TVA Is Blamed for Area's Shortage.

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—The National Association of Manufacturers, reporting on a survey of electric power demand for the arms program, said today that "in a few areas there will be shortages," and warned that in others the margin of safety would be narrow. It said that in some parts of the southeast power rationing might become general.

The survey, the association said, led to six conclusions:

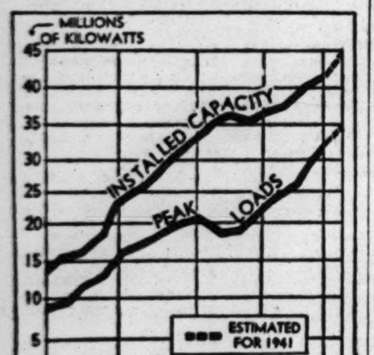
1. For the country as a whole the power supply, as augmented by more than a billion dollars construction scheduled for completion before the end of 1943, should prove sufficient.

2. In a few areas there will be shortages and in others the margin of safety will not be wide. These situations are being corrected in many cases by new installations. The southeastern area presents a serious power deficiency because of larger than anticipated demands and reduced water supplies.

Raps St. Lawrence Plan.

3. The St. Lawrence seaway project does not provide a practical solution to the power problem in the northeast because it will require men, money, and materials more urgently needed elsewhere.

4. The factors of obsolescence and inadequate excess capacity of factory owned power plants are likely to bring increasing dependence of industry on power purchased from central stations as industrial activity advances.



The nation's power capacity since 1920, compared with peak demands for all power systems.

[Sources: Federal Power commission and Edison Electric Institute.]

5. There is need for a moderate amount of interconnection of transmission lines to close some gaps in high voltage transmission systems.

6—There are two potential limiting factors from outside the utility industry which could have an important bearing on future power supplies: Limited facilities for the manufacture of heavy electrical equipment, and limited facilities for the transportation of fuel.

[The association's survey of power facilities is one of five on industries contributing to the arms program, the others covering steel, transportation, petroleum, and strategic minerals.]

Warns of Rapid Expansion.

The association predicted vastly increased need for electric current, but warned against too rapid expansion as likely to create excess capacity which would become burdensome in the post-war period.

[The association estimated 1940 power production at 144,984,565,000 kilowatt hours, the highest on record and three times the 1920 level. Spread thruout the year, the 1940 output represented only 40 per cent of the average power system's capacity to produce electricity.

[Peak demands of consumers, varying with different types of consumers but usually occurring at seasonal periods anticipated by the power companies, required an average production by the various systems which was equal to 76 per cent of installed production capacity, the association said. The difference between peak demands and total production capacity represents the power industry's "safety margin."]

The power shortage in the southeast, the NAM reported, was chiefly in the area dominated by the Tennessee Valley authority. The federally subsidized development discouraged private firms from adding new generator capacity, the report said, with the result that when a reduced water level affected TVA's generating plants there were insufficient steam operated "stand-by" plants available.

More Rationing Forecast.

Private power plants, however, "have come to the rescue of the TVA in the southeast" by pooling power, the association said.

"Moreover, rationing of power to nonessential industries began June 16, and reports indicate that rationing may become more general in the southeast."

"In the northwest is another area of concentration of the aluminum industry [the Bonneville power region] where a temporarily tight power situation is known to exist.

"Here again the construction of government power projects made it extremely difficult for the private utilities in adjoining territories to spend money for future power needs."

Strikers Halt Production of Ships and Guns

New labor disturbances in industries vital to the armament program yesterday halted or curtailed production of submarine chasers, machine guns, and other equipment. CIO strikers at Air Associates, Inc., Bendix, N. J., voted to return to work this morning after army action to back a defense mediation board settlement, but labor strife continued at shipyards affected by a welders' dispute.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The developments:

Two CIO strikes in Michigan arms industries halted production on eight subchasers and mine sweepers in Bay City and closed a Detroit suburban plant producing machine guns for aircraft.

Twelve hundred employés struck at the Defoe Boat and Motor Works, which holds a 20 million dollar navy contract. They demanded a union shop clause in their contract and charged the company had failed to observe a wage stabilization agreement.

Gun Production Stops.

Operations were halted at a plant of the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company, one of four in the United States devoted exclusively to the production of machine guns. The union said the walkout developed because two additional women had been hired at 85 cents an hour, against $1 paid 1,200 men.

A CIO strike of 300 production workers closed the plant of the Medart company, St. Louis, Mo., which makes machine tools needed by aluminum, brass, and steel companies having arms contracts. The union sought an immediate wage increase of 10 cents an hour and a 5 cent increase after six months. A union spokesman said the company offered two 5 cent increases.

There was further trouble in the Seattle area when AFL metal trades council members protected workers who crashed a picket line of striking welders and entered the Lake Washington shipyards to go to work. It was the second day of interunion strife. The plant management said 90 per cent of the workers were on the job.

Demand Separate Union.

The welders struck because the AFL refused to grant them a separate international union. The Office of Production Management has demanded that they get to work, but a union official said any such notification should come from the White House.

Threat of a widespread walkout in eastern plane factories apparently subsided with the announcement of Richard T. Frankensteen, national director of the aviation division of the CIO auto workers, that strikers at the Bendix, N. J., plant of Air Associates, Inc., would go back to work today.

Frankensteen acted after the war department decided to send representatives to the plant to supervise the return of strikers to their old jobs. Col. Roy M. Jones, eastern district supervisor for the air corps procurement division, and his assistant, Maj. Peter Beasley, plan to arrive at Bendix today.

Frankensteen had threatened a strike among aviation workers in five eastern states unless the men were given the same jobs they had before a previous Air Associates strike.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—Donald M. Nelson, priorities director, today ordered the washing machine and ironer industry, employing about 13,000 workers, to reduce its output 17.3 per cent under average monthly sales for the 12 months ended last June 30.

The curtailment order, similar to previous orders covering automobiles and refrigerators, established production maximums for the five months beginning Aug. 1 and ending Dec. 31. The average monthly production limit for the industry was set at 164,410 units, compared with a monthly average of 198,856 units during the year ended June 30.

Compared with the last five months of 1940, however, the reduction approximated only 9 per cent.

GERMANY ASKS DEPOSITORS TO 'FREEZE' FUNDS

BERLIN, Oct. 29 (AP).—Creation of "iron savings accounts," which the depositors agree to keep in banks until at least a year after the war, was announced today by the German finance ministry. To encourage such accounts the ministry said principal and interest would be tax-free to a limited agree.

Fritz Reinhardt, the ministry's state secretary, denied that the deposits would be used to finance the war. He also denied that Germany contemplates a capital levy, increased taxes on capital, or any inflationary measure, and asserted there were 36 billion marks [nominally $14,400,000,000] now in German savings accounts, an increase of more than 13 billion [$5,200,000,000] since the war began.

Report New American Ship Lend-Leased to England

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—The new $2,277,000 American freighter China Mail, constructed at Chester, Pa., for the American Mail Lines' Pacific trade, has been turned over to England under the lend-lease act, marine circles said today. The ship has been renamed the Empire Peregrine.

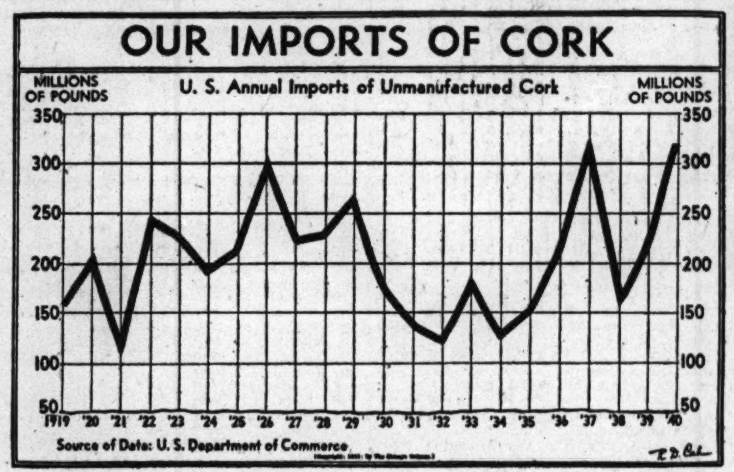
OUR IMPORTS OF CORK



Cork comes from the bark of a foreign tree—the cork oak—which grows only in areas on or close to the Mediterranean sea. The cork belt occupies two narrow strips—one about 1,000 miles long on the coast of North Africa, and the other 1,500 miles along the coasts of Portugal, Spain, and France.

The United States used to get three-fifths of its cork from Portugal. Now nearly all we get comes from there. On June 12, 1941, OPM placed cork under strict control to assure a supply if Portugal became inaccessible. Now the nation has a supply big enough to last two years.

A lot of cork will be needed for life preservers on all those ships the navy is building. Other important uses: Stoppers, insulation, and gaskets and washers.

BUSINESS OF MAKING MONEY IS VERY GOOD, MINT FIGURES SHOW

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—The money making business is very good, thank you.

That was the report from the United States mints, as they disclosed today that new coins are rolling out of the stamping machines faster than ever. By working 24 hours a day, seven days a week, the mints have pounded out 1,151,575,000 American and 207,003,500 foreign coins in the last nine months—about 20 per cent more than in the similar period last year, when previous records were doubled. Circulation of coins jumped from 604 to 699 millions in the last year.

The big rush is for pennies and nickels. Slot machines and sales taxes have been boosting the need for these.

Calls Chicago Big Ordnance Making Center

The Chicago district is now producing a variety, quantity and quality of ordnance equipment which would amaze its citizens were they fully acquainted with the details, Col. Donald Armstrong, executive officer for the Chicago ordnance district, told the American Railway Development association in the Palmer House yesterday.

Stating that the factories in the district are now on a production basis after the months required for preparation, Col. Armstrong said that whereas the first carload shipment was made in January, 1941, the district is now shipping 200 cars a week. He predicted that within a year the total will be at the rate of 400 cars or more a week. These totals do not include less than carload shipments.

Priorities Delaying Some.

He said the country is ahead of schedule on 30 per cent of its ordnance orders, about even on another 15 per cent and from one to seven or eight weeks behind on the remainder. The reason for the ordnance delays has been in part the result of priorities on machine tools given air and naval orders.

Col. Armstrong said another factor has been the advisability of changing designs and specifications in certain instances.

"We know as well as the manufacturer that changes in specifications are extremely annoying," Col. Armstrong said. "But when we learn from army observers abroad that by certain changes we can make a tank more effective we are going to make the change. Of course, where too great a delay would result we put over the change to the introduction of a new model."

Denies Guns Are Obsolete.

Col. Armstrong denied reports that the army is equipped with obsolete ordnance. It is true, he said, that we haven't as many 105 mm. howitzers as we need, but congress failed to appropriate the money to buy them. He said the present 75 mm. cannon when properly mounted are one of the most effective weapons in existence against tanks. Discussing anti-aircraft guns, he said the Link-Belt company of Chicago is developing one of the most powerful in existence.

The American Railway Development association elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Joseph M. Hurley, Middletown, N. Y., president; Earle G. Reed, Omaha, first vice president; E. J. Leenhouts, Rochester, N. Y., second vice president, and H. C. Millman, Chicago, secretary-treasurer.

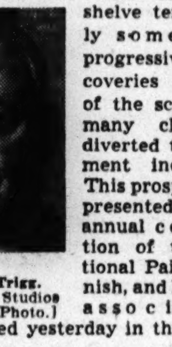
Scarcity May Force Shift in Paint Making



Ernest T. Trigg.

The paint and varnish industry may have to turn the clock back and shelve temporarily some of its progressive discoveries because of the scarcity of many chemicals diverted to armament industries. This prospect was presented to the annual convention of the National Paint, Varnish, and Lacquer association, which opened yesterday in the Drake hotel.

J. B. Davis, chief of the protective coatings section of the Office of Production Management, told more than 700 representatives of the industry that they may have to revive their formulas of the '20s and depend more and more on linseed oil and white lead. He said that alkyd-resins and other new types of protective coatings developed by chemical research were scarce.

Trigg Addresses Meeting.

The same note was sounded by Ernest T. Trigg, president of the association, who observed:

"Many of us remember when we did not know of titanium as a paint pigment or of synthetic resins or even tung oil. But we made good paint. As the current situation continues and possibly becomes worse, we will undoubtedly have to revive some of our old formulas."

Because of the scarcity of raw materials, Trigg said, unjustifiable price advances have occurred. He attributed this to the competitive bids of consumers forced to pay any price to maintain their businesses.

"Instances have been brought to our attention," he reported, "where such materials have been sold at or more than double the market price of the producers.

Warns of Fictitious Market.

"These practices if continued will inevitably result in a fictitious market to the disadvantage of the industry and the public."

The industry is becoming increasingly dependent on linseed oil because of its inability to get adequate supplies of tung and perilla oils from the orient, said Werner G. Smith, Cleveland, O., manufacturer.

Smith estimated that out of a 1941 domestic flax crop of 32 million bushels, about 21 million bushels will be available in the form of linseed oil. Twenty-five to 30 million bushels, he said, will have to be imported from South America.

Reports 3 Chicago Dealers Will Refund on Scrap Sales

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—Price Administrator Leon Henderson said today that three Chicago sellers of iron and steel scrap and a broker-dealer in Cleveland had agreed to refund to buyers all amounts collected since Sept. 2 in excess of ceiling prices on such scrap. Names of the firms were not disclosed.

Viner Favors Higher Security Taxes.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

An American adaptation of the "forced savings" scheme by which Great Britain is helping finance its war costs was urged yesterday by Dr. Jacob Viner, special adviser to the treasury department.

He proposed that the United States put the plan into effect thru a "drastic" extension of the social security program, said the step would accomplish the same purpose as the British scheme and could be readily adapted to the existing federal tax system.

Viner said the American version of the British method should be properly described as a plan of "enforced lending" to the government rather than forced savings.

Would Realize Return.

Those contributing increased social security taxes, he asserted, would eventually get a return in the form of unemployment and old age benefits.

Viner, a professor of economics at the University of Chicago, made his proposal in a speech at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Palmer House. He emphasized that he spoke as an individual and not for the treasury department. He has been consulted frequently by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. on fiscal matters. A plan such as Viner proposed has been under consideration by the treasury, it is known, but details have not been made public.

The plan he proposes, Viner said, would give the treasury a ready method of recovering in taxes some of the increased national income resulting from armament spending.

Two Groups Benefit.

The groups getting the biggest share of the increased national income, he said, are now making no substantial contribution to federal taxes. The two groups benefited most, he said, are workers earning up to $1,500 a year and farmers who pay little or nothing in federal taxes.

Extension of the social security tax system was one of several anti-inflation proposals made by Viner. Other proposals included the creation of special government securities for sale to investors other than banks to lessen treasury dependence on banks in its borrowing.

For its influence on the national morale, he suggested a cut in nonarmament expenditures, saying such a step would indicate the administration is in earnest in trying to stop inflation.

Discounts Practical Value.

He discounted the practical effect of such a cut, however, asserting the one or two billion dollars a year that could be saved would not be a real factor unless state and local governments made corresponding economies.

Further raising of income tax rates, Viner said, would strike with particular severity at some points without accomplishing the results desired. Higher individual and corporation tax rates, he asserted, might even curtail tax revenues from some sources.

USHA Head Accuses Palmer of Delaying Defense Housing

Assail Defense Aids

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—Controversy over the defense housing program exploded before an investigating committee and on the senate floor today, with one government official accusing another of "criminal" delay while the chairman of the committee assailed Sidney Hillman for his part in the so-called "Currier case."

Administration dissension over the housing program was brought into the open by Nathan Straus, administrator of the United States Housing authority, who testified that an effort to use "new and untried devices" for administering the program had produced a dozen agencies, "more or less competing with each other."

Calls Needs Desperate.

Straus decried "a delay that is criminal due to the interference by the defense housing coördinator [Charles F. Palmer]" and predicted "the most desperate housing conditions in defense centers this winter, dangerous congestion—all of which could have been avoided if there had been an early enough recognition of the real housing need and if the tested machinery of established housing agencies had been used to meet that need."

As a result of divided and inexperienced administration, Straus told the committee, there had been wrong location of projects, incorrect rent schedules, and "bewilderment" of the communities served.

Palmer, he said, was "playing havoc with the whole priorities situation," because of his "desire to expand his operating functions and his predisposition toward private housing."

He told the committee that Palmer had unnecessarily required submission of USHA priority applications to the coördinator before they were approved by OPM.

"As a matter of fact," Straus said, "the housing coördinator is now holding up applications for priorities on 83 projects which are urgently needed for defense workers."

Shortly after Straus made these statements before the senate committee investigating the armament program, Chairman Harry S. Truman [D.-Mo.], took the senate floor to declare that if Hillman, associate director general of the Office of Production Management, "can't or won't protect the interests of the United States, I am in favor of replacing him with some one who can or will."

Assails Hillman Stand.

He made the assertion while reviewing the committee's investigation of the failure of the Federal Works agency to award a Wayne, Mich., defense housing contract to the Currier Lumber company, Detroit, the low bidder.

Truman related that Hillman recommended against an award to the Currier company, employer of CIO workmen, because he feared labor trouble from "irresponsible elements" of the American Federation of Labor.

PRODUCTION OF POWER REACHES LEVEL 15% ABOVE WEEK IN 1940

Output of electric power in the United States increased 0.8 per cent during last week to 3,299,120,000 kilowatt hours, a level 15.1 per cent above that of the corresponding 1940 week, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday.

Production of the Commonwealth Edison group of companies in the Chicago area was 154,211,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 9.6 per cent over last year.

TAX BOOST CUTS INLAND STEEL'S 3D QUARTER NET

Profits Are Larger for 9 Months.

Because its federal tax bill was more than 2½ times as large as last year, September quarter profits of Inland Steel company and subsidiaries declined substantially from profits in the corresponding quarter last year, the company's statement of earnings showed yesterday.

The large Chicago producer earned $3,675,724, on $2.25 a share, compared with $4,918,818, or $3.02 a share, in the 1940 period. The corporation set aside $5,871,297 to meet federal income and excess profits taxes, compared with $2,125,797 in the 1940 September quarter.

Indicated profits for the first nine months of the year, however, were higher. In the 1941 period the company earned $11,247,342, or $6.89 a share, compared with $9,888,484, or $6.07 a share, in the first nine months last year.

Other Steel Firms Report.

Two other steel makers reported September quarter results. Taxes cut net earnings of the American Rolling Mills company, while profit of Wheeling Steel corporation was larger.

Studebaker corporation, South Bend, Ind., which had a net loss of $499,814 in the third quarter of last year, reported a consolidated net profit of $702,304, or 32 cents a share, in the 1941 September quarter.

For the first nine months of the year the corporation earned $2,016,180, or 91 cents a share, compared with net income of $457,495, or 21 cents a share, in the corresponding 1940 period.

Making Trucks for Army.

Factory sales for the quarter were 28,769 cars and trucks, compared with 19,748 in the 1940 September quarter, the report said. In the rearmament field, Studebaker reported a "substantial daily output" of six wheel drive trucks for the government and said all possible speed is being made in completing three airplane engine plants at a cost of 50 million dollars.

American Rolling Mill company reported third quarter profit of $1,547,784, or 36 cents a common share, compared with $1,804,512, or 45 cents a share, in the September quarter last year. The 1941 figure, however, is after deducting accrued additional

PRIORITIES PROBLEMS

THE transition of the American business scene from an "economy of plenty" to an "economy of scarcity" has brought in its train a host of problems which industry has not encountered for many years. In consequence, the business man, faced with the urgent necessity of finding adequate answers to demands placed on him by this abrupt change, frequently finds that in spite of his years of experience, the task of planning his future course is extremely difficult.

The role of credit, and of allied banking functions, is often a vital one to the industrial organizations in this new business world. That is why we, at American National, feel that the cooperation of a business-minded bank can be of substantial value to industrialists today. That many business executives in the Chicago area concur in this belief is indicated by the growing number of corporations and individual enterprises serviced by this institution.

MARKET IGNORES CHEERFUL NEWS IN STOCK SLUMP

Only Few Favored Issues Able to Advance.

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Giving scarcely a nod to a budget of favorable business news the stock market traveled a bit farther today on the downward course it has followed most of October.

Speculative contingents again seemed preoccupied with the intangibles on the adverse side—widespread labor disputes, Russia's chances of staving off defeat, this country's chances of becoming more deeply involved in the war, and pessimism on taxes.

A number of stocks were bought at higher prices in response to constructive developments directly affecting them.

Market Average Falls.

The Associated Press 60 stock average closed with a decline of .3 of a point at 40.8. This carried the composite to within .4 of a point of the lowest level since June 6. Transfers amounted to 552,350 shares, against 559,730 yesterday.

Wheeling Steel climbed a point on the declaration of a $1.25 dividend, and announcement of larger profit. International Silver pushed up 1¾ to 1941 high on announcement of a $4 dividend, compared with preceding payments of $1.

A less auspicious development was a cut in the United Gas Improvement common dividend. The stock dipped fractionally to a year's low. Homestake Mining, American Tobacco, and United States Gypsum were others reaching low territory for 1941.

CHICAGO TREND DOWN.

The price trend was slightly lower on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, with the three top volume leaders among those declining. Thirty issues advanced, 43 declined and 23 closed unchanged. Transactions totaled 31,000 shares.

Volume leaders were Chicago corporation, 6,700 shares, off 1-16 to ⅛; Middle West, 3,150 shares, off ⅛ to 4; Edison, 2,500 shares, off ½ to 22¾; Westinghouse Electric, 1,050 shares, up ⅝ to 73, and Central Illinois Securities, 1,000 shares, unchanged at ⅛.

In the last half hour, after the New York close, National Bond & Investment declined ¼ and Standard Oil of Indiana declined ⅛.

HOPE TO REPORT PRICE RULE BILL BY END OF WEEK

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP). — Sentiment in the house banking committee for universal price control legislation appeared today to be waning and members reported that if any wage controls were included they would be liberal.

After an all day session behind closed doors, members said the committee made no definite decisions on any part of the legislation. Nevertheless, Chairman Henry B. Steagall [D., Ala.] said he still was hopeful of completing committee action this week.

Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott [R., Mich.], senior minority member, said he believed the Republicans on the committee virtually agreed that there would be no interference with existing machinery for the regulation of either labor or farm prices.

URGES CONTINUED USE OF ADS TO KEEP UP OUTLETS

Augustus E. Giegengack, head of the government printing office in Washington, D. C., said yesterday that manufacturers and merchants should continue to advertise to keep customers' good will, altho arms requirements may reduce production and supply of goods below demand. He addressed the United Typothetae of America banquet which closed its three day session in the Palmer house. Civilian sales will be all important after the emergency is over, and, thru advertising, contacts can be retained, he said.

The supply of printing paper in the United States within the next year will fall approximately 20 per cent below the combined military and civilian needs, Giegengack predicted.

N. Y. Trap Rock Announces Sale of Refunding Bonds

The New York Trap Rock corporation announced that thru Smith, Barney & Co. $3,500,000 in first mortgage 4 per cent 10 year sinking fund bonds had been placed with an institutional investor. It will redeem $3,040,000 of 6 per cent bonds and $293,500 of 7 per cent debentures on Dec. 1.

Securities Offerings

Asbury Park, N. J., yesterday awarded $10,230,000 in refunding bonds to an underwriting group headed by B. J. Van Ingen & Co. on a bid of 96.01. The bonds, bearing 3½ per cent interest and due from 1942-'72, were reoffered at varying prices.

Commodities

Cotton futures closed 45 to 55 cents a bale higher yesterday following reports that farm price control might be omitted from the pending price ceiling legislation. An early wave of buying carried prices up as much as $1.15 a bale, but profit taking sales erased more than half the gains. Cottonseed oil futures closed 0.18 to 9.19 cent higher.

Coffee futures declined 0.07 to 0.13 cent a pound, and world sugar ended 0.04 cent a pound higher to 0.01 cent lower. Wool and hides were slightly lower, and cocoa was unchanged to 0.01 cent a pound higher.

DIXON ELECTRIC POWER PLANT TO GET NEW BIG UNIT

Boost Capacity of Chicago Area Companies.

Installation of a turbo-generator of 50,000 kilowatts capacity at the Illinois Northern Utilities company's Dixon plant has been added to the expansion program of the Commonwealth Edison group of companies, Charles Y. Freeman, Commonwealth Edison chairman, announced last night.

The new unit, to be completed in December, 1943, will cost about 6 million dollars and will increase the Dixon generating station's rated capacity to 68,500 kilowatts. It will be used primarily to strengthen the western section of the utility's system, a section where demand for electricity has shown rapid growth, Freeman said.

Sixth to Be Added.

The new generator is the sixth in the announced expansion program for 1941, 1942, and 1943. These six turbo-generator units will have a rated capacity of about 435,000 kilowatts.

The other turbo-generator projects, previously announced, include: Northwest station, Chicago, 50,000 kilowatts, to be completed this year; Fisk station, Chicago, 150,000 kilowatts, to be completed in 1942; Fisk station, Chicago, 150,000 kilowatts, to be completed in 1943; Joliet station, 25,000 kilowatts, to be completed this year; Aurora station, 12,500 kilowatts, to be completed in 1942.

Capacity Far Above Peak.

Effective generating capacity of the system now is about 2,075,000 kilowatts, compared with a peak load last winter of 1,600,000 kilowatts, Freeman said.

The capacity has been increased 92,000 kilowatts this year. Placing three new high pressure boilers into service at Northwest station, Chicago, added 62,000 kilowatts, and increasing the efficiency of Crawford station, Chicago, added the other 30,000 kilowatts of new capacity.

Exchange Accepts Listing of More Standard Oil Stock

New York, Oct. 29 [Special].—The New York Stock exchange announced today it has authorized the listing of 14,148 additional capital shares of Standard Oil Company of Indiana upon official notice of issuance pursuant to an agreement of merger with the Pan American Southern corporation, a 99 per cent owned subsidiary. Also authorized for listing were 15,863 additional common shares of Florence Stove company, issuable under terms of an employé stock subscription plan.

RESERVE BANKS RAISE WAGES WHILE URGING OTHERS NOT TO DO SO

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—Federal reserve officials confessed today they were embarrassed because they were planning to raise the wages of hundreds of lower paid employés thruout the country. Worried about possible inflation, leaders of the federal reserve system lately have been preaching about the dangers of excessive wage increases which they say might be a contributing factor to inflation.

But, said the officials, the federal reserve banks have been losing so many of their trained clerical help that they had to choose between higer wages and disorganization of the work of these banks, which are the official bankers for the United States treasury and about 6,000 commercial banks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 29.—A bill authorizing President Fulgencio Batista to conclude negotiations for a 25 million dollar loan from the Export-Import bank of Washington, D. C., was approved by the Cuban senate today. The measure is scheduled to be approved by the house tomorrow.

To repay the loan and pay interest of 4½ per cent annually, the bill provides a tax of one quarter of 1 per cent on gross sales and incomes, a tax of 16 cents on each bag of sugar, 50 per cent of the revenues from aqueducts in various interior cities, and the income from tariffs to be applied in connection with works to be carried out with the loan.

Day by Day on the Farm

By GAIL COMPTON

Jack Frost Arrives.

[Tomorrow's story about the farm will be the last until early spring, when the daily reports on farm activities will be resumed.]

Oct. 29, 1941.

A HARD, killing frost blanketed the farm the other night, and now the workers are busy "battening down the hatches" for winter. The frost stole thru the flower garden. It pinched the hearts of the dahlias. Now the blooms droop on their frosted stems, lifeless and colorless.

Leaves in drifts along the fences and hedges were frosted during early morning hours but glistened with moisture as the late morning sun touched them. A thin rim of ice girdled the ponds at dawn, but this, too, vanished with the sun.

And Sudden Death.

The half doors at the stable, open all summer to let the horses enjoy the sun's warmth, now are closed and fastened. Dry corn stalks rustle as nippy fall breezes sweep down the rows. The workers, in wool hunting hats and heavy jackets, hustle about their early morning chores, their breath frosting before them.

The swift death that accompanies the first hard frost of the year is plainly evident in the flower garden. The flower beds, once colorful patches of bright blooms, now are masses of dead stems and browning flower heads. Soon the gardener will start to dig the dahlia and other bulbs for winter storage.

The horses and cattle are starting to show their winter coats. The once close clipped, well groomed shorthorn heifers look shaggy and rough. But after the warm, lazy days of summer, when the animals spent their time lounging in the shade, the crisp autumn air has put new life into the stock.

Seen Anything Green?

The steers are out in the woods ranging over fallen leaves and eating anything that looks green. The sheep move with unaccustomed speed about their pasture. The turkeys at the flockmaster's house are stepping lively these days, being careful to skirt the chopping block. They gobble at each other continuously.

The frost's arrival coincides with the last of our daily reports from the Du Page county farm. Not much to write about from now on, anyway. Nice timing, Jack Frost! Nice timing!

EXTRA DIVIDEND OF $1 DECLARED BY INLAND STEEL

Am. Tobacco Reduces Payment to 75c.

Directors of the Inland Steel company, Chicago, yesterday declared an extra dividend of $1 and duplicated regular dividends of $1 paid in preceding quarters. Dividends authorized to date in 1941 total $5 a share, the amount paid last year.

The American Tobacco company ordered 75 cent dividends on common and common B shares, against quarterly payments of $1.25 made since 1931. The board's action was forecast by George W. Hill, president, who notified stockholders recently that he would recommend such a payment because of increasing taxes.

Silver Firm Pays More.

The Universal Consolidated Oil company, Los Angeles, Cal., announced a 75 cent dividend, against 25 cents in July. Payments this year total $1, double the amount paid last year.

U. S. to Buy Canned Citrus Products to Give British

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—The department of agriculture announced today it planned to buy the equivalent of nearly 4 million boxes of citrus fruit products for domestic relief programs and for shipment to Great Britain. Purchases, to be made from the 1941-'42 crop, will consist largely of canned grapefruit, grapefruit juice, grapefruit pulp, concentrated orange juice, and orange pulp.

METAL CONCERNS TELL EFFECTS OF PRIORITIES CURBS

Survey Shows Many Have to Curtail Operations.

Metal working companies more and more are feeling the extent of priorities, Iron Age reported yesterday on the basis of answers received to a questionnaire seeking to show the effects of priorities on both armament and civilian industries. Of 1,500 replies received, 403 companies said they have curtailed operations because of priorities, while 912 declared that so far they have not yet suffered because of them.

There were 497 companies which reported a shortage of steel, not necessarily reducing operations, but in some cases slashing inventories.

Need Sheets and Plates.

"Evidently the flood of priority ratings is keeping steel away from a large number of nondefense and some defense plants which might profitably use the excess material being directed to some priority favored steel consuming plants," the paper said.

Indicating the types of steel in which there are shortages, 50 companies reported a need of sheets and 26 others a lack of plates.

"In the steel industry, priority ratings constitute such a large percentage of current shipments that steel officials find the ratings are nullifying themselves," Iron Age continued. "Complaints of slow deliveries are reaching the mills in greater number, with the answer always the same—higher ratings held back the material in question."

Coal Strike Cuts Output.

It was estimated, however, that continuance of the strike in captive coal mines would reduce ingot production by 55,000 tons for the United States Steel corporation alone, including 11,000 tons for the Youngstown district, 14,000 in Chicago, and 30,000 in Pittsburgh.

Iron Age estimated steel operations in midweek were at 94¼ per cent of plant capacity, down 2 points from last week. The Pittsburgh rate dropped 9 points to 90 per cent, and the Chicago rate declined 8½ points to 93½ per cent.

STATE RETAILERS OPPOSE CHANGES IN JOB INSURANCE

Protests against proposals for revision of the federal social security law to federalize the unemployment compensation system now administered by the states were sent yesterday by the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations to Chairman Robert L. Doughton of the house ways and means committee and to Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator.

J. T. Meek, executive secretary of the association, told Representative Doughton [D., N. C.] that the individual states should retain the responsibility for developing the unemployment compensation program and asked that consideration of any transfer of complete control to the federal government be delayed indefinitely. In his message to McNutt, Meek said that the functioning of the system in Illinois has been satisfactory and that no change is needed.

Approve Plan to List Joy Manufacturing Shares Here

The Chicago Stock exchange announced yesterday it has approved the application of Joy Manufacturing company, Franklin, Pa., to list 384,100 shares of $1 par common stock, which will be admitted to trading as soon as the registration statement filed with the Securities and Exchange commission becomes effective.

PAPER 6S OF '55.

I am interested in International Paper 6s of '55 and would appreciate data on this issue—H. J. E.

Answer: International Paper company refunding mortgage sinking fund 6 per cent bonds, series A, due March 1, 1955, were outstanding in the amount of $13,710,000 at the end of 1940. The company called $407,500 of this issue Sept. 1. The 6s are secured by a mortgage on all pulp and paper mills and real estate owned by the company and capital stock of certain subsidiaries. This issue is junior in lien to $14,135,000 of first and refunding mortgage 5s of 1947. The 5s of '47 have been assumed by the Hudson River Power corporation as to principal, interest, and sinking fund payment, but the bonds still remain as obligations of International Paper.

On Sept. 25, stockholders of International Paper and Power company, a holding company which controled International Paper, approved a plan for elimination of International Paper and Power. Shareholders and warrant holders were given corresponding securities of a new New York corporation taking the name International Paper company. The original International Paper company was to be consolidated into the new corporation.

The International Paper organization is the largest manufacturer of pulp, paper, board and paper products in the world. International Paper company had heavy losses from 1931 thru 1935. Business improved substantially in 1936 and 1937, but net income took a severe drop in 1938. In 1939 net income was again on a high level at $5,090,465 and increased to $15,795,649 in 1940. Despite the losses, the company covered its fixed charges an average of 1.49 times for the 10 years thru 1940.

NO LIABILITY.

Do cumulative dividends in arrears constitute a liability against a company so far as its balance sheet is concerned?—F. K.

Answer: Dividends in arrears do not constitute a liability until declared for payment. Unless declared, such accumulations are not shown as liabilities on the balance sheet, altho often the arrears are stated in a note.

SUCCESSOR.

What became of the Follansbee Brothers company?—E. G.

Reports Profit Gains for Nine Months.

Net earnings for the first nine months were $8,215,760, or $2.33 a common share, compared with $3,889,110, or 82 cents a share, in the corresponding 1940 period.

Expects Tax of 14 Millions.

Charles B. Hook, president, estimated American Rolling Mills' 1941 tax bill will total 14 million dollars, compared with $4,734,000 last year.

Wheeling Steel reported a September quarter profit of $1,878,355, or $2.50 a share, compared with $1,611,108, or $1.99 a common share, in the corresponding 1940 period.

Altho the federal tax bill for the first nine months of the year was about four times as large as last year, Wheeling Steel's net earnings for the period were doubled. They amounted to $6,567,551, or $9.10 a share, compared with $3,275,186, or $3.23 a share, in the corresponding period last year. The tax bill totaled $4,112,182, compared with $1,010,749 in the first nine months last year.

12 Tankers Loaned Britain Ready to Resume U.S. Runs

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—The petroleum coördination office announced today that 12 United States tankers had completed their British service and are ready to resume normal American operations, including the movement of oil to the east coast. Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes, the petroleum coördinator, announced last week that 40 of the 80 to 100 tankers borrowed by the British would be returned by Nov. 30 and simultaneously lifted all restrictions on gasoline in the east.

PROFITS RISE DESPITE TAX BOOSTS, SURVEY OF 240 FIRMS SHOWS

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Profits of the first 240 companies to report for the third quarter of 1941 were 38 per cent larger than for the same period a year ago, a compilation by the Associated Press disclosed today.

Many companies, hit by heavier taxes, showed smaller earnings than a year ago, but the vast majority reported bigger profits, even after deducting huge taxes and substantial reserves for contingencies.

Total net earnings for the 240 companies were $383,906,000, compared with $278,471,000 in the third quarter of 1940.

Third quarter earnings of industries for which a sufficient number of companies have reported to afford comparisons were as follows [000 omitted]:

16	petroleum	$ 23,673	$10,345	+128.8
19	railroad	63,665	33,918	+ 87.7

While virtually every industry showed larger profits, it was noticeable that the gain was concentrated to a great extent in a few lines. Profits of the entire 240 companies rose 105 million dollars, but 70 million dollars of this increase was accounted for by 19 railroads, 16 petroleum companies and General Motors.

DPC AUTHORIZES 11 MILLION MORE TO ARM PLANTS

Authorization of the purchase of $410,565 of machinery to be used by the Aetna Ball Bearing Manufacturing company in Chicago to make airplane equipment was among approximately 11 million dollars of lease agreements announced yesterday by the Defense Plant corporation in Washington, D. C.

The largest authorization was $8,590,957 for construction and equipment of an aircraft equipment factory at Detroit, Mich., to be leased to Vickers, Inc. The company previously had received a commitment for a $1,436,721 plant.

Upon recommendation from the Office of Production Management, the DPC agreed to finance the purchase of $969,050 in equipment to be employed by the Babcock and Wilcox Tube company, Beaver Falls, Pa., in producing alloy steel ingots. The expansion would increase the company's alloy steel ingot capacity by 18,000 tons a year and annealing capacity by 21,600 tons.

Award of a $9,489,570 contract for guns to General Motors corporation, Detroit, was announced by the war department. Among other contract announced were:

General Time Instrument corporation, Westclox division, La Salle, Ill., fuses, $965,000; E. I. du Pont de Nemours and company, Wilmington, Del., explosive to be manufactured at Barksdale, Wis., $1,512,500; Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company, Butler, Pa., shells, $945,000.

Priority Control Ordered for Chlorinated Rubber

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—All stocks and sales of chlorinated rubber today were ordered under priority control by Director Donald M. Nelson of the Office of Production Management priorities division. Nelson told producers they could make deliveries only at his order. Chlorinated rubber is produced by the Hercules Powder company at Wilmington, Del., and the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, Akron, O. It is used in alkali and acid resisting paints, electric insulation, and for other purposes.

SOY BEANS RUSH UP 6 CENTS; ALL GRAINS ADVANCE

Wheat and Corn Gain Over 1½ Cents.

(Grain tables on page 30.)

Rapid changes in the character of reports regarding price control measures now being considered by congress kept the grain markets in an uproar yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Most of the trading was done by large operators, but the undertone was decidedly firm, and all grains finished about the top.

Soy beans led the advance and closed 5¼ to 6 cents higher, while wheat rose 1½ to 1⅝ cents with December at $1.14¾ a bushel. Corn finished at gains of 1½ to 1¾ cents, and oats and rye were about 1 cent higher. Lard was 12½ to 17½ cents per hundred pounds higher.

Wickard Stand No Surprise.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard announced that he was opposed to full parity loans to farmers, but this had been anticipated and had only a small effect on the market. A later report that some congressional leaders would seek to exclude a ceiling on farm products from the price control bill brought in buying of futures.

Tells Effect on Production.

"The whole 'food-for-defense' program is based upon the 85 per cent loan level," Wickard said in Washington. "A change in that rate would upset the program because of its effect upon corn prices."

Wickard said a 100 per cent parity loan could be expected to boost feed prices and discourage farmers from going ahead with increased production plans.

Rain or snow is forecast for a large part of the corn and soy bean producing areas. Harvesting of beans has been delayed for some time by wet weather.

SCULLY-JONES BUYS LAND FOR TOOL EXPANSION

First steps in a large industrial building program were taken yesterday by Scully-Jones company, tool makers, 1901 South Rockwell street, with the purchase for a reported $80,000 of a 12 acre tract at the southwest corner of Damen avenue and West 74th street, from the Damen Avenue Industrial corporation. Part of the land is improved with a one story building, containing 67,000 square feet of floor space. It is occupied by Crooks Terminal Warehouses, Inc., which has been given 60 days' notice to move.

J. A. Scully, president of Scully-Jones company, is in Washington, negotiating, it was said, for federal aid in financing a big addition to the building just purchased. The new plant will be operated by the Scully Machinery Equipment company, recently formed subsidiary of Scully-Jones company. Tools for rearmament plants will be made at the new plant, it is understood.

GROUP RESUMES DRIVE TO RAISE HOME PRIORITIES

The Chicago Plan commission decided yesterday to renew its effort to persuade the Office of Production Management to raise the priority limit on "defense housing" construction from the present $6,000 to $7,500.

The OPM now grants priority on materials for the building of homes for rearmament workers in the vicinity of arms plants. But the total cost of land and construction must not exceed $6,000.

Theodore T. McCrosky, executive director of the commission, said that it is next to impossible to buy a lot and build a house in Chicago for $6,000. McCrosky said costs could be reduced, however, by eliminating unnecessary regulations in the city building code.

Railroads' Nine Month Net Income 6 Times 1940 Level

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—Class 1 railroads' estimated net income, after interest and rentals, was $358,582,763 in the first nine months of 1941, compared with $58,598,060 a year ago, the Association of American Railroads reported today. The September total was placed at $59,300,735, against $30,732,608 last year.

ASSERTS MO-KAN PIPE CONTROL IS SOUGHT BY TRUST

European Utility Groups Named by Voorhis.

A new turn in the tangled legal affairs of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company was interjected yesterday by Congressman Jerry Voorhis [D., Cal.] in a letter to the federal District court declaring that a big European utility trust is attempting to gain control of a 75 million dollar mid-continent natural gas pipeline system.

Voorhis supported his letter with a report prepared by Meyer Fink, a Chicago attorney representing the Public Ownership League of America. The letter and the report were ordered incorporated in court files by Federal Judge William H. Holly who has jurisdiction over Mo-Kan litigation.

Panhandle Rule Called Goal.

Fink's report said that the European trust, known as Sofina [Societe Financiere de Transports et d'Entreprises Industrielle], which reportedly owns utility properties on the continent and has headquarters in Lisbon, Portugal, has been seeking stock control of Mo-Kan, thru which it could dominate the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company. Mo-Kan has a 42 per cent stock interest in Panhandle.

Implicated by the report of Sofina's alleged plan to seize Panhandle is Frank P. Parish, president of Mo-Kan in 1932 when it was forced into receivership. Parish is accused of involvement in what Fink described as efforts of Sofina to oust the present management of Mo-Kan as a step in its plan to win control.

Accounting Suit Pending.

Parish, who in 1935 was acquitted of mail fraud charges arising from his management of Mo-Kan, is accused of dissipating the company's assets in a 6 year old accounting suit for $18,303,000 still pending before Judge Holly. The suit was brought by the Mo-Kan receiver. A hearing in the case is scheduled for Nov. 18 before Master in Chancery John R. Heath.

Fink's report includes a purported deposition by William G. Maguire, president of Mo-Kan, relating a conference with Parish on April 23, 1940. It declared Parish offered to reveal the identity of the group trying to oust the Maguire management in return for a dismissal of the accounting suit, but the offer was rejected.

EXTENDS WASTE PAPER CEILING TO COVER 34 GRADES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—Ceiling prices on waste paper were extended today to cover 34 grades instead of 23, and provision was made to grant jobbers allowances ranging from 4 to 9 per cent above the ceiling for performing jobbing services.

The differential to jobbers was intended to stimulate the collection of waste paper, Price Administrator Leon Henderson said in announcing the amended schedule.

Henderson warned that householders, office buildings and other primary sources of waste paper must sell at less than ceiling prices in order that final sales to consumers may be within the price ceiling.

Forty-four waste and scrap materials included by the United States bureau of labor statistics in a special study are being quoted at prices averaging 65½ per cent above those prevailing at the outbreak of the war, it was announced today.

Zinc Producers Ordered to Pool 31 Pct. of Output

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29 (AP).—The Office of Production Management priorities division today ordered producers of metallic zinc to set aside during November an amount equal to 31 per cent of their August production. From this reserve pool the division will, if necessary, allocate supplies of zinc into arms production. Producers also were ordered to set aside next month an amount of zinc oxide equivalent to 10 per cent of August production.

BIG INVESTMENT DEMAND BUOYS PRICES OF BONDS

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Broad investment demand for high-priced corporates and United States government bonds kept prices moving higher in today's market. The low-yield group in the Associated Press averages hit another historic high at 115.0.

Gains in United States governments ranged to 12-32 of a point against a few small losses. Dealers reported sustained inquiry from bankers and other institutional investors who did not satisfy their requirements in the recently completed treasury financing program.

WESTINGHOUSE DEBENTURE PLAN GIVEN APPROVAL

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 29 (AP).—Stockholders of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company approved today the company's plan to issue 20 million dollars of unsecured debentures.

Chairman A. W. Robertson said that altho the stockholders authorized an indebtedness of 50 million dollars, the company did not plan to use the balance of the authorized indebtedness at this time.

Additional funds have been provided thru sale of 534,426 additional shares of common stock. This new money, Robertson said, would be used to pay off 21 million dollars borrowed for working capital and the balance will be added to the company's cash.

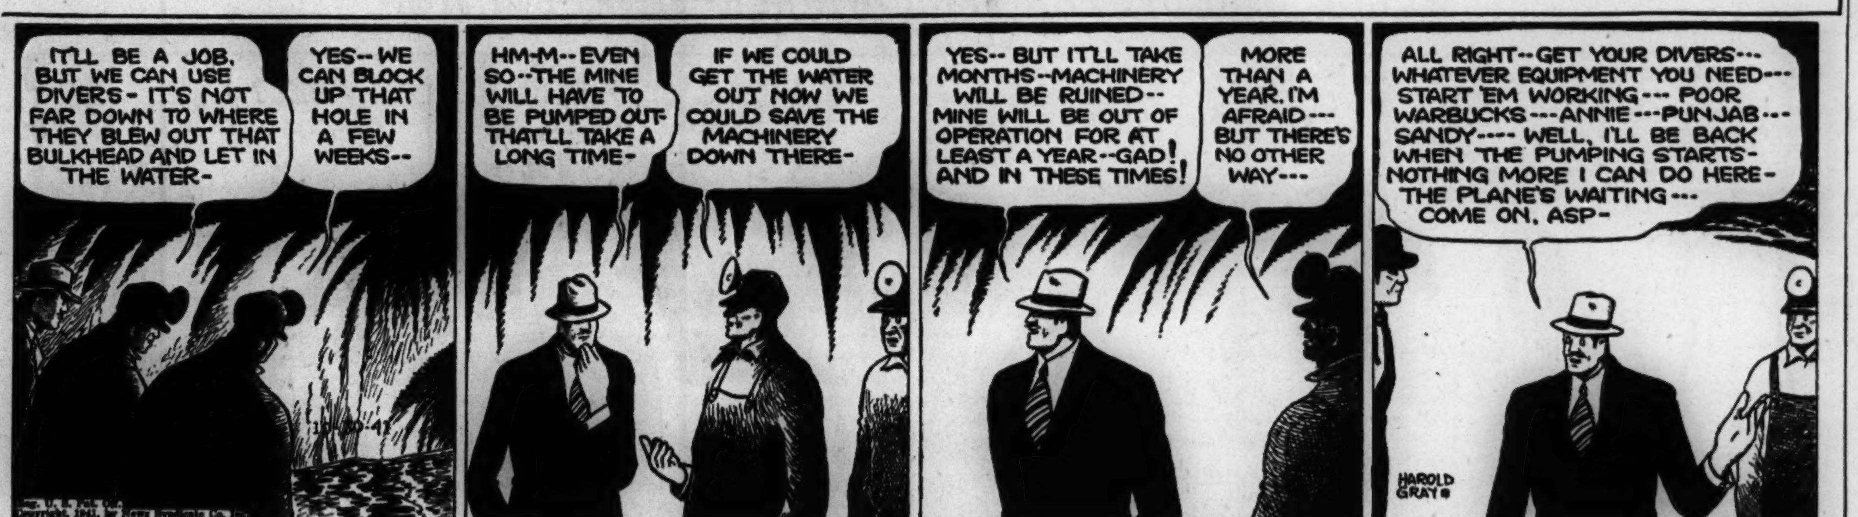
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Water Hole



IT'LL BE A JOB, BUT WE CAN USE DIVERS- IT'S NOT FAR DOWN TO WHERE THEY BLEW OUT THAT BULKHEAD AND LET IN THE WATER-
YES--WE CAN BLOCK UP THAT HOLE IN A FEW WEEKS--
HM-M--EVEN SO--THE MINE WILL HAVE TO BE PUMPED OUT- THAT'LL TAKE A LONG TIME-
IF WE COULD GET THE WATER OUT NOW WE COULD SAVE THE MACHINERY DOWN THERE-
YES-- BUT IT'LL TAKE MONTHS--MACHINERY WILL BE RUINED-- MINE WILL BE OUT OF OPERATION FOR AT LEAST A YEAR--GAD! AND IN THESE TIMES!
MORE THAN A YEAR, I'M AFRAID--- BUT THERE'S NO OTHER WAY---
ALL RIGHT--GET YOUR DIVERS--- WHATEVER EQUIPMENT YOU NEED--- START 'EM WORKING--- POOR WARBUCKS---ANNIE---PUNJAB--- SANDY---- WELL, I'LL BE BACK WHEN THE PUMPING STARTS- NOTHING MORE I CAN DO HERE- THE PLANE'S WAITING--- COME ON, ASP-
